BEACH IRISH AGREEMENT

Midnight Meet is Success.

Terms of Pact to be Given to Press Tomorrow, Says Cabinet Minister.

Ulsterites Sullen as They Leave Premier's Official Residence.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Dec. 6.—It is officially announced that the government and the representatives of the Irish Eireann have reached an agreement, the terms of which will be submitted for the acceptance of Parliament and of the Dail Eireann. A copy of the agreement has been sent to Sir James Craig, Ulster premier.

The session which lasted almost three hours, from 11:15 o'clock last night until 2:20 this morning, was held at 10 Downing street between members of the government cabinet and Irish representatives headed by Arthur Griffith, and a member of the cabinet, replying to a question as to the terms stood, said:

"The news isn't bad; an agreement has, in fact, been reached, the terms of which will be communicated to the press."

Griffith, looked tired and pale as he left the Premier's residence. Asked whether he had anything to say, Michael Collins, Irish Free State Finance Minister, answered:

"I have no statement to make."

Answering the question, "Are you satisfied?" Mr. Collins answered irritably: "I don't know," and slamming the door of his automobile, he drove off with Mr. Griffith and Mr. Barton.

A few minutes later Lord Birkenhead and Mr. Churchill left.

TERMS IS FAVORABLE."

[BY CABLE—HERALD DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The Irish peace terms reached a settlement, according to an official statement given out by a member of the British Cabinet at the conclusion early this morning of a conference at 10 Downing street between members of the British and Irish delegations.

After hearing the Prime Minister's official resistance the Cabinet approved, and then he gave the following official statement:

"An agreement has in fact been reached, the full terms of which is now communicated to the press for publication Wednesday morning."

DE VALERA'S ADDRESS.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

DUBLIN, Dec. 5.—Presented with the freedom of the city today, Eamon De Valera, Sinn Fein leader, in expressing his thanks, declared that Ireland, in its fight for freedom, would not be frightened by threats of war. The July proposals of the British government, he said, had been rejected because they were not what they proposed to be.

"If any foreign army attempted to invade the Sinn Fein from Ireland they were ready to face the consequences as they were a year ago.

He said Mr. De Valera, the only means of resistance would be sufficient to pre-

RESPITE FOR GERMANY.

Near Reparation Agreement.

Allies Probably Will Grant Three-Year Delay in Cash Payments.

British, French Said to Have Reached Understanding on Problem.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Dec. 5.—Germany probably will be granted a three years delay in her cash indemnity payments, the Associated Press is informed from the most reliable sources. Negotiations are going on between reparations officials of France and Great Britain and responsible officials of both countries virtually agree that Germany must be given a breathing spell. All that remains to be done is to work out a scheme acceptable to both countries.

The suggestion of a three-year moratorium has been abandoned at the solicitation of France. The French representatives explained the word moratorium was offensive to the French people in connection with the indemnity as it was understood meaning complete suspension of all payments.

GREAT PROGRESS MADE.

The greatest progress has been made in the last few days in bringing the French and British viewpoints together; the result of this progress has been the decision to give Germany a chance to regain a normal status.

The reparations holiday cannot be used by Germany as a means of evading all future payments. French officials explain that it is being considered so that Germany will better be able after two or three years to fulfill her reparations obligations, and she must then be prepared to pay in full a reasonable indemnity.

The whole problem will be formally placed before the reparations commission when the German reply to the last reparation note is received, probably late this week. In the meantime the officials are working hard to reach a common plan of action. Numerous suggestions are under consideration.

HAVE SEVERAL PLANS.

One receiving considerable French support involves a written guarantee by Germany that:

The budget will be balanced.

No capital shall be exported to foreign countries.

There shall be no policy of retaining capital in foreign countries.

The raising of a loan, a portion of which is to go to the reparations commission.

Continuation and probable increase during the delay of payments in kind. Such a plan would set up an Allied control commission in Berlin to supervise budgetary reforms and have broad powers to effect other financial changes.

It is declared there are no longer any insurmountable difficulties between the two countries on the reparations policy.

The Associated Press is informed that the Supreme Council probably will consider the new situation at a meeting in five or six weeks, when France probably will make a formal demand for a new distribution of the first billion of the indemnity paid last August.

NOTHING TO EAT BUT DUCK.

Oregon Mariners Nearly Starve When Storm Bound; Captain's Wife Walks Home.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 5.—A sea story of adventure and daring, hardship and short rations, was brought to Portland today from no farther away than the Siletz River, a few miles down the Oregon coast. The gasoline schooner Roamer when she arrived, battered and shy her cabin and windows, but none the less staunch and seaworthy for her experience.

The Roamer got into the Siletz when a storm came up and because of a bar could not get out.

Capt. Brown, commander of the Roamer, had taken his wife from Newport, and when the storm threatened the boat, it was decided that Mrs. Brown should go home and she did, afoot. Then came days of beach. A number of various types were in the party, and of the Roamer's crew and others with them, they had not killed ducks for the ship's mess, for a time almost their sole supply of food.

FOUR-POWER PACT MAY SOLVE ARMS PROBLEMS.

Plan of Entente Including America Britain, Japan, France Demanding Attention of Delegates.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The question of a three or four-power agreement to replace the Anglo-Japanese Alliance is demanding increased attention among arms delegates while they wait for Japan to define her position on the naval ratio. The latest suggestion contemplating an entente to include the United States, Great Britain, Japan and France has developed to the point where a tentative treaty draft is under consideration in some quarters, although it has not been formally presented to the conference.

There are indications the Japanese delegates and perhaps the British, are consulting their home governments on such a proposition, while they are asking for further instructions on naval ratio.

AMERICAN ATTITUDE

On the part of the American government, there apparently is no disposition to entertain an entente proposal, at least at present. Later such a suggestion may receive consideration, provided it includes no requirements counter to American public opinion.

Upon high authority it was said today the naval problem as referred to Tokio involves no proposal for a political agreement, but is concerned solely with the naval and military aspects of the situation. The American delegation adheres to its expectation the naval issue will be settled without conditioning the decision on a political rearrangement.

Admiral Baron Kato of the Japanese delegation said tonight, however, the naval question involved issues of far-reaching effect upon the national and international life of Japan and upon the policies of the great powers for decades to come and perhaps permanently. These issues, he said, should be brought to the full knowledge and consideration of his government.

EXPLAINS DELAY.

The delay in presenting Japan's definite position on ratio, he declared, is due wholly to the difficulties of cable communication and the desire of his government to act circumspectly, in so important a decision.

Meantime, the conference outwardly is concerning itself with questions of collateral significance. The committee on draft, headed by Elihu Root, today debated foreign telegraph and radio facilities in China, virtually deciding to bring in a resolution providing that as many of these facilities as exist without treaty sanction shall have only a curtailed use hereafter. The Shantung conversations, proceeding between the Japanese and Chinese, were advanced another step, but developed no important decisions.

PROBLEMS INTERLOCK.

The American belief that the naval question can be settled independently of political issues, apparently is not readily accepted

JAPS BUY WAR SUPPLIES.

Extraordinary Heavy Purchases of Food in Britain; Also Acquire Ships and Aircraft.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The Japanese have been making extraordinarily heavy purchases of food and war supplies from British and other markets during the last month. The wheat market on the Baltic—the London grain exchange—has been almost demoralized by purchases of wheat, first on the American Pacific Coast, which they skimmed, and then in Australia, where they have bought, it is said, 100,000 tons for delivery in December and January.

These figures are impossible of verification in London, as they have bought the wheat for their own ships and there is neither a wheat market nor a freight market to test it by. London dealers, however, say they are well within possibility.

JAP EXPLANATION.

It has been given out by the Japanese that they are buying wheat because of the failure of the rice crop, but Louis Dreyfus & Co., one of the largest grain dealers in the world, which made a special inquiry in Japan a few days ago, ascertained that they have large stocks not only of rice but of last season's wheat.

I also have been informed that the Japanese have bought 64,000 tons of tramp steamers within the last month in England and it is reported here that they have bought ships from other countries.

From Yorkshire comes news that they have placed large orders for khaki in Bradford, which has enabled the mills, idle for months, to begin work again.

BUYING AIRCRAFT.

From the Society of British Aircraft Constructors I have learned that the Japanese two or three months ago bought large quantities of aircraft and air material, but not sensibly larger in proportion to their national importance than other nations. Much of this material was war surplus bought from the government two years ago by speculators. They have also placed orders for small airships of observation type.

About three weeks ago the unexplained advance in the price of sterling began in the London and New York markets. The pound, which had been a few cents over $2.70, began to rise steadily until it is now worth over $4. American bankers in London say that they have just learned that there has been steady and unsensational buying which has only now been noticed is for the Japanese account. It is said that the London purchases have been made through the Yokohama Specie Bank and the Bank of Tai Wan. Both of these banks today refused to discuss their clients' business. The sterling, of course, is needed to pay for the purchases.

American officials in London have heard of the purchases of airplanes already mentioned and also of large purchases of phosphates in Germany and Chile. Phosphates are useful either for munitions or fertilizer.

Gun and armor firms such as Vickers and Armstrongs, refuse to discuss their business, but there is no reason to believe that any large orders have been placed there.

When I inquired about the Japanese purchases at the Japanese Embassy I was referred to Capt. Kobayashi, the naval attache, who, it was said, knew all about them. Capt. Kobayashi declared that the wheat had been bought because the rice crop was 3,000,000 bags short and the people had to be fed. He denied the purchases of khaki and aircraft and said if the ships had been bought they had been bought for private interests. He said some of the contracts for armor and shipping materials made before the Washington conference, were now being canceled.

Immodest Dress is Explained by Newark Minister

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEWARK (N. J.) Dec. 5.—A question put to him by a member of his congregation as to when a woman is immodestly dressed, has been answered by the Rev. Dr. Alexander Cairns, pastor of the High-street Presbyterian Church, in this sentence:

"When a woman's dress is so high that you can see her knees; when her neck is so low that the most sophisticated are shocked; when her skirt is as tight as a man full of bootleg whisky; when her arms are seen in all their pristine beauty; when the back of her gown leaves nothing to the imagination—then that woman is immodestly dressed."

The two were being held at Fresno in connection with a robbery at Dinuba.

CONGRESS BACK ON JOB.

Opening Day Passes Peacefully With Senate Resting for Bipartisan Fight Due on Allied Debt Bill.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Congress reassembled today with the usual formal ceremonies and with its legislative course fairly well charted. The opening program was routine, however.

Interest in general was subordinated to President Harding's address, which will be delivered at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow. His recommendations were expected to deal principally with tariff revision, governmental economy and development of the Federal budget system.

Unusual interest in the President's appearance was manifested in view of the assured attendance of arms delegates and attaches. The President today devoted himself to his address.

A large majority of Senators and House members answered the opening roll calls after the ten-day recess following the extra session. The opening gavel sounded the beginning of the first regular session of the Sixty-seventh Congress, which has before it many months of work.

A feature of today's opening was the receipt from President Harding of the first Federal appropriation estimates prepared under the new budget law. The budget proposed for the 1923 fiscal year was $3,505,000,000, a decrease of nearly $500,000,000 from the 1922 outlay and of more than $2,0020,000,000 from current expenditures.

No business was transacted today by either House. Both appointed committees to advise the President and each other of the convening.

The Senate was in session only about twenty minutes, but the House devoted three hours to debate on the St. Lawrence waterway project. The point was raised that the discussion, before receipt of the President's message, was unprecedented, if not discourteous, but the Republican leadership went ahead with the plan for open debate.

Few bills were introduced in the House and none in the Senate.

The first important measure is to be called up tomorrow in the Senate. It is the administration bill for funding the $10,000,000,000 of Allied debts, passed by the House. A bipartisan fight against the bill already is brewing.

Loan Interest Paid by China, Crisis Passes.

PEKING, Dec. 5.—China's financial crisis seems to be passed for the time being. The interest has been paid on the Pacific Development Company's loan and an extension has been granted for a three months' period on the principal. No announcement has been made with regard to the Continental and Commercial National Bank loan but it seems logical to believe that the same procedure has been followed.

POLICE DRAGNET OUT FOR HUSBAND AFTER SHOOTING OF WOMEN

The Los Angeles Harbor police early this morning threw out a dragnet covering all car stations and the water front for Oscar Thompson of 2722 Kercheff street, Los Angeles Harbor, accused of probably fatally wounding his wife and of the slaying of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Fred Howard, visitor in the Thompson home, late last night.

According to Mrs. Thompson's story to the San Pedro police her husband had been in an intoxicated condition for several days and shortly prior to the shooting was not supposed to be at home. A little 4-year-old son of the Thompson's playing around on the floor of the living-room in front of a clothes' closet called to his mother informing her that, "Papa was inside that closet."

Mrs. Thompson, to satisfy the child's insistent declarations opened the closet door and was confronted by Thompson in a drunken condition with an automatic revolver wavering in his hand. Mrs. Thompson told the police her husband snapped the trigger three times without result but on the fourth attempt the revolver fired, the bullet plowing through Mrs. Thompson's arm, which she had raised fro protection and lodged in her lung. The fifth bullet from the automatic struck Mrs. Howard, who had rushed to the aid of her sister in the head, killing her instantly. Thompson, after the shooting, disappeared, eluding all attempts to capture him.

The child, who had pointed out his father's hiding place, was found cowering in a corner unhurt, evidently having been on the floor during the shooting, thus escaping the flying lead.

According to the police Thompson has been arrested several times of late for drunkenness and it is believed that the recent excessive use of liquor had broken down his mind, turning him into a maniac.

Up to an early hour this morning he had not been apprehended despite the extended search that had been made of the harbor district.

PICKET GETS HARD BLOW

Unions Scored by Supreme Court.

Chief Justice Taft, Giving Opinion, Says That All Have Their Rights.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Picketing in connection with a labor strike is unjustifiable if carried to the point of "importunity and dogging" the Supreme Court ruled today.

Decision as to whether specific instances of picketing come within the court's inhibition must be left for determination on the facts in each case, it was declared, but the court suggested that pickets should have the right of "observation, communication and persuasion" and might further be limited to "one representative for each point of ingress and egress."

The opinion of the court, which was read by Chief Justice Taft, was approved by all associate justices except Mr. Clark, who did not state his grounds of dissent.

OPEN SHOP PLANT.

The case arose out of a strike at the American Steel Foundry's plant at Granite City, Ill., where 1600 men were normally employed. After shutting down it resumed operations as an open shop with about 350 men, about one half of whom belonged to labor unions.

The Tri-City Trades Council, upon refusal of the manager of the plant to negotiate, declared a strike and established pickets. There was considerable violence until the courts intervened and restricted the picketers' activities. The council thereupon contested the authority of the courts to interfere.

"In going to and from work, men have a right to as free a passage without obstruction as the streets afford," the Supreme Court held, "consistent with the rights of others to enjoy the same privileges."

While attempts to influence another's action cannot be regarded as aggressions or a violation of the other's rights, the court continued, "importunity and dogging become unjustifiable annoyance and obstruction which is likely soon to savor of intimidation."

INTIMIDATION USED

In this case, "all arguments advanced and all persuasion used were intimidation," it was declared, adding that pickets should not "be abusive, libelous or threatening," nor "approach individuals together."

This rule, the court explained, might be varied in other cases. The courts must, however, "pre-

Test of Helium, Only Found in America, Impresses Experts of Powers at Capital.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—A significant, perhaps prophetic, glimpse of the unplumbed possibilities of the warfare of the future was given by chance today to the Arms Conference subcommittee on aircraft at the close of its session on the question of limitation of aerial engines of war.

The members of the committee representing the five great powers were emerging from the Navy Building when they observed the new navy dirigible, the C-7, flying low in the offing. Rear-Admiral Moffett, head of the bureau of aernautics of the American Navy and chairman of the conference subcommittee, explained that the C-7 was inflated with helium, the new noninflammable, nonexplosive gas, which promises to revolutionize the use of aircraft in war.

"Very interesting," observed Air Vice-Admiral Higgins, the representative of the British Empire. "America, I understand, is the sole possessor of a supply of helium."

"It has been found only in the United States, up to date, I believe," Admiral Moffett responded.

The subcommittee had met and adjourned after a preliminary discussion in which one of the nations represented disclosed its attitude on the question of limitation in war aircraft. When it was known that Admiral Moffett is pre-

STRIKE IS FAILURE.

Packers Say Few Men Quit.

Most Plants Are Operated at Normal; Laborites Dispute Claim.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—At the close of the first day of the strike of packing-house workers, union officials announced 41,000 workmen on packing-houses were on strike, while spokesmen for the packers asserted Chicago plants were operating with full forces, while plants in other centers all continued work.

Twenty-nine thousand workers outside Chicago responded to the strike call, according to a statement by Dennis Lane, secretary of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, which called the strike after a wage cut averaging 10 per cent had been decided on by plant assemblies, composed of representatives of employers and workers.

More than 12,000 workers employed by the "big five" packers here walked out, Mr. Lane said. Spokesmen for the "big five" gave figures to show that only about 1000 men were out in these plants while the number on strike at independent plants was given by packing officials as about the same number.

FIGURES GIVEN.

A statement from the packers showing the number of employees on strike in Chicago was tabulated as follows:

Armour & Co., 400; Wilson & Co., 250; Swift & Co., 300; Morris & Co., 100; Agar Provision Company, 150; Boyd Lunham Company, 300; Brennan Packing Company, 400; Independent Packing Company, 250; Louis Praeiser & Sons, 100; Western Packing and Provision Company, 425.

According to Mr. Lane approximately 26 per cent of the Chicago workers reported for work today. "I am satisfied that tomorrow will see the packing establishments closed tight because this element will join the majority," he said.

Four independent packing concerns here and two outside the city settled with the strikers today, he said. The strike has caused meat prices to rise here, Russell Poole, secretary of the City Council high cost of living committee, reported.

There was no violence here but at St. Paul several persons were slightly injured when commission men clashed with pickets, while early in the day a train carrying 300 strikebreakers was stopped and the occupants forced to flee.

At Oklahoma City, superintendents of the packing plants said about 700 men failed to report for work. Union men said 1000 workmen were out. Union officials at Omaha declared the walkout was "practically 100 per cent," while packers estimated that from 40 to 75 per cent were working. At St. Joseph, Mo., the packers asserted only 25 per cent of the men were out. Union officers said the number was 60 per cent.

DEMAND MEN RETURN.

Practically all employees of the Denver packing plants were striking, company officials admitted and tonight an order was issued in District Court demanding the workmen return to their jobs pending investigation of the dispute by the Colorado Industrial Commission.

Union officials at East St. Louis said 2000 of 2500 employees were out on strike while packing company spokesmen said the number was from 65 to 75 per cent.

At Fort Worth company officials said 200 men were on strike and the unions gave no estimate.

Few men were reported on strike at Dubuque, Iowa; Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Austin, Minn.; Milwaukee, or at plants near there. At Albert Lea, Minn., about one third of the workers reported for work, according to plant officials. Res

HALF BILLION SAVING EFFECTED BY BUDGET.

Estimates Submitted to Congress by Harding Show Promises of Economy Carried Out.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—A Federal budget for the fiscal year 1923 approximately $500,000,000 below the $4,000,000,000 figure which had been estimated some time ago as the minimum of government expenditures for several years to come faced Congress when it reconvened today. The exact figures, as prepared by the newly created Budget Bureau and transmitted by President Harding in a special message, were $3,505,745,727, including an estimated deficit of $21,509,666 in the operations of the postal service.

This represents a decrease of $462,167,689 from the $3,967,922,368 estimated expenditures for the current fiscal year and $2,032,285,262 from the actual expenditures in the fiscal year 1921. It is, however, $167,571,917 in excess of the estimated receipts of $3,338,182,200, while the outgo for the current fiscal year exceeds the estimated receipts of $3,943,453,662 by $24,468,705.

Referring to the apparent deficit for 1923, President Harding wrote Congress that "ways are provided for the relatively easy adjustment without added taxation" of the discrepancy between the income and outgo. As one means, he recommended legislation directing the reduction of the accumulated naval supply account of $100,000,000.

ESTIMATES ARE CUT.

Annual appropriations asked of Congress for Federal departments and agencies for 1923 total $3,224,175,592, exclusive of the Postoffice Department. This represents a reduction of $122,800,310 from the original estimates as presented to the Budget Bureau, it is stated, but is approximately $27,000,000 more than the appropriations for this fiscal year.

Explaining the $280,579,134 excess of estimated expenditures in 1923 over the appropriations asked for, Budget Bureau officials explain that some of the funds actually to be put out will be carried over in continuing appropriations and by other means. They say that appropriations for a given year do not accurately reflect actual expenses for that year, pointing out that while the appropriations for this fiscal year were $3,197,807,962, the estimated actual outgo will exceed this sum by approximately $776,000,000.

PAY FOR PAST WARS.

Of the total estimated expenditures for 1923, approximately $2,000,000,000 is to pay for past wars and to keep up the fighting arms of the government, leaving only about $600,000,000 for the peacetime pursuits of the Federal establishment. The estimate for the Army and the Navy is $801,636,107, a reduction of $66,305,299 as compared with this fiscal year and $984,352,711 as compared with the fiscal year 1921.

The Navy estimate of $431,754,000, it is explained, does not take into account any possible reductions that might be brought about as a result of the Arms Conference, the total including funds for continuing work on the ships of the 1916 program, most of which would be scrapped under the proposal made to the conference by the American government.

The largest single item in the budget is the fund for the interest on the public debt, the $975,000,000 provided lacking only $25,000,000 of the total expenses of the Federal establishment before the World War. In addition, there is an estimate of $369,338,800 for the war debt sinking fund.

FOR AIR SERVICE.

Included in the total for the Army and Navy is $31,964,400 for development and maintenance of the air services of the two departments, divided $16,195,000 for the Navy and $14,964,400 for the Army. These compare with expenditures this year of $15,000,000 and $19,159,700 respectively. The Navy estimates carry an item of $99,192,006 for continuing construction on the 1916 building program as compared to $142,452,000 for this year. Navy pay calls for $148,754,000, an increase of $49,000,000.

Pay, mileage, etc., for the Army is the largest item in the War Department budget, the figure being $154,448,400. For the National Guard an expenditure of $28,946,600 is estimated.

Expenditures on public works under the War Department are given as $57,943,900, including $44,245,400 for rivers and harbors as compared with $29,850,000 for the current year.

Included in the $455,232,702 estimate for the veterans' bureau are these items:

Military and naval compensation $160,000,000; military and naval insurance, $62,712,000; vocational rehabilitation $127,000,000; medical and hospital service, $72,000,000, and salaries and expenses, $26,321,702.

DRY ENFORCEMENT.

For prohibition enforcement the budget bureau estimates $10,000,000, an increase of $2,500,000 over this year. Expenses of the internal revenue bureau are placed at $66,206,190 as compared with $58,032,790 for this year.

Estimates for independent agencies include:

Federal Trade Commission, $548,500; Interstate Commerce Commission, $4,975,240; Housing Corporation, $1,267,453; Railroad Labor Board, $305,650; Alien Property Custodian, $290,480; Civil Service Commission, $595,595, and Employees' Compensation Commission and compensation fund, $2,798,000.

Accompanying the budget as sent to Congress is a detailed report from Director-General Dawes as to the operation of the budget bureau since its establishment five months ago and some pointed comments as to means of continuing its efficient operation. Discussing the reception of the budget by Congress, Gen. Dawes says:

CUT TO MINIMUM.

"It is to be expected that since the preliminary estimates have been made under pressure by the executive for proper retrenchment, where consistent with efficiency, it will not be necessary, as heretofore, for Congress to make radical cuts upon the estimates of the budget with any uncertainty as to what will be the result as it effects efficiency. The President of the United States, when he sends the budget to Congress is presumed to send it with all the reductions in expenditures which can be effected without due impairment of governmental business processes. In the preparation of the budget he has had at work an authorized agency in the bureau not only in ascertaining the reasonableness of desired appropriations, but in continually impeding pressure upon the departments for a reduction in the estimates wherever proper and possible."

Gen. Dawes says he feels that the estimate for expenditures for 1923, upon which the budget is based "will not be increased except through appropriations initiated by Congress or by the executive as a result of emergency or unforeseen conditions arising after the preparation of the budget."

Reiterating his recommendation that Congress immediately repeal all outstanding continuous appropriations and "revolving funds," Gen. Dawes says the method of appropriating money heretofore followed "has resulted in a condition of things under which it is almost impossible for either the executive, Congress or the Secretary of the Treasury to have before them a true picture of the fiscal condition of the government at any particular time."

ENCOURAGES WASTE.

"The whole habit of making continuous appropriations to which the government has been committed in the past," he adds, "is only an encouragement to a lack of scrutiny of public work by the head of the department under which it is carried on, and an encouragement to shiftlessness and carelessness on the part of the subordinates more directly concerned in it. This system of preparing the budget will confine the attention of the Executive of Congress, and of the public to the one great important question, to-wit, the relation of the money actually to be spent by the government to the money actually to be received by the government in any given year, all its outstanding obligations and indefinite commitments, projects and enterprises considered. This will enable Congress, with more intelligence, to determine at any time both the necessity for retrenchment and the ability of the government to engage in additional projects to be initiated by Congress outside of the budgetary provisions."

Likening the Federal government to a business corporation, Gen. Dawes points to these "faults" which he says existed:

FAULTS ARE GIVEN.

The President of the corporation (the President of the United States) gave practically no attention to its ordinary routine business.

The administrative vice-presidents (members of the Cabinet) were allowed to run their several departments as if each separate department was an independent authority in all matters of routine business.

Because of a lack of any outlined business plan, no system existed for making purchases or in selling material along business lines under a unified policy.

No balance sheet of the corporation as a whole was ever prepared.

The treasurer kept no accurate account of the contingent obligations of the various Federal departments, thus resulting in money being drawn from him continuously in excess of the estimated annual running expenses.

The corporation, in effect, seldom reconsidered an unwise project entered into by any department.

The administrative heads of the departments were selected as a rule with little reference to their business qualifications and were compelled to rely largely upon the advice of subordinates "wedded to the theory of the right of independent operation of the department."

OUTLINES WORK.

Outlining the work of the various co-ordinating agencies established by Presidential order "to rectify faults in the routine business of the government," Gen. Dawes says:

"They involve no transfer of authority the location of which has been fixed otherwise by statute.

"They involve the delegation of no question of policy save that of economy and efficiency.

"They are simply agents by which unified methods of ordinary business can be imposed by the Chief Executive.

"They are created simply to give the President of the United States the same agencies of contact and transmission of authority as obtain in any private organization.

"They involve no material addition of the expense of governmental administration.

"They are nonpartisan, being composed of men already in the government service.

"They are in effect simply a regrouping under an executive leadership of certain of the present employees of government of such experience, contact, and relation in its routine business as enables them to make possible the application of common-sense business government service.

DEPENDS ON PRESIDENT.

"It cannot be too often reiterated that this most important reformation in the governmental business system is dependent upon the President of the United States himself, and upon his continued assumption of his responsibility as its business head. The minute he relaxes his attitude of attention to his duty there will be felt the natural pull of the departments and establishments toward the old system of complete independence and decentralization."

Gen. Dawes concludes his report with this statement:

"In making this report the Director of the Budget will state that his connection with the bureau is limited as to time, in accordance with an understanding which he had with the President at the time of his appointment. His purpose in making this announcement at this time is to emphasize the fact that his recommendations are made in an impersonal way, with fundamental business principles and their proper preservation in their application to governmental business administration alone in mind."

While the railroad administration and the Transportation Act are expected to cost the government $237,679,235 in 1922, no estimate of expenditures for those purposes in 1923 was included in the budget. Experts explained that it was not possible to make an accurate estimate of what would be needed for the carriers until after the results of the 1922 railroad financing are known.

WASHINGTON NEWS IN BRIEF.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Baron Kato, Japanese delegate, in a statement tonight denied insinuations that Japan is bargaining here over the 5-5-3 naval ratio, predicted that a fair adjustment ultimately would be reached, but declared he had cabled Tokio for a decision.

Tokio also must decide whether Japan will get out of Shantung unconditionally or set up a last-ditch fight to keep half-control of the provincial railroad.

Conference officials were jarred by the resignation of Dr. Tyau, secretary-general of the Chinese delegation, who took this action because he is convinced that the powers here, including America, will fail to give China justice.

America's monopoly of helium, noninflammable gas, which promises to revolutionize use of aircraft in war, was brought forcibly to the attention of visiting delegates today when a huge American dirigible flew over the heads of experts on aircraft.

President Harding, saying the time is not opportune, declined to make an appointment to receive from Ohio sympathizers a petition for recognition of the Irish republic.

The Supreme Court today held that picketing is illegal, but that labor organizations have a legal right to undertake organization of workers in nonunion plants as long as they do it by lawful methods.

The budget sent to Congress provides for government expenditures more than $500,000,000 less than for last year.

Completion of the St. Lawrence seaway project from the Great Lakes to the gulf was vigorously advocated in the House by Representatives Nelson of Wisconsin and Chalmers of Ohio.

Representative Mott introduced a new soldiers' bonus bill and declared that the country was now ready for Congress to give the soldiers their long-delayed relief.

DAWES BUDGET BACKING ASKED.

Chamber Members Hear Plea for National Thrift.

Speaker Says Voters Must Demand Efficiency.

Tells How Program Has Cut Government Expense.

Before representatives of the 9000 members of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and guests from all over Southern California, John T. Pratt, chairman of the national budget committee now supporting Gen. Dawes in his campaign for efficiency in government expenditure and for the reduction of taxation through the operations of the first national budget system, spoke in the chamber's auditorium last night.

Mr. Pratt, who was one of the first business men of the United States to take up the budget problem, is now touring the United States to organize support for Gen. Dawes's program, and, with John P. Burke, vice-president of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, as chairman, arrangements were made to see that Southern California would stand solidly behind its Congressmen and behind the California Senators in support of the budget plan.

"The problem is right up to the people of this country. Do you prefer executive planning, direction, study and control of our great national problems, or do you prefer to throw them into the maelstrom of the log-rolling, vote-swapping, pork-barrel, wasteful methods under which our national House of Representatives and our Senate have been in the habit of acting?

"A small group of Senators is responsible for the 50 per cent surtax, against the express wish of the President and the action of a majority of the members, solely because too few of our people had been shouting what I want every voter in this country to shout ultimately: 'Take up national problems with the executive departments and not with your Congressman or Senator.'

"The net result of what Gen. Dawes's Bureau of the Budget has done is a saving of about $600,000,000 in the estimates made by the Treasury Department in the spring of 1921. This saving, so far as it represents cuts in departmental estimates, is, of course, simply a paper saving until Congress, by adhering to the figures submitted by the President, makes the saving a real and not a paper saving.

"It is because there is no evidence that Congress is going to follow these budget figures that I am here."

The following committee was appointed: John P. Burke, vice-president, First National Bank, chairman for Southern California district; Sylvester L. Weaver, president Chamber of Commerce, chairman of city committee composed of J. E. Fishburn, president Merchants' National Bank; A. J. Waters, president Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank; J. E. Sartori, president Security Trust and Savings Bank; Henry W. O'Melveny, O'Melveny, Stevens & Millikin, attorneys; F. W. Braun, president Braun Corporation; J. M. Schneider, president J. W. Robinson Company; Henry M. Robinson, president First National Bank; George I. Cochran, president Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company; Maynard McFie, capitalist; John D. Fredericks, former District Attorney; Harry Chandler, G. G. Young, E. R. Collins, Burton Knifely and Ed A. Dixon.

STRIKE AGAINST PACKERS FAILS.

ports from Kansas City, Kas., indicated 2000 men were out while union officials said the strike was 100 per cent effective at Wichita and Sioux City.

SLUGGERS GET BUSY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Dec. 5.—Violence marked the opening of the strike of the South St. Paul packing plants here today. Several were slightly injured when a group of commission house men clashed with pickets in an unsuccessful attempt to enter the Swift and Company plant.

Earlier in the day strike sympathizers stopped a train carrying 300 nonunion workers to the packing district and forced them to flee under a fusillade of missiles.

Sheriff J. J. Dunn tonight announced he would break the picket lines tomorrow to enable workers to enter the plants. This statement brought from J. P. McCoy, local secretary of the Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen's Union, the declaration that the union "will fight to the finish."

"Nonunion workers positively will not be allowed to pass the picket lines," he said. Passes will be issued by the union, however, he said, to women and to male office workers.

MAY CALL TROOPS.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Dec. 5.—Information late today was that all packing-houses here operated with greatly reduced forces, although official statements made at packing-house headquarters earlier had estimated the number of strikers at about 25 per cent. The strike was felt most severely at the Cudahy plant, according to a Cudahy official.

Several trucks, attempting to cross to Kansas City, Mo., to make local deliveries of meat were turned back today by strikers. One driver was pulled from his seat and beaten.

Mayor Burton told the crowds that it was illegal under the Kansas law for them to congregate outside the plants—that it constituted intimidation, and that unless the crowds dispersed on orders of the police, it would mean National Guardsmen would take charge.

Plants Here Run.

The strike in the East of the packing-house butchers has not affected local meat plants, and it is not expected to do so. All men reported for work yesterday at the plants of the Cudahy Packing Company, the Hauser Packing Company and Wilson & Co., the three local concerns operating slaughter-houses.

JAPAN NOT BARGAINING, SAYS KATO.

Attributes Delays to Cable Situation; Regrets Newspaper Reports.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Emphatic denial that Japan is playing "what is called a bargaining game" in Washington was made in a statement tonight by Admiral Baron Kato, acting head of the Japanese arms delegation. He attributed delays to the cable situation, adding that the issues involved could not be decided without "the fullest knowledge and consideration of the Japanese government."

Kato said he was convinced the conference should be able to agree on adjustment "fair to all parties," and added that he and his colleagues would spare no effort toward the earliest possible conclusion consistent with wisdom and foresight.

Newspaper reports that Japan was playing a bargaining game, he said, were "contrary to the facts" and much to be regretted.

ARMS PARLEY IN NUTSHELL.

"Times" is Issuing Special Edition Weekly on Historical Conference.

Every Friday during the Disarmament Conference now in progress in Washington The Times will reprint from its daily issue a special illustrated four-page edition giving all the important developments of the history-making parley of nations for the week preceding. The first was issued Friday, November 18.

The Times has arranged for exhaustive reports on the proceedings of the conference to be written by experts of international reputation. These reports, which are these appearing daily in The Times, will be conveniently arranged and edited and will all appear in this weekly summary of the conference without the interpolation of other extraneous news matter. For the many persons who desire to preserve a complete record of this peace parley of the world powers, incomparably the most important one in history, these special editions will be of immense value.

The four-page sheets will not be included in the regular editions of The Times, but are on sale at the Los Angeles main and branch offices of The Times at the nominal price of 5 cents, or will be mailed to any address on receipt of that sum in stamps. They will be furnished free to any schoolteacher on application.

NARCOTICS SEIZED FROM JAP STEAMER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 5.—Two cans of narcotics valued at more than $10,000 were seized on board the Japanese freighter Saikai Maru, which berthed here last night, customs officers announced today.

Code characters on the cans indicated they were to be delivered to peddlers here, said officers.

CHINESE DELEGATE RESIGNS.

Minister to Cuba Quits Arms Meet as Protest on "Negative Results."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Philip K. C. Tyau, secretary-general of the Chinese arms delegation, and Minister to Cuba, cabled today to Peking his resignation as a member of the delegation in protest against the "negative results" thus far achieved concerning China's demands.

Dr. Tyau told the Associated Press tonight that in resigning he acted without consulting the three Chinese delegates and his action represented his personal views. The delegates were notified after the telegram had been sent to the Chinese government.

"I personally do not feel any actual results have been achieved by the Washington conference regarding China," Dr. Tyau said. "They have been negative in actuality, except in principle. Everything has been agreed to in principle and then turned over to subcommittees."

In no single case, China has presented for settlement of the basis of the ten points proposed by the Chinese delegation, Dr. Tyau said, has anything more than justice to China been involved.

"Every one of the demands," he continued, "were for things taken from China, in violation of treaty rights or through duress, because the powers were strong enough to do it." They continue violation of China's sovereignty and then tie the same of the questions up in the subcommittee."

Referring to the withdrawal of the foreign postoffices he said the action of the conference in agreement to accede to this demand by China only after long investigation by a commission was in violation of China's rights as a sovereign nation.

LOCAL HARBOR MONEY SAFE.

Harding's Estimates to House Are Encouraging.

Los Angeles Improvements to Continue.

Dawes Plan to Prune is Nipped in Bud.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. — Los Angeles Harbor improvements as far as the Federal government is concerned are insured against any interruption due to a shortage in funds. When the estimates for the next fiscal year were laid before the House today by President Harding, the estimate for rivers and harbors work was $27,585,000. This sum, together with $11,000,000 still available on other appropriations will provide funds to maintain all present projects and permit of continuous maintenance work and improvement at Los Angeles.

ESTIMATES ENCOURAGE.

The estimates made public today encouraged the members of the House Rivers and Harbors Committee to believe that all important work may be carried on without delay. The committee will meet Wednesday to carry this matter further along and will aggressively push the matter until the final appropriations are enacted into law.

Congressman Osborne was considerably concerned about the funds to continue the work at Los Angeles Harbor when a few weeks ago he discovered that Director of the Budget Dawes was preparing to recommend only $13,000,000 of new appropriations. This together with the money available from former appropriations would not be sufficient to keep alive work started in many important harbors. With other members of the committee he had a meeting with Mr. Dawes and later a conference with Secretary of War Weeks.

CUT TO THE BONE.

It was explained that the aggregate estimates of the various district engineers totaled $64,000,000 and that the Board of Rivers and Harbors Engineers had cut this to the bone and recommended a minimum of $42,000,000. It was pointed out to both Director Dawes and Secretary Weeks that the government would lose greatly unless enough money was provided for the harbor work to at least hold it own on projects which had been under way for some time. No new projects were advocated, but necessary attention to those in progress was suggested by the committee.

There was an immediate reconsideration of these estimates. The result was apparent in the estimates of today and the work of Los Angeles Harbor will go forward without hindrance as far as government finances are concerned. The work there, of channel, is at a critical straightening and widening the channel, is at a critical stage and much of the new terminal building planned depends upon the prompt completion of government improvements.

"LEAK CASE" WILL NOT BE REVIEWED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The Supreme Court declined today to enter into a review of the so-called Supreme Court "leak case" in which a former secretary of one of the justices, and several associates, including a former employee of the Department of Justice, were convicted in the court of the District of Columbia of conspiracy to defraud the United States.

NOTAS LOCALES.

Una Mujer Mata a su Visitante.

La Sra. Esther Albano disparo once tiros sobre el cuerpo de M. G. Leone, matandolo casi instantaneamente. Leone visitaba a la senora ayer, en su casa de la calle 36 Este. En la conversacion, la senora Albano dice que Leone le dijo que el habia matado a su esposo, quien desaparecio desde el mes de octubre ultimo, dos meses despues de haberse casado. La policia cree que en el fondo de esta tragedia se ve el resultado de alguna contienda entre los dos individuos.

El Caso de Burch.

Ardorosas cartas amorosas, declara el Sr. Agente del Ministerio Publico, fueron escritas a J. Belton Kennedy por la Sra. Madalynne Obenchain, quien con Burch esta acusada del asesinato de Kennedy. Las cartas fueron leidas durante el jurado. El senora padre de Kennedy declaro, refiriendo las entrevistas de su hijo con la Sra. Obenchain, ya bastante tarde en las noches. El refiere, que varias veces exigio de su hijo el que terminara con la referida senora pero que el unico resultado era que su hijo se estaba mas tiempo con ella.

Un Incendio Serio.

No obtante los esfuerzos de centenares de personas que se prestaron a combatir el fuego en la propiedad de Rindge, no consiguieron apagarlo y el fuego se extendio hasta Dume y Ramera. Otro fuego esta aun vivo en la parte sur cerca de la costa. Muchos de los voluntarios estan sin comida ni agua, por lo que varias expediciones estan haciedo lo posible por penetrar a las montanas con los auxilios necesarios para los que pelean contra el terrible elemento. El viento fortisimo que corrio el Viernes pasado esparcio el fuego con gran velocidad y se dice que tal parece imposible el poderlo dominar inmediatamente.

La Sra. Peete Ira a la Penitenciaria.

HELIUM TEST SIGNIFICANT.

pared to stand by the Hughes dictum that such limitation is impracticable, because of the ease of converting aircraft to war purposes, other members were ready to discuss the question.

The war will be largely in the air, say the authorities, as they contemplate the progress of the negotiations to reduce the limitsurface and submersible naval craft. Japan is seeking an allowance of airplane carriers approximating that accorded either Great Britain or the United States by the Hughes plan, an indication that Japan is looking far into the future. Likewise, American naval strategists impressed by the difficulty of defending the Philippines with only eighteen capital ships and inadequate bases on the other side of the Pacific, are planning to concentrate on the use of airplanes, dirigibles and submarines for this purpose.

With a monopoly of helium, the United States would have a tremendous advantage over an enemy in aerial warfare. A fleet of helium-inflated dirigibles, in the opinion of Admiral Moffet, could destroy an enemy fleet of surface craft with giant bombs while the protective force of airplanes engaged the enemy airplanes.

Destruction of a helium dirigible, properly protected would be exceedingly difficult, for it would be explosion-proof and fireproof against the shots from antiaircraft guns.

Helium was identified as a new element through the observance in 1868 of a bright yellow line in the chromosphere of the sun. It is extracted from natural gas and in the vicinity of Fort Worth, Tex., where the Navy maintains a production plant, it is escaping into the atmosphere in a volume estimated as sufficient to inflate four large dirigibles each week.

The known supply in the United States would be exhausted unless conserved in twenty years, but if the large gas wells containing helium were capped a reserve would be created which would last 100 years or more.

The administration has urged Congress to appropriate for the purchase and conservation of helium reserves, but so far Congress has turned a deaf ear to the plea despite incalculable advantage a supply of this gas would give the country in time of war.

ARMY CORPORAL GREETS FOCH.

Former Overseas Soldier is Acting Governor.

Never Met French Marshal While Abroad.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Dec. 5.—Marshal Foch exchanged greetings today with Corp. Ernest Hall, who, despite his former rank in the American military service, occupies the position of Acting Governor of Arizona.

"I never met the marshal in France," said Corp. Hall today, "for most of the time I was in France, I was somewhere out in the middle of a stream engaged in whooping up some bridge, usually where German artillery fire had caused a gap in military connections that had to be filled in even shorter time than possible. It was like making bricks without straw, for all our timbers were mighty short and we had to build up deck upon deck."

WITH ENGINEERS.

Corp. Hall was a member of the Twenty-seventh United States Engineers, recruited especially for mining work, with 200 of its men from Arizona. Its average personnel age was 34 years, the oldest average of any regiment in the service. When the war fever struck Hall, he was sitting in the Arizona Legislature as a member of the Senate from Maricopa county. In June, 1918, during a special war session, he left his seat to enlist as a private soldier. In August he was overseas and from October to December he was building or repairing devastation on the Meuse-Argonne sector, especially along the Aine and Meuse rivers, generally between Varennes and Grand Pre.

BRIDGES STILL STAND.

All of the bridges were of substantial construction and some of them still are in use, left in France as monuments of American industry. At one time, Halls' company was hurried up to bridge a vast shell crater that had been made by a bomb dropped from enemy aircraft, wiping out an important link of road that ran through a swamp.

At the last election, Corp. Hall was elected Secretary of State. Thus it happens that he welcomed the hero of France during the absence of Gov. Campbell, who now is in Washington.

BATTLE CRUISERS MAY BE CONVERTED.

SIX COULD BE MADE INTO FAST PASSENGER SHIPS, SAYS EXPERT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. — The six American battle cruisers under construction, but which may be scrapped under the naval program, could be converted into fast passenger vessels, J. W. Powell, president of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, said today. At least three, he said, could be so converted, declaring they would be "the safest passenger ships afloat."

Mr. Powell said that, as converted, the cruisers would go about twenty-five knots instead of the thirty-three knots as war craft.

A converted vessel, he said, would have accommodations for 1000 first-class passengers, 2000 second-class and 2000 steerage, as well as space for 5000 tons of freight. Such a passenger ship, he asserted, would have the advantage of being the only really nonsinkable liner, because of the bulkhead construction of the hull.

It would be impossible to reconvert such a passenger ship into a battle cruiser, he explained.

LABOR UNREST AGAIN APPEARS IN GERMANY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Labor unrest is again appearing in Germany, according to advices made public tonight by the Commerce Department.

This condition had become apparent, it was said, concurrently with the sharp decline of the mark and the advancing cost of food and clothing.

Workers in the Dusseldorf steel industries are striking for a 75 per cent increase of pay, while the 50,000 men employed in the Krupp works at Essen have presented a demand for a "living cost bonus."

FALL AND BUCKLEY IN TALK.

American Deported by Obregon Places Protest Before Secretary.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL PASO, Dec. 5.—William F. Buckley, president of the American Association of Mexico and deported from the republic of Mexico several days ago as a "pernicious foreigner" held a conference here today with Secretary of the Interior Fall.

Neither Secretary Fall nor Mr. Buckley would discuss the conference of the two and in no way intimated that the deportation of Mr. Buckley was the topic discussed. It is known, however, that Mr. Buckley came direct to El Paso from Austin, Tex., for the express purpose of seeing Mr. Fall. Buckley, it is understood, desired to place the matter of his deportation before Secretary Fall in view of the latter's familiarity with all angles of the Mexican situation. Buckley was deported from Mexico under the provision of Article XXXIII of the Mexican constitution which provides for the expulsion of any foreign-born citizen classed as a "pernicious foreigner."

Buckley, bitterly opposed to Obregon because of his policy in regard to American-owned property in Mexico, asserted that the Mexican President, but needed recognition on the part of the United States prior to taking over all American property in the republic and leaving it to the disposition of the State. His deportation was ordered by Obregon following the promulgation of a statement of Buckley, in which he set forth his reasons against recognition of the republic by President Harding.

UNION PACIFIC TO CUT FREIGHT RATES.

DROPS OF ONE-FIFTH ON STEEL PRODUCTS FOR THE ORIENT ANNOUNCED.

Reductions amounting to a little more than 20 per cent in freight rates on certain iron and steel products from Chicago and points west to Los Angeles Harbor for shipment to the Orient have just been announced by the Union Pacific system.

The reductions apply to such commodities as bands, chains, forgings, nails, shafting sheets and boiler tubes. The rates from Pittsburg will be a drop from 80 to 49 cents per 100, and from Chicago territory a reduction of from 71 to 50 cents per 100.

Concurrence of lines east of Chicago in this reduction has not yet been secured, the Union Pacific announces. The date upon which

CHINA A UNIT ON SHANTUNG.

People Demand Restoration, Mr. Dockweiler Says.

Country Due for an Era of Substantial Progress.

Peking Legation Secretary Here for Holidays.

Nothing but full and complete restoration of Shantung to the republic of China will satisfy the Chinese people.

This is the opinion of Henry Dockweiler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Isador Dockweiler, and secretary of the American Legation at Peking, who has just returned from the Orient to spend the holidays with his parents.

Mr. Dockweiler thinks that China is due for an era of substantial progress as soon as it can secure adequate finances with which to pay off foreign obligations and look after a few of the urgent demands at home.

"China isn't in bad shape financially," declares Mr. Dockweiler. "She owes only about $2,000,000,000 in gold, and the impression among business men I met on the way back to this country is that her reputation for honesty will enable her to obtain adequate financial support after the Disarmament Conference."

Just now, according to Mr. Dockweiler, the Chinese government is experiencing real financial embarrassment. It is not only unable to settle its outside debts, but cannot finance necessary projects at home.

Mr. Dockweiler asserts that the feeling among the more intelligent Chinese, particularly the students in the schools and colleges, is strongly against Japan for seeking to hold Shantung. Students have maintained a boycott against Japanese goods ever since the armistice was signed, he declares, and the feeling seems to prevail that nothing but the restoration of Shantung to the Chinese government will ever fully satisfy the Chinese.

There appears to be strong probability that the present government of China will stand, regardless of civil strife which is constantly in progress, he says.

There has been considerable suffering there, owing to floods and crop failure in certain provinces which produce the cereals upon which the people subsist.

Mr. Dockweiler has been in the diplomatic service about three years. After completing his law course he went to Tokio as a secretary in the legation. For the past year and a half he has been stationed at Peking.

PROPOSE PACT OF POWERS.

in all quarters. A British spokesman recently declared that in the British view the naval and Far Eastern problems were bound up in the same sheaf and there have been indications of a like opinion among some Japanese.

It is considered possible that in the period of waiting the two threads of negotiations may become so tangled in the foreign capitals as to give the American delegation considerable trouble in separating them when the discussions here are resumed.

LLOYD GEORGE'S IDEA.

The proposal for a four-power entente as now advanced is considered an outgrowth of the suggestion of David Lloyd George, made several weeks ago in Parliament, that the Washington conference might well consider merging the Anglo-Japanese alliance into an arrangement to which the United States would be a party. The Japanese have shown an inclination to take up that proposal, and it has been mentioned more than once to the American delegates.

In every consideration of a possible treaty or international understanding to replace the alliance, the American delegates have kept in mind the possible temper of the Senate should it be asked to ratify such an agreement. An 'understanding' would not require Senate confirmation but it is conjectural how binding an agreement of that character President Harding and his plenipotentiaries would care to effect.

TOKIO PLEASED.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

TOKIO, Dec. 5. — Special dispatches and news agency reports from Washington that a four-power alliance, agreement or understanding for the Pacific was under discussion as a possible substitute for the Anglo-Japanese alliance found ready credence in unofficial quarters today, the suggestion being widely and favorably commented upon. Morning newspapers appear to believe such an entente would solve many of the conference's problems.

By the inclusion of France with Great Britain, Japan and the United States, it is argued, America would find less difficulty in entering the proposed association, while France would be rescued from possible isolation. Great Britain and Japan, it is pointed out, would have nothing to complain of since the fundamental object of the Anglo-Japanese compact would be attained and given greater authority through French participation.

The official view as it seems to be reflected in the newspapers is somewhat less confident, especially that of the naval authorities. The latter lay emphasis on the contention that such an entente would be a purely political affair and argue that it ought to be clearly divorced from the pending armament issue and should not influence relinquishment of the minimum defense scheme.

The Foreign Office is quoted as inclined to believe the plan is a possible one.

BRITISH TAKE ACTION.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The British Foreign Office held a conference today on the report from Washington on the tri-partite agreement between the United States, Great Britain and Japan. A statement says that the British government has accepted the plan proposed in America.

SUPREME COURT SCORES UNIONS.

vent the inevitable intimidation of the presence of groups of pickets, but to allow missionaries."

The action of the council in calling the strike under consideration was declared not malicious.

"The strike became a lawful instrument in a lawful economic struggle or competition between employer and employes," the Chief Justice stated, "as to the share or division between them of the joint product of labor and capital..... The principle of the unlawfulness of maliciously enticing of laborers still remains, and action may be maintained therefor in proper cases, but to make it applicable to local labor unions, in such a case as this, seems to us to be unreasonable."

COURT'S OPINION.

Chief Justice Taft, in declaring the opinion of the court, said:

"If in their attempts at persuasion or communication, those of the union labor side adopt methods which, however lawful in their announced purpose, inevitably lead to intimidation and obstruction, then it is the court's duty to limit what the propagandists do as to time, manner and place so as to prevent infractions of the law and violations of the rights of the employees and the employer for whom they wish to work.

"In going to and from work, men have a right to as free a passage without obstruction as the streets afford, consistent with the right of others to enjoy the same privilege. We are a social people and the accosting by one of another in an inoffensive way, and an offer by the one to communicate and discuss information with a view to influencing the other's action, are not regarded as aggression or a violation of that other's rights.

"If, however, the offer is declined, as it may rightfully be, then importunity and dogging become unjustifiable annoyance and obstruction which is likely to savor of intimidation.

MEN THREATENED.

"In the present case, under the conditions which the evidence disclosed, all information tendered, all arguments advanced, and all persuasion used, were intimidation—they could not be otherwise. It is idle to talk of peaceful communications in such a place and under such conditions.

"The whole campaign became effective because of its intimidation character, in spite of the admonition given by the leaders of their followers as to lawful methods to be pursued, however sincere.

"Our conclusion is that picketing thus instituted is unlawful and cannot be peaceable, and may be properly adjoined by the specific term of 'picketing,' because its meaning is clearly understood in the sphere of the controversy by those who are parties to it.

"But while this is so, we must have every regard for the Congressional intention manifested in the act and to the principle of existing law which declared that ex-employees and others probably acting with them shall have an opportunity, so far as is consistent with peace and law, to observe who are still working for the employer, to communicate with them and to persuade them to join the ranks of his opponents in a lawful economic struggle.

ALL HAVE RIGHTS.

"Regarding, as primary the rights of the employees to work for whom they will and to go freely to and from their place of labor, and keeping in mind the right of the employer incident to his property and business to free access of such employees, what can be done to reconcile the conflicting interests?

"Each case must turn on its own circumstances. It is a case for the flexible remedial powers of a court of equity, which may try one mode of restraint, and if it fails or proves to be too drastic, may change it. We think that the strikers and their sympathizers should be limited to one representative for each point of ingress and egress in the plant or place of business, and that all others be enjoined from congregating or loitering at the neighboring streets, by which access is had to the plant, that such representatives should have the right of observation, communication and persuasion, but with special admonition that their communications, arguments and appeals shall not be abusive, libelous or threatening, and that they shall not approach individuals together, but singly.

"This is not laid down as a rigid rule, but one which should apply to this case, under the circumstances disclosed by the evidence, and which may be varied in other cases. It becomes a question for the judgment of the chancellor who has heard the witnesses. The purpose should be to prevent the inevitable intimidation of the presence of groups of pickets, but to allow missionaries.'"

PRINCE SEES FIRE DANCE.

Religious Ceremony Part of Entertainment in India.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BIKANER (India) Dec. 5. A religious fire dance was held for the Prince of Wales as part of the program of entertainment given during his stay here. Bare legged natives danced through the embers of a great bonfire built in the quadrangle of the fort. As they danced they sang wildly and snatched up portions of the fiery mass which they placed in their mouths. Subsequently they pirouetted before the Prince, inviting inspection of their legs and feet, which were apparently moist and cool.

Several members of the Prince's staff burned their fingers in attempting to pick up some of the embers.

JOHNSON PLANS FENCE-BUILDING.

California Senator Neglects Duty for Politics.

Fails to Answer Roll Call as Senate Opens.

Now Speeding West to Look for Re-election.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Hiram Johnson was not in his seat today when the Senate opened in regular session. He did not answer to the roll call, as, indeed, he has not answered many times during his incumbency in office. During the special session he has spent much of his time in New York engaged in the details of a private law case for which he was retained through the friendly offices of William Randolph Hearst. While engaged as counsel in this case he has been fighting Gov. Miller and the Republican administration of the State of New York. During the early part of the special session, when he was not in New York, he voted as often as he could against the Harding administration.

NOW SPEEDING WEST.

Later in the session Senator Johnson voted on one or two occasions with the administration. Just before leaving Washington he had lunch with President Harding. It was said that they discussed the proposed association of nations. After the affair Senator Johnson declined to comment on the subject of the conversation in any respect. Whether he had the opportunity or not, it is said to be the desire of Senator Johnson to have the administration committed to a hands-off policy in the forthcoming Senatorial race in California. Senator Johnson is now speeding to the Coast to begin building his political fences while he may.

Senator Johnson and his friends have predicated their ideal campaign on no opposition within the Republican party and a free hand at the primaries. The latest reports are that there will be no Republican opposition and that the campaign will be built along the lines suggested. Even at that, there is much to do. Some of the appointments sponsored by Senator Johnson, especially in the north, have brought forth much censure because of the apparently dominating religious character, and there are many patronage cases that have not been settled at all.

PLANS LOVE FEAST.

In the south only the Los Angeles Postmastership and the United States Attorney have been settled and Senator Johnson proposes to go there for a love feast and a division of the spoils with the faithful. No appointments will be made to Federal offices until both California Senators have made their recommendations, and no agreement was reached on this point before Senator Johnson left on his journey of fence-building.

When he left Washington it was not Senator Johnson's intention to return until after the holidays, but even that will make little difference, as he has been spending a good deal of his time in New York.

ROCKEFELLER BORROWS COAT.

American Ambassador is Obliging; Wears It Before Empress.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., today confessed he had to appear before the Empress and Crown Prince of Japan in a borrowed frock coat that fitted him only "pretty well."

Mr. Rockefeller, who has just returned from the Far East, said he had been invited to an imperial garden party in Tokio, but found he could not gain admittance without a frock coat, a bit of impedimenta it had not seemed worth while to take along.

Finally Charles Warren, the American Ambassador, lent him one.

DEBTS EXCEEDING MONEY ON HAND.

SHIPPING BOARD HOWEVER HAS PROVEN ECONOMICAL BY NEW POLICY.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Unpaid claims and debts of the Shipping Board on September 30 aggregated $350,874,358, while it had available in money on hand and appropriations $130,830,000, according to figures sent to the Senate today in response to a resolution by Senator Poindexter.

In addition to the liabilities mentioned, the board reported it had debts unrecorded at the headquarters here, but entered at subsidiary offices, of $35,'04,017. Offsetting this figure, however, the board its statement said, had credits of the same sort totaling within a few thousand dollars of the amount.

The board's expenses during October fell off by $250,000, the total for the month being $3,950,-000, according to a report made public today by President Powell, of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. He said the economy resulted from the board's policy of tying up vessels and from more efficient management.

The board's yearly pay roll was said to have been reduced from $15,861,000 on June 15 to $10,-993,000 on November 18, and the cost of upkeep of the board's tied-up vessels from $3,941,000 on June 15 to $2,919,000 on November 17.

There are now 1300 ships tied up, as compared with 956 in June, the report said.

Great Northern Dividend.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. PAUL, Dec. 5.—Directors of the Great Northern Railway, meeting today, voted the regular quarterly dividend of 1 3-4 per cent, payable February 22, to stockholders of record on December 31. The dividend will total about $4,250,-000, it was said.

FIFTEEN DIE IN WRECK OF TWO TRAINS

Crash Takes Place in Deep Cut Near Philadelphia; Wreckage Takes Fire.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—Fifteen persons were killed today and twenty-five or more injured in a head-on collision between two passenger trains on the Newton branch of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway, about sixteen miles north of Philadelphia, in a deep cut. Fourteen bodies were recovered and one of the injured died in a hospital. Most of the victims perished in fire which broke out in the wooden cars almost immediately after the crash.

Rescuers were obliged to stand helpless at the top of the cut while the victims, enmeshed in the wreckage, shrieked as the flames tortured them.

An outbound train from Philadelphia ran into an inbound train from Newton in the cut, which is thirty-five feet deep, narrow and curved. Its sides were covered with snow and ice, and it was with greatest difficulty some of the injured were dragged out.

Several of the charred bodies had not been identified, and it was thought possible that more might lie in the wreckage.

A statement from the railway offices said the accident "seems to be due to train 151 (that from Philadelphia) overrunning its orders." Investigations are under way.

The inbound train makes no stops between Southampton and Bryn Athyn. The outbound train usually waits on a siding for it to pass. The engineer is said to have waited ten minutes and when a local, that was late, passed, to have assumed it to be the other train, and proceeded.

In the middle of the cut the two locomotives crashed. One rose in the air and then toppled backwards, falling upside down over the track. The other locomotive veered to the east and wedged itself in between the rock wall and the wreckage.

GIRL WHO WOUNDED CHUM DRAWS FINE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Miss Jeanette Hoy, a southern girl charged with shooting her former chum and room-mate, Miss Sarah Davis, and then wounding herself after the Davis girl had broken their friendship, escaped with a fine of $100 at her trial today. She was arraigned on a charged of shooting with intent to kill, but the State waived the felony charge.

The shooting attracted unusual attention at the time. Both girls were taken to the same hospital and for a long time it was feared Miss Hoy would not recover. Miss Hoy intercepted the Davis girl on an elevated railway platform, shot her, then turned the gun on herself.

WILL NOT INTERFERE IN IRISH QUESTION.

HARDING TO FOLLOW POLICY OF HANDS OFF; REFUSES TO HEAR PETITION.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Following his policy of hands off in the Irish question, President Harding today declined to receive a delegation of Ohio citizens who wanted to petition for the recognition of the Irish republic.

John O'Dwyer of Toledo wired Senator Pomerene of Ohio asking him to make an engagement for the Irish sympathizers with the President.

"A committee of over fifty American citizens of the State of Ohio will go to Washington and desire an engagement made for them with the President for Dec. 12, 1921," Mr. O'Dwyer wired.

Senator Pomerene being in Haiti, the request contained in the telegram was transmitted to the White House by Arthur P. Black, Senator Pomerene's secretary. Mr. Black received the following reply from George B. Christian, Jr., secretary to the President.

"The President has seen your note of December 2 and directs me to make the reply and say that while he is desirous of always making himself available to any delegation of American citizens desiring to present a petition, he does not think the present circumstances opportune for his reception of the delegation which is proposed. At a later and more becoming time he will be glad to receive any delegation from Ohio. I am returning Mr. O'Dwyer's message herewith."

FIRST MEN JAILED UNDER TRUST ACT.

FOUR WHO ADMIT VIOLATION OF SHERMAN LAW START SERVING TIME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—The first four men ever sent to prison for violating the Sherman Antitrust Act, surrendered today to U. S. Marshal Hecht for incarceration in the Essex county (New Jersey) County Jail.

The four, F. H. Nobbe, Arthur Shilstone, Albert Schaile and Herman Petri, were sentenced last week after they had entered pleas of guilty to conspiracy to prevent competition in the tile, grate and mantel branch of the building industry. Nobbe, Shilstone and Schaile were sentenced to two months each and fined $4000, while Petri was given three months and fined $2500.

WOULD DEVELOP OIL FIELDS IN ALASKA.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—In an effort to stimulate the development of petroleum fields in Alaska, north of the Arctic Circle, the Secretary of the Interior, under a bill introduced today by Alaskan Delegate Sutherland, would be authorized to permit the consolidation, through drilling contracts, of not more than forty permits granted under the act of Feb. 25, 1920, designed to facilitate discovery of additional deposits of oils and minerals.

FAVORS INCREASE IN TAX ON WHISKY.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Amendments of the tax law enacted last session to increase the levy on whisky sold for medicinal purposes from $2.20 to $6.40 a gallon was proposed today by Representative Greene, Iowa, ranking Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee. The increased rate, he estimated, would yield $20,000,-000 to $40,000,000 annually.

REHEARING IN LAND ACTION IS REFUSED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5. — A rehearing was denied by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today on the cancellation of patents to 4200 acres of land in the Susanville district, held by Edward L. Cooksey and others. The land is valued at $350,000.

The lower court had found that the patents had been obtained fraudulently.

INTENSIVE TRAINING FOR WORKERS URGED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—An intensive training system similar to that used by the Army in the war was recommended today as a step to improve working conditions and output of workers in American industries by D. C. Buell of Omaha, Neb., director of the Railway Education Bureau, at the annual meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

Senator James A. Reed refused to comment upon a report in Democratic circles in St. Louis and up-State that Breckenridge Long, Democratic senatorial candidate in 1920, is being urged by some of his followers to get into the race in 1922 to succeed Reed.

GRAIN NEED OF RUSSIA NOW GREAT

Former Gov. Goodrich Tells Hoover Millions in Danger of Starvation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—America must come to the relief of the population of the famine areas of soviet Russia with about 25,000,-000 bushels of grain, or hundreds of thousands of people will starve, former Gov. Goodrich of Indiana reported today to Secretary Hoover. Mr. Goodrich has just returned from a six weeks' survey of the famine area in the lower Volga Valley, undertaken at the request of Mr. Hoover.

"The only hope of these people is that America should furnish from fifteen to twenty millions of bushels of corn, and four to five million bushels of seed wheat to feed the adult population, and to sow the millions of acres of land plowed and ready for seeding next spring," he said.

Mr. Hoover was said to look with favor upon Mr. Goodrich's recommendation for the shipment of American grain to soviet Russia. It was indicated that Congress would probably be called on to furnish funds for conveying the grain to Russia.

Reports to the Commerce Department from the Middle West declared that a movement was on foot there to ask Congress to appropriate $100,000,000 to purchase American grain to be used in the relief work.

FUTURE TRADING ACT IS ASSAILED.

CHICAGO BOARD, SEEKING TO PROVE LAW INVALID, ASKS FOR SUSPENSION.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Eight members of the Chicago Board of Trade, who are asking that the future trading act, effective December 24, be declared unconstitutional, moved in the Supreme Court today a modification of the former order of the court suspending operation of the law so far as that exchange is concerned.

Counsel for the eight members explained that the suspension of the operation of the law would prevent the Board of Trade from becoming a contract market. Should the law be held constitutional, the suspension also, it was declared, would compel all its members to pay the prohibitive tax of 20 cents a bushel on all dealings in futures, which might be dealt in while the case was under consideration, whereas, as members of a contract market, they would not be.

The court took the request under advisement.

LEGISLATION AN AID TO ROAD BUILDING.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

OMAHA, Dec. 5.—A great deal of road building can be done in the coming year as a result of enactment of favorable laws, W. S. Keller of Montgomery, Ala., president of the American Association of State Highway Commissioners, told delegates attending the association's national convention today.

About 150 delegates were present, but more were expected before the session's close Thursday.

MORSE ON WAY BACK.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HAVRE, Dec. 5.—Charles W. Morse, whose return to the United States on the steamship Paris was requested by Atty.-Gen. Daugherty, boarded the liner for his journey back to New York at 1 a.m. Other passengers were not permitted to go aboard before 6 p.m.

MAY FORCE GERMAN COMPANIES TO PAY.

BAY CITY CLAIMANTS SEEK MONEY DUE FROM FIRE INSURANCE.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—A bill directing the Alien Property custodian to sell a portion of the holdings of twenty-three German fire insurance companies in the United States in order to satisfy $5,680,000 in claims against these companies by San Francisco business and other interests as a result of the fire of 1906, is to be framed here for presentation to Congress, Harry Hill, president of a group of claimants, announced today. The claimants hope to be joined later by a number of Santa Rosa claimants and it is possible that the bill will specify the sale of enough of the alien property to satisfy the Santa Rosa claims also.

Both San Francisco and Santa Rosa were partially destroyed in fires which followed the earthquake of April 18, 1906. The German companies defaulted on their payments, according to the charges made by Hill, and it is proposed to sell their property.

The claimants have started a campaign to interest the California Congressional delegation in the passage of the bill.

RELIEF FOR RUSSIA SOUGHT BY KRASSIN.

SOVIET TRADE COMMISSIONER THINKS INTERNATIONAL LOAN WOULD AID ALL.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Dec. 5. — Addressing a famine relief meeting last night, Leonid Krassin, soviet trade envoy, said:

"The interests of Europe and the whole world demand relief for Russia, which before the war was Europe's granary and one of the chief producers of raw materials.

"The relief ought to take the form of an international loan, which Russia would be able to repay within a few years. The fact that the western powers, including the United States, has refused so far to recognize the soviet government amounts practically to a continuation of a policy of intervention and blockade. The absence of such recognition hinders the development of Russia's economic resources and compels Russia to maintain a considerable army at great expenditure in order to be ready momentarily to repel new attacks.

"So long as Europe and America remain hostile to the Russian government there can be no economic restoration in Europe or the world.

LOSS OF BOAT AND CREW IS CONFIRMED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—Reports that the tug Sea Eagle, out of San Francisco, foundered in a storm off the Oregon coast on November 25, and that Capt. George Gove and the nine members of the tug's crew were drowned, were confirmed today by officers of the schooner Tamalpais when the vessel arrived from Northwest points.

Capt. L. Gunderson of the Tamalpais said that when off Cape Blanco he drew up alongside the schooner Ecola, which was being towed by the tug at the time the little vessel foundered. The Ecola reported that the tug had gone down with the loss of all on board. Capt. Gove lived in Berkeley.

GEN. TREAT TO RETIRE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5. — Request of Brig.-Gen. C. G. Treat for retirement from active service was granted today by the War Department, effective April 27, 1922. The general, who commanded American troops in Italy during the war, will be assigned to command troops at Manila until his retirement.

LOW INTEREST RATE BONDS DISPOSED OF.

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 5.—One million dollars' worth of 4 per cent San Francisco Harbor improvement bonds were sold today by the State Board of Control to the Anglo, London and Paris National Bank of San Francisco. The bonds were bid in by the board more than three years ago, but could not be sold because of their low interest rate.

To sell the bonds the State Harbor Commission paid a commission of $100,000 out of its funds, which brought the bonds to a basis of 4.48, the lowest rate bonds that have been sold by the State for more than three years.

IMPORTANT RULINGS AFFECT IRRIGATION.

MILLER & LUX, SOUTHERN PACIFIC LOSE; MERCED COUNTY UPHELD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

STOCKTON, Dec. 5.—Two new questions of great importance in the organization of irrigation districts were decided by Judge J. A. Plummer this afternoon when he denied the petitions of Miller & Lux, Inc., and the Southern Pacific Company against the Board of Supervisors of Merced county for writs of review and mandate.

The writs sought to compel the exclusion of lands of the plaintiff corporations from the proposed West San Joaquin Irrigation District, comprising over 200,000 acres in Merced county.

The Miller & Lux petition was based on the contention that the district could not be organized because all the land in it is now irrigated from the works of a public utility corporation, but the court held that the district would have the right to acquire the works of the Canal company by eminent domain proceedings.

The Southern Pacific petitions were based on the contention that inasmuch as its rights of way were not susceptible of irrigation they should not be included in the district. The court held that the land must be considered in its natural state and that, therefore, such rights of way and grounds could be included.

NEW SOLDIER BONUS BILL IS PRESENTED.

WOULD RAISE MONEY BY TAX ON TURNOVERS, IDEA OF REPRESENTATIVE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—A soldiers' bonus bill with a provision for the raising of funds through a 1 per cent general turnover tax, was introduced today in the House by Representative Mott of New York. The bill, so far as its adjusted compensation features are concerned, is similar to the measure reported by the Senate Finance Committee last June. It gives the veterans five options, either adjusted service pay, insurance, vocational training, farm or home aid, or land settlement.

Representative Fordney, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, has indicated he intends to offer a somewhat similar bill.

"The country is ready now, I believe," said Representative Mott in discussing the bill, "to give the too long postponed recognition to the World War veterans for their services in the war. Until recently financial conditions have been such that many, including President Harding, have favored postponing the payment of our just obligations to our soldiers and sailors, but now, with the decrease in governument expenditures and the doing away in the future of many taxes, the time has come for us to again give attention to the debt due those who fought for us. The money can be raised without seriously inconveniencing anyone by means of a sales tax."

KILLING ACCIDENTAL, IS VERDICT OF JURY.

WOODLAND, Dec. 5.—A Coroner's jury here today returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Gordon Sawyer, a University of California student who was killed a few miles from here yesterday when he was shot by William L. Minaker, also a student at the university.

The two were hunting ducks and, according to the testimony of Minaker, the latter's gun was accidentally discharged and the load of shot struck Sawyer in the back. Sawyer, Minaker said, was ten yards away. Sawyer was the son of G. H. Sawyer, a banker of Tucson, Ariz. The body was taken to Berkeley today.

CAR MANUFACTURERS MAKING GOOD MONEY

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Directors of the Yellow Manufacturing Company, makers of taxicabs and pleasure cars, today voted to recommend to stockholders a 100 per cent stock dividend on class B stock outstanding, and that the dividend rate on entire new stock be increased to $7.20 per annum, payable in monthly installments of 60 cents per share.

Annual dividends on the present stock would thus be $14.40 per share.

Tale of a Coat

Courtship is an affair of dire importance! It is also a rather ticklish proceeding. You're putting your neck in a noose. And, maybe, the noose doesn't fit. Now, there's long courtship and short courtship. Both are dangerous. Long courtships generate staleness. Ofttimes, too, some rapid fire artist gets in, while you're moping, and cops your prize.

Short courtships are dangerous for the reason that one cannot get to know the other in a day or a week or a month. And many a black eye is the result. Hence the golden rule. Weigh well, but not so well that the edge be not taken off one of the sweetest little games on earth.

Now, I find, that when customers come in to court me they're usually hasty courters. They've spotted me in the window or on someone's back and it takes them no time to make a selection. Others fondle and feel me and turn me inside out and examine my bolt and lay buttons and my plaits. And, all the time, I'm tickled to death because I know I'm the real stuff and I'll soon be on their backs. So, whether a man courts me long or short, I'll stand the test and I'll never disappoint the wearer of me.

"DIPS" INVENT NEW GAME.

Pickpockets "Rescue" Hand-picked Victim; Rob Him and Divide Spoils With "Defeated" Band.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—New York's pickpockets have a new game. They call it the "rescue game." They rescue a hand-picked victim from the clutches of a gang bent on cleaning out his pockets. After he has been rescued everything salable or pawnable that he carries is removed by the rescuer and the spoils are divided among the rescuer and the band that was apparently defeated in its purpose.

Prohibition has reduced appreciably the profits of the industry in which Oliver Twist was trained by Fagin. The fewer the drunks the fewer the victims. Many of the dips, as the pickpocket is known in police classifications, have turned to bootlegging, but there remains no lack of those who stick to their old occupation. Elevated and subway trains and stations, especially in the early morning hours, are still fertile fields for their endeavors.

WATCH FOR "SLEEPERS."

Traveling in pairs on local subway trains from midnight on the pickpockets stand at side doors, one on each side, and watch for "sleepers"—men or women who have fallen asleep on a bench while waiting for a train or have been overcome by the opiate dispensed as "hooch" by bootleggers. If they spot such a "sleeper" the pickpockets get off the nearest station and board a train which will take them to the platform where the slumberer is snoring. Then they await their chance to empty his or her pockets without detection. Having taken all there is worth taking they board the next train and repeat the process, riding from one end of the line to the other until traffic begins to get so heavy that they can no longer operate with safety.

NOT VERY LUCRATIVE.

This method, however, is not as lucrative as in days of yore, for the train guards have learned to recognize faces, and when they observe a familiar pair riding up and down continuously they take steps to spoil the game. When the pickpockets get off the guard delays his train long enough to tell the ticket agent at that station, and he in turn telephones to the ticket agent at the corresponding uptown station to be on the lookout and if he has a "sleeper" on his hands to rouse and warn him.

So, responding to the need of devising new and protective ways of pursuing their calling with profit the pickpockets have taken to the "rescue game."

SONS OF CLEVELAND ENROLL AT HARVARD.

YOUNGER REPORTS TO COACH OF WEIGHT EVENTS; TRIES FOR SHOT-PUT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) Dec. 5.—Two sons of the late President Grover Cleveland are enrolled at Harvard, it became known here today. The younger, Francis Grover Cleveland, was one of the twenty-five freshmen who reported to Coach Eddie Farrell of the weight events. His specialty is the shot-put. Although he failed to make his track letter at Exeter, Cleveland managed the football team and was president of his class in his senior year. He shows great promise, however. The other brother, Richard F. Cleveland, who was a member of the Exeter and Princeton track teams, is a first-year student in the Harvard law school.

UNWRITTEN LAW IS BROKEN BY HOUSE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—There is an unwritten law that the "lower body of Congress must not offend the dignity of the Senate," the upper body, by levitous remarks addressed either toward the Senate as a whole or toward individual members. Today, however, the House had its opportunity.

Just as roll call at the first regular session was completed, a stentorian voice announced:

"Mr. Speaker, a message from the Senate. A quorum is present and the Senate is ready to do business."

Applause that swelled to cheers swept over the House. The Senate clerk vainly attempted to make his voice heard. The cheering died down, only to start anew, with a voice above the noise crying "It's about time."

The House had extended its compliments to the Senate.

LOAN CONDITIONAL.

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Dec. 5.—News that the German loan which Stinnes and Rathenau want London to negotiate would be conditional upon a moratorium being granted to Germany in respect to payment of reparations made a painful impression here. France has not yet received a cent for reparations, either in cash or in kind. The total installments paid by Germany represent the cost of the upkeep of the armies of occupation, and the repayment of advances made by France against deliveries of coal.

As for the installment of 1,000,000,000 marks, which Germany has made to the Reparations Commission since that date, the commission has not yet distributed it to the Allies. Considering the claim of Belgium to priority, and the claims of England for repayment of the expenses of her army of occupation it does not seem as if France would receive a share of the first 1,000,000,000 marks, and not even of the next installment, due January 15 and February 15.

MEANS LONG WAIT.

In practice, France would only begin to receive payments applicable to reparations reckoning from the time of installments falling due after Feberuary 15. The consequences of the moratorium would therefore be that Germany's first payments would benefit Belgium and England alone, and other payments would be suspended for two or three years, just when France was to receive a share.

It also is thought it would be imprudent to liberate Germany from all obligations to pay cash for three years. It is madness to think she would put resources aside as a reserve with which to pay later. It is infinitely more likely she would conceal them as she has already done since the signing of the Peace Treaty. On the contrary, it is essential that Germany's finances should be strictly supervised. This is a vital question for France since the reconstruction of the devastated regions is at stake.

VESSEL FEARED LOST MAKES PORT SAFELY.

SCHOONER ECOLA SAFE, BUT REPORTS LOSS OF TUG SEA EAGLE, ENTIRE CREW.

MARSHFIELD (Or.) Dec. 5.—The schooner Ecola, fears for whose safety were recently expressed in connection with the tug Sea Eagle which had had her in tow, arrived in port here late today in tow of the tug Fearless and proceeded to North Bend to load lumber for Australia.

The Sea Eagle, with the Ecola in tow, was swamped by a huge wave, overturned and went down with all on board November 20 while running for the Columbia River to escape the storm, according to the story brought by the Ecola. There was no opportunity to save any of the crew, owing to the speed with which the tug sank.

The Sea Eagle picked up the Ecola November 19 off Cape Blanco, but did not try to get into Coos Bay owing to the rough sea. Next day the storm was much worse. The tug and schooner were off Yaquina when the disaster occurred.

Following the tug's loss the Ecola proceeded as best she could alone. The fourteen men on board arrived here well.

SINN FEIN AND BRITISH AGREE.

vent the English from ruling in Ireland. It was therefore a contest mainly between what might be regarded as spiritual force on one side and physical force on the other, and such a contest in the long run always went to the spiritual force.

"The Irish army has a glorious mission to perform," he continued. "Its units are called upon to do the noblest things required of human beings, and to the civilian population not in the army, they say: 'The Irish army is your strong right hand; give it all the support you can.'"

THE BIG QUESTIONS

The big questions at issue between the British government and the representatives of the Irish Republican parliament have been:

Shall Ireland become entirely independent or, if it remain within the British Empire, shall there be two separate governments in Ireland, one for Ulster and one for the rest of the country?

Prime Minister Lloyd George has refused to consider any proposal which would put Ireland outside the empire.

The Sinn Feiners refused to admit that Ireland should be split in two parts.

Ulster refused to unite in one parliament with the Sinn Feiners. It has organized a parliament of its own under the Government of Ireland Act.

SINN FEIN BALKS.

The Sinn Feiners refused to set up a parliament for the South of Ireland, as proposed in that act. They adhered to their own Irish parliament, called the Dail Eireann, which they had set up independently as the governing body of the Irish Republic.

That was the situation when the truce began last July, after King George had made a conciliatory speech at the opening of the new parliament in Ulster.

The conferences began in July. Both sides have at times entertained higher hopes of a final and satisfactory settlement, probably than at any time since the Irish question became a thorn in the side of the British Empire, but there have been several crises when the negotiations seemed doomed to failure.

The first of these occurred when Lloyd George offered to De Valera at consultation in London a form of self-government in Ireland something like that prevailing in the British dominions. The Dail Eireann utterly rejected this proposal on the ground that it did not afford even genuine dominion rule. For a time it seemed that a deadlock had been reached.

IRISH INSISTENT.

Lloyd George endeavored to resume negotiations, but this move seemed likely to be balked by De Valera's insistence that the Irish delegates to such a conference must be accepted as having derived their authority from a free and independent Ireland. The British Premier refused to concede that point as, he said, it would constitute a recognition at the very outset of Ireland's claims for separation from the British Empire.

This obstacle was overcome by the two parties agreeing upon Lloyd George's formula that the purpose of the conference should be to ascertain how Ireland's association with the empire might be best reconciled with Ireland's national aspirations.

Under that formula, meetings have been in progress since early October. The proceedings have been secret. It has been reported, however, that British representatives submitted a plan to give Ireland a status of "association" with the empire and to allow her an almost complete measure of self-government to be exercised by separate parliaments in Ulster and South Ireland, respectively, and by a Central Council jointly chosen.

ULSTER IN AGAIN.

This brought Ulster again into the negotiations. The general understanding was that the Sinn Fein delegates insisted that there must be no partition of Ireland into the North and South with different forms of government and different relations to the empire.

To reconcile the conflicting viewpoints, Lloyd George invited Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, to come to London in the first week in November, to talk things over. The situation was so delicate that Sir James desired the support and advice of other Ulster leaders, and finally all the members of the Ulster Cabinet were called to London. Unionist opinion in England has been steadfastly against any "coercion of Ulster." It was generally conceded that one of the most difficult stages of the negotiations had been reached.

ARBUCKLE'S LIQUOR CASE CALLED UP.

Comedian Waives Hearing and Action Will Go Direct to Federal Court.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—Two courts were concerned today with the aftermath of the trial of "Fatty" Arbuckle, which ended in disagreement yesterday. In the commissioner's division of the United States District Court an appearance was made for Arbuckle in answer to a prohibition violation charge against him. Simultaneously in the Police Court Mrs. Minnie Neighbors, witness for the defense in the trial, appeared on a perjury charge in connection with her testimony. A preliminary hearing was waived by the defense on the prohibition charge and the Neighbors case was continued until Wednesday.

Previously Dist.-Atty. Brady announced that he was investigating information that an attempt was made to intimidate Mrs. Helen M. Hubbard, one of the jurors in the trial. She voted for conviction consistently. Brady said he may present the matter to the grand jury for an exhaustive inquiry. The grand jury is scheduled to meet tonight. Police Lieutenant William Lambert, mentioned in connection with the intimidation charges, has been asked by Chief of Police O'Brien to make a full statement.

The prohibition violation charge arose out of the serving and consumption of liquor at the party in Arbuckle's rooms in the Hotel St. Francis on September 5. Arbuckle expected to leave for his home in Los Angeles late today or early tomorrow. He will not return until summoned to appear in court.

Gus Oliva, commission merchant, denied today that he had telephoned to Mrs. Hubbard's husband asking that the latter send a note to his wife in the jury room advising her to change her vote from conviction to acquittal. Hubbard said yesterday some one representing himself to be Oliva had given him such a message over the telephone. Oliva said there had been ill feeling between the Hubbards on one side and himself and his brother, Sil Oliva, on the other, and that once he had Hubbard arrested, the case being settled out of court later. Mrs. Hubbard once was a book-keeper in the Oliva commission firm, according to Gus Oliva.

FRESNO, Dec. 5.—Mrs. Maude Delmont is in the Madera County Jail awaiting trial on a bigamy charge preferred against her by Dist.-Atty. Green. Mrs. Delmont was brought to Madera late Sunday night by a member of the Sheriff's office. She has maintained a strict silence and refuses to make any statements. The woman, who was arrested in San Francisco last week, obtained national notoriety due to her connection in the "Fatty" Arbuckle case.

OREGON COWS BREAK BUTTER FAT RECORD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALEM, Or., Dec. 5.—According to a report from the New York office of the American Jersey Cattle club, McArthur and Stauff of Rickreall, Or., have set a new world's record for butter fat production by a herd of 15 or more cows for six months. The yields for the months of May to October, inclusive, show the average of 60.01 pounds of butter fat per month, or approximately two pounds per day. No other Jersey herd in the world has ever equaled this record, it is said.

The McArthur and Stauff herd broke the world's Jersey record for monthly butter fat production last July when 15 cows averaged 61.37 pounds.

Mrs. Mary Blake SUGGESTS

It is easy to whip Carnation Milk after which it can be used as a filling for cream puffs or for any other purpose calling for whipped cream. To assure the most satisfactory results, place a can of Carnation in water and heat to boiling. Remove promptly and thoroughly chill by placing can on ice or in cold water.

When cool, open can and pour milk into chilled bowl placed in another bowl filled with crushed ice. After milk has become thoroughly chilled, whip in regular way with ordinary egg beater for about five minutes.

Carnation Milk can be whipped without heating but you will find the method suggested above will give you a better whip.

GERMANS WISH TO PAY DEBTS.

Will Supply Materials, Says Chancellor Wirth.

World Should See Danger of Bankruptcy.

Outside Financiers Must Aid the Teutons.

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, Dec. 5. — Chancellor Wirth, addressing the newspapers yesterday, said it would be delightful "to turn their eyes across the Atlantic and also across the channel where the discussion of great problems was in progress," but he would forbear touching many of the problems near their hearts. He reiterated, however, Germany's willingness to fulfill her obligations, adding:

"Is there anybody in the world who thinks it possible to squeeze dry like a lemon a people like the Germans? I know not how our late adversaries contemplate continuing their policy in the coming year. We will, in the next few days carry out our sincere intentions by supplying materials, so far as credit on the basis of such materials is possible and their delivery economically possible.

NEED OUTSIDE AID.

"But the decision whether there are in the world financiers who are ready to put their money into the reparations pot—a pot without a bottom—rests not with the German government, not even purely with German industry and finance, but with financiers not resident in Germany.

"We must, therefore, await developments during the coming week with patience. Whether the results will enable us to tide over January and February lies not with us, lies rather in the question whether, everywhere where economy is the subject of thought, the isolation of Eastern Europe, the economic prostration of Austria and Hungary, and the collapse of the economic life, particularly the waning purchasing power of 60,000,000 Germans, are recognized as a world danger.

COMPROMISES NEEDED.

"The greatest political energy must now be applied to the prompt disposal of the taxation laws and to that end certain compromises will be essential. It is clear to me that without distinctly visible sacrifice of property, the clearing up of the domestic political situation and the passing of these laws are impossible. Everyone should remember that it is not the wrecking of these laws that will help the German people, but the firm, clear will so to balance the home budget that nobody in the world will be able to doubt our good will and energy to put our house in order."

ANOTHER LIBERIAN DELEGATION ARRIVES.

REPRESENTATIVES OF MARITIME CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE SEEK TRADE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Interest in the Russian situation at it pertains to the arms conference was increased today with the arrival of a second unofficial delegation from Siberia which particularly represents the maritime chambers of Commerce, including the eastern coast of Siberia, the peninsula of Kamachatka, and the Island of Saghalien, the northern part of which was occupied some months ago by the Japanese army.

The commercial delegation issued a statement pointing out it had no political mission, but that it was in accord with the idea expressed by the Far Eastern republic deputation, which arrived yesterday, that the economic development of Siberia could be carried out only on the condition that the Japanese troops of occupation be withdrawn.

P. P. Goudkoff, a professor of geology and mining engineer, who is in charge of the maritime delegation and his colleagues pointed to the almost unlimited resources of Siberia as affording many opportunities for the investment of American capital and the opening up of general industrial and commercial relations which would be worth while both to the United States and Russia.

RHINELAND PROVINCE SEEKS INDEPENDENCE

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Dec. 5.—A Havas Agency dispatch from Mayence today reports that the new Republican Separatist party of the Rhineland held a conference yesterday at Bonn in the Rhineland Province, attended by 534 delegates representing 192 districts.

The assemblage, says the news agency, adopted a resolution charging a committee to be appointed with the duty of creating a Rhenish parliament with a view to the formation of an independent republic, and asking the Washington conference to proclaim neutralization of the Rhine.

YANKEE SOLDIERS HAVE CARD FAD.

Engraving Cheap in Germany and They Must Have Them.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

COBLENZ, Nov. 16. Engraved calling cards are a late fad among soldiers of the American forces in Germany. Nearly every soldier has engraved cards with his name and outfit, and some have other cards with their home address in the United States, particularly those who are planning to return to America within the next few months. A 100 cards and plate, at the present rate of exchange of the dollar for the mark, costs the soldier about 80 or 90 cents in Coblens stationery shops.

SCHOOLS COST FOUR CENTS DAILY

Pay Five Times as Much for Luxuries as We do for Education, Teachers Say.

In accordance with the National Education Week proclamation of the President, the following bulletin on the cost of schooling in Los Angeles was issued yesterday by the High School Teachers' Association:

How much does it cost to maintain the public schools of Los Angeles? Little more than 4 cents a day for every man, woman and child. Last year Los Angeles citizens paid in taxes to the Federal government for tobacco, soft drinks, theater admissions, jewelry and other luxuries, over half what it paid for its schools. The total expenditure for these luxuries was five times the cost of the schools.

This year the school budget calls for an expenditure for all purposes except outlays for permanent improvements of $12,096,275. We may estimate the population as of Jan. 1, 1922, the middle of the school year, at 750,000, an increase in the two years since the Federal census of about 30 per cent. The school enrollment has increased 39 per cent. The cost of the schools per inhabitant this year will thus be about $16, or about 4.4 cents a day. The per capita cost in 1915-16 was $10.56, or about two-thirds as much. But meanwhile the dollar has fallen to only three-fifths of its value in 1915-16.

The total school tax rate this year is $1.56, a decrease since last year of 9 cents. A home owner whose property is worth $10,000, and assessed at $5000, will pay a school tax of $78. If the home owner has a girl in an elementary school, his tax will pay only four-fifths of the cost of her schooling. If he has a boy in the high school, it will pay less than half of the cost.

Mr. Citizen, is it wise to spend less than 5 cents a day to train boys and girls for citizenship, while spending 25 cents for luxuries? Mr. Business Man, how long could the quality of a product be maintained if income increased only 53 per cent, while cost of production increased over 65 per cent? Mr. Home Owner, are your school taxes high when they amount to only one-third of the cost of educating your two children?

DROVE INTO HOUSE; GETS NO DAMAGES.

A Superior Court judge, two attorneys and an undertaker, all of whom were just a moment too late to see an automobile dive under a house that was being moved in Western avenue, were witnesses in Judge Hahn's court yesterday in the suit for damages that followed the accident. Walter Jensen, driving the machine, demanded $20,115 damages from the Kress House-Moving Company. He contended that the house was not properly guarded by red lanterns. The defense asserted it was, and contended that Mr. Jensen ought to have been able to see such a large obstruction in the street. Judge Hahn gave judgment in favor of the defendant, holding that the plaintiff ought to have been able to see a house in his way.

IN BANKRUPTCY COURT.

The Channel Commercial Company, with a claim of $948.74; Smith-Riddick Company, $322.71, and the Cooper, Coate & Casey Dry Goods Company, a creditor to the extent of $736.16, filed a petition in the United States District Court yesterday, praying that the Compton Commercial Company be adjudged a bankrupt concern. Various acts of bankruptcy are charged against the members of the firm. D. E. Ball of Taft, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the same court yesterday, giving his debts as $800, and his assets as $100.

ARMY SERVICE FIGHTS PESTS.

Chemical Warfare Men Begin Peace-Time Battle.

Imperial Valley to be Given Attention Soon.

Blackbirds There Said to be Destructive.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The War Department recently asked the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior to cooperate with the chemical warfare service of the Army in devising peace-time gases to combat the boll weevil and other civic and industrial pests.

It is the belief of the Army that so many new chemical gases and other chemical products have been developed as a result of research work since the war, that at last the government is in a position to extend the hope that it may be able not only to exterminate the rodents that infest the disease breeding quarters of the pests, but be able as well to cope with and destroy the rodents and insects that destroy the agricultural crops.

CAMPAIGN BEGUN.

The weapons of war must be the implements of peace, according to Brig.-Gen. Amos A. Fries, chief of chemical warfare. Accordingly, the chemical service has begun a campaign to develop gases that will attack and exterminate not only the rats that infest sewers, but the bugs and worms that eat up the leaves and fruits of various agricultural products. At present, the Army is working on a request from Representative Philip D. Swing of Imperial Valley, California, in the hope of finding something that will exterminate the blackbird pest.

Representative Swing was a recent visitor at the Edgewood arsenal, Edgewood, Md., where the chemical warfare gas research is being carried on. He had already asked the government to devise some preventative against the blackbirds. He complained that they breed in millions in the delta of the Colorado River just below the Grand Canyon, and come over in midsummer to devastate the kaffir corn fields of the famous Imperial Valley.

As a result of his visit he was assured that the chemical warfare service could devise a poison that would kill some of the birds and drive off the others. He was told, however, that to use it the farmers would have to content themselves with using their products for food and fodder alone, as the chemicals would destroy the reseeding value of the fruit.

FARMER LOSES ALL.

In response, the Representative pointed out that as things stand the farmers get neither food nor seed. Mr. Swing was assured that the government would undertake a new series of experiments to attempt to develop something that would both protect the grain and its reseeding qualities.

The effectiveness of chemical warfare against rodents already has been proven. The Army recently sent a group of experts to Cuba with chemicals and instruments for destroying rats and other vermin. The result of their efforts is reported to have been most satisfactory. Several requests have been received through Congress for further experiments in cities of the United States in combating similar pests.

The present plans of the War Department are to get from the Department of Agriculture and the Department of the Interior, such suggestions as they may care to make on the peace-time work to be done against rodents and pests, and then turn the war-time forces of the Army to work against them.

PUT OVER UNTIL MAY.

The suit of Ruth M. Bekins against Ella Smith Trull, sometimes called "Saint Ella," to terminate a tenancy was continued in Judge J. P. Wood's court yesterday until May 2.

In this suit Miss Bekins seeks to recover possession of property leased Mrs. Trull because of alleged violation of contract terms, involving the drawing of great throngs about the premises by the announcement that an immortal child, "King Emanuel," was to be born to the occupant.

Mrs. Trull denies violation of the terms of the lease condition.

UNKISSED BRIDE SEEKS A DIVORCE.

Pauline M. Gleason is an unkissed bride, according to a complaint for divorce filed yesterday against Harold A. Gleason.

The complaint states the couple were married in Boston, July 18, 1916, and that they immediately separated.

RUG THEFT SUSPECT IS FREED ON WRIT.

Benjamin Windsor, charged with being implicated in a number of rug robberies in this city, yesterday was freed on a writ of habeas corpus by Judge Houser. It was set forth by the man's attorney, C. R. Morfoot, that Windsor is held only on the word of a confederate. The judge granted the motion on the grounds set forth.

FOR WILLIAM MACK PRIZE.

A contest for the William Mack prize for proficiency in research work is to be held during the winter quarter at the University of Southern California college of law, according to an announcement yesterday. The contest will be open to all the students in the law college and will be conducted under the direction of Charles E. Millikan. A valuable library of law books is the award to the winner of the contest.

FOR ANNUAL BAZAAR.

The Serority and Women's Guild of St. James's and St. Barnabas's Church will hold their annual bazaar on Thursday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 1320 West Seventh street. Fancy articles, Christmas novelties and cooked foods will be sold. Luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. until 2 p.m., and afternoon tea from 3 until 5 p.m.

HUSBAND LOSES NEW SALOME.

Wouldn't Live Up to Biblical Namesake, So Gets Divorce.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 5. — Salome Driutainis refused to live up to her name and to function as a biblical Salome and the outcome is that Peter Driutainis has lost her.

It appears that Peter had read up on the history of the earlier Salome and thought highly of her. So, when he took Salome Janssauckis as his wife, Nov. 21, 1920, much booze was consumed by the groom and his friends and when all were intoxicated he insisted that his new wife display herself as the original Salome. Because she refused he administered a sound beating.

His wife refused to see him again after the orgy of the wedding day and Judge Lynch in the Circuit Court granted a divorce and permitted her to resume her maiden name.

Says Husband Avowed Himself as Baby Hater.

Many unusual assertions were made by Nelson D. Hughes to Janet M. Hughes during their brief married life. But there were two to which Mrs. Hughes strenuously took exception. One regarded her husband's avowed aversion to babies. The other was his popularity with other women.

According to a divorce complaint filed yesterday by Mrs. Hughes, her husband on one occasion stated: "I would rather have a dog around the house than a baby. I can throw the dog out of the window when it howls."

The other comment made by Mr. Hughes that did not set well with his wife concerned his asserted boast that "a lot of girls" had offered him a home and would support him.

Mrs. Hughes's complaint was filed by Attorney Georgia P. Bullock.

AWARDED ALIMONY; FALLS IN A FAINT.

Shortly after Judge Toland had ordered Dr. Oscar B. Lundy, a dentist, to pay $50 a month alimony to his wife, Mrs. Mary A. Lundy, the latter, fainted as she was descending from the second to the first floor of the Courthouse yesterday and fell down six steps. At the time of the accident yesterday Mrs. Lundy was accompanied by Mrs. Grimes, with whom she resides at 808½ South Figueroa street. Mrs. Lundy was first taken into the chambers of Justice Hinshaw and later to the Receiving Hospital. There it was found no bones were broken nor was there evidence of internal injury.

Dr. Lundy filed the suit for divorce. Attorney Willis Mitchell represents Mrs. Lundy.

Wine Makers Go to Prison; Wives Fined.

Sam Kreiger and Louis Goodman, and their wives, Tillie and Rosa, respectively, were in U. S. District Judge Bledsoe's court yesterday on charges of violating the liquor laws.

The men were given seven months in the County Jail. Mrs. Kreiger was fined $4, or $1 on each of four counts, while Mrs. Goodman pleaded guilty to one count, and was fined $1. When the judgment of the court was pronounced, eight children of the Goodmans and four of the Kreigers, cried and wailed.

Kreiger and Goodman ran a still and dealt in vinous and malt beverages. They did a land office business, prohibition enforcement agents say, in the Jewish quarter on Temple street.

NEW BEER AND WINE MEASURE INTRODUCED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Sale of beer and light wine would be permitted in Congressional districts in which voters expressed approval under a bill introduced today by Representative Hill, Republican, Maryland.

The measure, which provides a manufacturer's tax of 10 cents a gallon on beer and 40 cents a gallon on wine, was referred to the Ways and Means Committee.

Railway Mail Clerk Arrested.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5. — Fred S. Ridley, railway mail clerk, is under arrest at Ely, Nev., on a charge of taking goods of various kinds from the mails, S. H. Morse, chief postal inspector, announced here today. Some of the goods have been recovered, Morse said.

FATHER DESERTS SON IN POMONA.

Tourist Leaves Little Lad in Strange Town.

Third Candidate for Postoffice Enter Race.

Store Burglar Escapes While Officer Looks On.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

POMONA, Dec. 5.—Vincent McCarthy, a bright little chap, 3 years old, was deserted by his father, Dennis McCarthy, on East Holt avenue about noon today. The boy had been left in front of the D. C. Crookshank home at 322 East Holt avenue, and Mr. and Mrs Charles Elder, who make their home there, noticed the little fellow sitting on the curb.

After watching him for some time, they invited him to come into the house. He refused, saying that his father would return for him in a minute. Late this afternoon, when the father had not appeared, the Elders concluded that the boy had been deserted and called the police. To them the little fellow told them that his father had deserted a brother, Anthony, yesterday morning.

McCarthy and a man named William Morris, it is said, are on a transcontinental trip on motorcycles equipped with side cars.

They came from Salem, Mass., and the boy says that his mother is dead. The police are holding the deserted youngster and are trying to locate the parent.

CANDIDATE FOR POSTOFFICE.

Charles F. Schwan, assistant postmaster of Pomona for the last twenty-three years, announced today that he is a candidate for the position of postmaster, which becomes vacant January 24.

He is the third man to announce his candidacy for the office, the others being Harry B. Westgate, attorney, and Bismark H. Shewman, veteran letter carrier.

Mr. Schwan has lived in Pomona thirty-one years and has been assistant postmaster ever since joining the local office.

STORE ROBBERY.

The clothing store of John P. Evans in this city was robbed of more than $400 worth of merchandise, some time last night.

The burglar made his escape on a Southern Pacific train early this morning and was noticed by Officer Sloan, who inquired why he was carrying so many boxes. The man was well-dressed and looked above suspicion, and with a carefree remark put the officer off his guard and escaped on the moving train. The robbery was not discovered until 6 o'clock this morning.

This is the second time within the last few months that the Evans store has been robbed in the same manner, but this time the police have a good description of the marauder and hope to effect an early capture.

BUILDING BOOM.

The $721,450 worth of building permits issued last month in Pomona bring the total building for the first eleven months of 1921 to the grand total of $900,056. This total is already $106,304 greater than the total for the entire year of 1920.

With a continuation of the boom for the month of December there is every reason to believe that the building for the year 1921 will break all records and pass the $1,000,000 mark.

STUDENTS BOOST FOR EDUCATIONAL WEEK.

GLENDALE, Dec. 5.—A demonstration parade of high school students and seventh and eighth grade pupils of the intermediate school took place this afternoon in celebration of Education Week. Four hundred and fifty automobiles were donated to convey the pupils.

Richardson D. White, Superintendent of the City Schools, urges that all who are interested should visit the schools.

There will be a mass meeting Tuesday evening at the high school and one also in the auditorium of the intermediate school. A musical program will be given at both meetings.

Stanley P. Wilson, member of the State Board of Education, and Buron R. Fitts will make addresses at both buildings. Each day during the week there will be special attention given to certain subjects at all schools.

Special rates next two or three months. Merritt Jones Hotel, Ocean Park. Reduce cost of living.—[Advertisement.

WILL FACE FRAUD CHARGE IN TEXAS.

U. S. District Judge Bledsoe yesterday issued an order sending W. E. Swain back to San Antonio, Tex., where he is under indictment charging dealing in a fictitious bill of lading, covering a shipment of hides from San Antonio to New York.

It is stated the bill of lading called for about 150,000 pounds of hides, when the real shipment was only for about one-tenth of that amount.

RECOVER DAMAGES.

Verdict for Widow and Daughter in Auto Bus Accident Suit.

Annie Powers and Marguerite Powers, widow and daughter of Frank Powers, who was killed near San Diego when a stage auto turned over, were awarded $3930 damages by Judge York yesterday in an action against the Sutherland Auto Stage Company. The suit was for $15,000 damages.

The accident happened Jan. 21, 1920, while Mr. Powers was coming from Tijuana.

FARMERS TO START BIG DRIVE.

To Increase Membership of County Bureau; Hungry Bird Eats Gold Fish.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SANTA ANA, Dec. 5.—With a quota of 2500 members set to be attained before January 1, an intensive membership drive will start in the Orange County Farm Bureau tomorrow morning.

The entire county has been divided into a series of districts and workers have been assigned to cover these areas in a house-to-house canvass.

The county districts are assured of a complete canvass and with the greatly increased interest and scope of the farm bureau organization in the county the quota is expected to be reached in the allotted time. More than 125 workers met for a noonday luncheon and business meeting today to plan for the opening of the campaign.

Speakers of note in farm bureau work made brief addresses and every effort was made to key the workers up for the opening of the campaign in the morning.

EATS GOLD FISH.

That a hungry pelican is no respector of persons or fish, was amply proven yesterday at Orange when a stray bird devoured the gold fish in the fountain at the Plaza.

Sometime late in the afternoon the bird dropped into the fountain. No one knew where he came from or how he got there. One wing was crippled. The pelican swam about in the small pool around the fountain and gold fish disappeared one at a time. A few of the fish were saved when City Marshal Jemison shot the bird later in the evening.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

PASADENA, Dec. 5.—"No Accident Week" opened with a crash in Pasadena today, one man dying at a local hospital after being struck by a train and another man being injured when struck by an automobile.

A man believed to be Khoshaba Odisho was killed on the Salt Lake Railroad tracks in South Pasadena. Evidently he did not hear the whistle and walked on the track just as the train came. The train ran over him, but there still was a spark of life in the body.

The man was taken to Pasadena Hospital, where he died. His left leg was cut off and his right arm almost so. He did not regain consciousness. Identification was made from contents of his pockets, which indicated he was a book agent and had an account in the First National Bank, Los Angeles.

Ben Hatfield, 257 South Marengo avenue, was treated at the Emergency Hospital today when hit and knocked down by an automobile at Orange Grove avenue and Colorado street. Hatfield said the machine was driven by G. H. Bent, 1339 San Pasqual street. He received severe cuts and bruises, but will recover.

LEGAL BATTLE ENDS.

Court Makes Ruling in Contest at Bakersfield.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 5.—With the dismissal today of the prohibitory writ in Department 3 of the Superior Court, Judge Harvey presiding, the last legal obstacle interposed by William Renfro in preventing Charles A. Hare from assuming his duties as City Councilman has been removed.

Immediately following the decision, Wesley Grijalva, attorney for Renfro, was empowered by Renfro to appear before the Court of Appeals in Los Angeles, where an effort was made to obtain a restraining order and again further prevent the seating of Hare until the higher court has reviewed the election contest.

Following almost immediately the announced decision of Judge Harvey in dismissing the order, announcement was made in Los Angeles that application for a writ had been filed with the Appellate Court, but that the order had not been entertained and was dismissed.

This, it was believed in local legal circles, where the long legal battle has been closely followed, would bring to an end litigation that had its inception in the last general election, when Renfro and Hare were contestants in the Fourth Ward for a seat in the City Council. Hare was declared the winner in this contest by a small number of votes, but on contest instituted by Renfro several illegal votes were thrown out, giving the seat to Renfro.

OXNARD ELKS TO ORGANIZE LODGE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

OXNARD, Dec. 5.—Oxnard is to have an Elks' lodge within ninety days, according to those in charge of a movement to that effect in progress here today. The move was the outcome of a meeting of Oxnard Elks held at Pierpont Inn at Ventura last Saturday night, when a new lodge was being installed there.

High officials of the Elks' lodge were present at the meeting and gave the assurance that Oxnard would have a lodge with the least possible delay.

The matter of granting a charter is now in the hands of Charles Pitzer of El Centro, Deputy District Grand Exalted Ruler, who instituted Ventura. Sam Weill, Roy Witman, A. J. Dingman and other prominent Elks of this city, are working hard on membership.

Local Elks have attempted for years to get a lodge here but the population was too small. The last census taken shows 5550, the required population for a lodge.

Telephone Company Refused Right to Install Pay Stations in Long Beach.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONG BEACH, Dec. 5.—Word was received in Long Beach today to the effect that the State Railroad Commission has denied the application of the Associated Telephone Company for permission to install pay stations in place of the twenty-nine public telephones and the 279 instruments in the business district and in apartment-houses, where they are jointly used by private subscribers and by the public. The company asked for the right to charge 5 cents a call over these lines.

The petition was vigorously fought by City Attorney George L. Hodenpyl, on instructions from the Council on the ground that the service is not burdensome on the company and that the great majority of persons using these free phones are communicating with their homes and offices and are therefore subscribers. To compel them to pay 5 cents for each such call would be equivalent to a double charge.

The State commission holds that the substitution of pay stations for flat rates in this case would prove more harmful than beneficial, both to the telephone company and to subscribers.

President Carl Gray of the Union Pacific Railroad and his associates will not agree to the Los Cerritos cut-off for the new line through Long Beach to the harbor district. Through General Counsel A. E. Halstead, Gray has communicated to City Attorney George L. Hodenpyl the company's preference for the Willowsville route and his objections to the Los Cerritos survey.

COSTLY EXPLOSIONS.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENTURA, Dec. 5.—Jack Ward, powder custodian for the county, was painfully injured when touching off a bomb as the Elks' celebration was drawing to a close last night. The charge exploded imaturely, striking him in the breat and painfully burning his head and hands.

A charge of giant powder placed by an unknown celebrant too near Poli Street Grammar School broke sixty-seven panes of window glass in the building, also windows in numerous homes nearby.

PAINFUL EXPERIENCE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PASADENA, Dec. 5.—With one arm broken and with the other clinging to a narrow ledge in Eaton's Canyon during the heavy rainstorm which swept the mountains and valley during the week-end, was the experience of Herbert Dodson, a Pasadena high school boy.

He is now at the home of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. W. P. Dodson, 445 Sacramento street.

The boy was taking a hike in the mountains with a party of fellow-students and became separated from them. He fell off the trail but landed on a ledge thirty feet below, breaking his arm in the fall. He was rescued by Charles Foster, a fellow-student.

Bond buying usually becomes a habit which, once acquired, is never lost.

The satisfaction which comes with ownership of investments which are safe now, and will remain safe even during periods of the most severe depression, makes this habit a profitable and pleasant one.

The knowledge that the coupons on your bonds will be paid when due—whether today, or in twenty years—far outweighs the value of anticipated returns upon uncertain securities.

And what is most important now—bonds at present prices offer the certainty of interest returns far above the average of the past thirty years.

The time to invest is NOW.

Wheat Market Bulls Have Day on Sentiment.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Wheat was strong early and weak later and closed at the low point, with old crop deliveries ¾@1¼c and July 1¼c lower. Corn was off ¾@1c; oats, ¾@1¼c, and rye unchanged to ¼c lower.

Sentiment was rather bullish early, London cabled with rumors that Japan was buying wheat preparatory to going to war having some influence, but as this report had been current in Chicago for nearly two months it quickly lost its effect. Houses with seaboard connections were moderate buyers early to remove hedges against sales on overnight offers to the United Kingdom and the continent, but the buying quickly was all covered, and while the old crop deliveries held above Saturday's finish a good part of the day, they broke sharply toward the last in sympathy with the July.

The Southwest, while reporting that only partial relief was secured in the drought area in Kansas and Oklahoma, was a free seller of July, and there was also selling of that delivery by spreaders who bought May here and at Winnipeg. At the low July was $1.03½ or 3 cents under the recent high.

Foreign crop reports were generally favorable, except from Argentina. Liverpool advanced 1d on claims of deterioration in the latter country, and Buenos Aires closed 1¼@2¼c higher. There was a noticeable lack of outside interest on the bulges, and many of the local operators who bought early sold out later and some took the selling side. While the trade looked for a decrease in the visible and it showed a loss of 978,000 bushels for the week, making it only 24,000,000 bushels in excess of last year, and it had little effect on values.

Cash wheat demand was slow and premiums on red winter at Chicago were 2@3c lower, with some cars carried over unsold. Receipts, 39 cars.

Corn showed a heavy undertone from the start, with cash houses on the selling side hedging against purchases to arrive from the country. The latter sold more freely, due to colder weather, but a good part of the grain will go to the gulf for export. Europe was after corn, and fair sales were made at the seaboard, although quantities were not given. Local handlers sold 40,000 bushels to the seaboard. Short prices were unchanged to 1c easier as compared with the December, with receipts 416 cars.

Oats in the main reflected the action of corn and ranged lower. There was some buying early by a strong commission house, but as soon as it ceased the market turned weak and closed at the bottom. Southern demand was reported fair to better, and rather liberal sales have been made of late without being given to the trade. Receipts were 116 cars.

Houses with seaboard connections were good buyers of rye, and 10@14c over December, track Baltimore, was bid without much grain to be had. Export sales were estimated at 150,000 to 200,000 bushels. Receipts, 4 cars.

will be able to share in this initial offering of F. A. Clarke Company 8% preferred stock.

This rather unusual offering presents to the small investor an exceptional opportunity for safe investment with consistently profitable returns. This fact, coupled with the limited number of shares being offered, will not permit of any delay on the part of those who desire to invest.

The past history of the F. A. Clarke Company insures unlimited possibilities for the future. Such an opportunity to share in the profits of the Company may never again present itself. Remember—there are but 1100 shares! Subscriptions for Stock receivable at any of the Company's Stores. Complete information will also be gladly given.

Those few who are not familiar with the F. A. Clarke Company will appreciate the following very brief history of the Company.

The F. A. Clarke Company is a retail concern dealing exclusively in Electrical Household Appliances. Starting in 1917 with one Store in Los Angeles, this Company has already established an enviable record for consistent yet remarkably rapid growth—now having stores in six other Southern California towns—another Los Angeles store at Seventh and Broadway, the busiest corner in America—and has, under construction, a Central Headquarters Building which will House another Store—an Electrical Service Station—the Company Garage—and the offices of the Company, and which will be the first building in the United States erected to serve Electrical Household Appliance Customers exclusively. It should be of interest to those considering the profitableness of such a business that this amazing growth has been made solely upon the earnings of the Company!

Purpose of Financing

A great portion of the F. A. Clarke Company sales are made on the Partial Payment plan. At the present time the financing of these deferred payments is being handled through an Eastern Financing Corporation at considerable expense to the F. A. Clarke Company. The Company now proposes to finance its own deferred payments and, to make this possible, is offering $110,000 worth of 8% preferred stock. This stock is being offered at $95.00 per share—par value $100.00. With each share of preferred stock one-half share of common stock will be given. Purchased at $95.00 per share, this preferred stock will yield nearly 8½%!

DAILY TRADE TALK.

Business Conditions Reduced to Statistics; New Banks Projected; Produce Shipments Break Record.

BY CHAPIN HALL.

A statistical review of business conditions in Los Angeles for November was released last evening by the public service department of the Merchants' National Bank.

The review follows closely the trend of business as reflected from day to day throughout the period, but groups in a comprehensive and impressive manner the achievements of the month.

Food prices show a marked decline over November, 1920, and a slight average decline over October, 1921. Flour, ham, butter, potatoes and sirloin steak are cheaper. Eggs and pot roast are higher. Bacon, coffee, sugar and milk are stationary. Every item is lower than it was a year ago.

In practically every department of business activity there is a marked increase in volume and turnover. Here is the digest prepared for Trade Talk:

RETAIL FOOD PRICE REVIEW.
(Average Prices.)

	1921 November	October	1920 November

FOUR NEW BANKS.

Application has been made to Jonathan S. Dodge, State superintendent of banks, for the organization of a savings bank to be located in Redondo Beach, and while the organization will be independent the new institution will occupy quarters adjacent to the premises occupied by the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank and will be really affiliated with that institution.

The name proposed for the new savings bank is Farmers' and Merchants' Savings Bank and the men who are interested in the organization are for the most part stockholders in the National bank. The organization committee consists of E. E. Webster, A. E. Cameron, F. C. Heath, Carolyn F. Webster and J. N. Cavanah.

E. E. Webster, who is now president of the Farmers' and Merchants' National Bank will probably be president of the new bank.

It is understood that the savings bank, when organized, will purchase the lot lying between the premises occupied by the National bank and the City Hall and will erect thereon a modern banking building to be exclusively used for the purpose of the savings bank.

A fully paid up capital stock of $50,000 will be provided in addition to a surplus and contingent expense fund of $5000.

Formal application has also been filed by W. E. Evans, an attorney of Los Angeles, for permission to organize a new bank outside of the city limits, but in the rapidly growing residence section of the southwest. The bank is to be known as the Southside State Bank and will handle both commercial and savings business and be located in a new building now under construction at the southwest corner of Vermont and Manchester avenues.

Ed Christensen and L. M. Due, both successful bankers from South Dakota, are financially interested in the new bank and they have with them Charles W. Moore, J. B. Barrett and Ray Kans, all prominent and successful business men.

It is their intention to organize with a capital of $25,000 and a surplus and contingent fund of $5000 in addition, but this may be increased at a later date.

An application has also been filed for permission to organize a second bank at Chico to be known as the Farmers' and Merchants' State Bank, to conduct a commercial and savings banking business.

The men active in the organization of the bank are H. H. Burton of Chino, and J. S. Brown, who comes from Illinois where he was for fourteen years cashier of one of the prosperous banks of that city.

The bank will have a capital stock of $50,000 and a surplus and contingent fund of $2500 in addition and it is understood that it will build a new banking building on one of the prominent corners of Chino.

The following business men of Chino and vicinity are interested also in the organization:

S. J. Burton, George R. Woods, E. C. Yokels, K. Marcot, George V. Holcomb, P. O. Nokes, Ralph C. Noman, D. W. Soper.

Chino is the center of a large beet growing industry and the trading point for a very prosperous agricultural section of Southern California.

C. H. Eubank and others long connected with the First National Bank of Wilmington have applied to the superintendent for a charter to conduct a new banking business to be located on one of the prominent corners of Wilmington in a building now under construction and to be known as the Seaboard Savings Bank. Interested with Mr. Eubank in this enterprise are David P. Fleming, J. A. Weldt, Earl S. Wiatt, E. Opp, J. H. Patrick and Paul M. Gregg, all Wilmington business men.

The new bank will handle savings banking business only, and will have a paid up capital of $50,000 together with a surplus and

VICTORIES ABOVE PAR.

War Bonds Reach Highest Figures; German Moratorium Situation Again Confused.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—The incidents of real importance in today's financial markets occurred in the United States war loans and in foreign exchange. The Victory 4 3-4's rose above par for the first time since the beginning of June, 1917; the price of 100.03 being even then the highest reached except for a single day when they touched 100.08. Simultaneously, today's market for the 4 1-4 per cent Liberty bonds of October, 1918, though it did not reach the subscription price, went above the highest figure at which they have ever sold on the stock exchange. That previous high record was 98.10; they sold at 98.14 today. On today's foreign exchange market, sterling rose 1 7-8 cents to 4.06 3-4, French and Italian rates advancing along with it.

RISE IN LOANS.

Continuance of the rise in United States war loans, and especially the beginning of an advance above the previous best prices, is an event which will probably have larger increase on our whole people's feeling about the financial situation than any other occurence could exert. It not only means the final silencing of the gloomy arguments regarding the investment situation which were lately current — in 1920 there were people who shook their heads over the future soundness even of the United States government—but it proves that the process of legitimate distribution has nearly completed with these bonds.

GERMAN MORATORIUM.

Today's cables left the matter of a moratorium on reparations payments more confused than before—if that were possible. The German mark fell from 46 1-4 hundredths of a cent to 41 3-4 hundredths, and recovered only part of the loss. The decline might logically enough be ascribed to one of today's news announcements—the statement by the Reichsbank that in the last week of November 4,478,000,000 marks were added to the German paper currency, which now at a total slightly above 100,000,000,000 is double the total as of recent date as June, 1920. The week's increase is the largest on record.

In today's stock market prices moved with great irregularity; there was no general trend; both declines and advances ranged as high in many cases as 3 or 5 points. Outside the war loans the bond market continued, as a rule, its low reaction.

BUSINESS NEWS.

Corner Is Turned and Deflation Period Left Behind; Mining Development; Bank Promotions.

There are multiplying evidences of the fact that domestic business has turned the corner and is gradually but surely emerging from the deflation period that began about the middle of last year, according to the current issue of The Guaranty Survey, the Guaranty Trust Company of New York's monthly review of business and financial conditions. Two outstanding indications of the improvement are cheaper money, with its concomitant easier credit, and the more or less widespread industrial revival. The Survey says, in part:

"A building boom is sweeping the country. There is decided betterment in the textile trades and the shoe and leather industries report progress. Our surplus copper is gradually being marketed at prices that tend upward. There is increased output of iron and steel, and the railroads are coming back into the market. Business failures are less numerous. Unemployment generally is decreasing, and savings are increasing.

"The banks of the country have been able, since the establishment of the Federal Reserve System, to aid in effecting a more orderly general readjustment of industry, following a period of inflation than was possible so long as our banking system remained extremely decentralized. Such service, particularly in the last year and a quarter, has been of incalculable benefit to the nation's business. But the avoidance of a general collapse of credit, such as was repeatedly experienced before the organization of the Federal Reserve System, has necessarily tended to prolong the period of readjustment.

"Meanwhile, through the gradual liquidation and utilization of accumulated stocks of commodities, the way has been prepared in a number of industries for an increased volume of production for current consumption. The check to the downward course of general prices in this country and abroad has lessened the incentive to defer contemplated purchases, and this condition supplements the depletion of holdover stocks in creating an enlarged demand for current production."

AMERICAN FACTORS, LTD.

The offering made yesterday, of $3,000,000 American Factors, Ltd., first mortgage and collateral trust 7 per cent gold bonds was unusually well received by the investing public, according to reports from the offices of Blyth, Witter & Company, the underwriters.

The ownership of American Factors, Ltd., rests in such companies as Alexander & Baldwin, Castle & Cooke, Ltd., C. Brewer & Company, Welch & Company, and the Matson Navigation Company. These companies own most of the plantations in the islands, market practically all of the sugar from the islands, and own most of the banking and merchandising business of the islands.

The American Factors, Ltd., derives its earnings from so many diversified sources that regularity is practically assured—commission from sugar plantations, dividends and interest received from stocks and bonds, wholesale merchandise business in grocery, dry-goods and hardware, and a well-organized and profitable insurance business.

OATMAN DEVELOPMENTS

The Financial News says that United Eastern has sunk its new No. 3 shaft to a depth of 870 feet and is cutting a station at the 850-foot point. A cross-cut will soon be started to pick up the main vein at this level. The Big Jim shaft is down 670 feet. Strong water necessitates installation of pumping equipment, after which sinking will be continued.

Underground developments in Tom Reed's Astec claim are of utmost importance to adjoining Big Jim property of United Eastern. It is reported that both the 400 and 600-foot levels of the Astec showed some good ore but the 700-foot level was considered disappointing.

Upper portion of United Eastern's Big Jim vein has shown a large tonnage of rather low-grade material, running from $3 to $11 per ton. Under existing conditions this cannot be profitably handled. Results of Astec deep-level exploration are not considered highly encouraging.

Tom Reed Gold appears to be running out of high-grade milling ore, as it has dropped over 100 men during the past month. Mill is now treating 200 tons of ore daily, but it is expected the rate will soon be cut to 100 tons a day.

BANK PROMOTIONS.

Several appointments and promotions of officers of The First National Bank of Los Angeles were announced yesterday by W. T. S. Hammond, vice-president and cashier. Four assistant cashiers were appointed, two junior assistant cashiers were advanced to full rank and the deputy auditor was made auditor.

The assistant cashiers appointed were L. S. Gilhousen, formerly auditor; W. H. Shaw, head teller in the note department; B. M. Elliott, teller in the notes for col-

Authorized $4,000,000. To be presently issued $3,000,000 (Series "A.") Redeemable as a whole or in part at 102½ and interest. Sinking Fund payments commence November 15, 1922.

The Bank of California, N. A., San Francisco, Trustee

Company agrees to pay Normal Federal Income Taxes, so far as lawful, up to 2%.

A Direct Obligation of the Company, Secured Five to One by First Mortgage on Real Property and Deposit of Stocks Representing Controlling Interests Essential to the Company's Business and Other Securities.

From a letter by Mr. A. W. T. Bottomley, President of the Company, we summarize as follows:

HISTORY OF COMPANY: American Factors, Limited, was incorporated in 1918 to acquire the business of H. Hackfeld & Co., a German owned company, taken over by the Alien Property Custodian. Control of the stock was purchased by leading sugar and other interests in the Hawaiian Islands, including Alexander and Baldwin, Ltd., Castle and Cooke, Ltd., C. Brewer & Co., Ltd., Welch & Co., Matson Navigation Co. and Messrs Albert and G. Wilcox.

SECURITY: Bonds are secured by a first mortgage on real property and improvements of an assessed valuation of $1,447,900; by pledge of Hawaiian Sugar Corporation Stocks valued at $6,350,680; by pledge of corporation stocks and bonds valued at $2,115,570; by net assets not specifically pledged valued at $5,538,638; a total property value of $15,452,768 securing $4,000,000 authorized bonds.

EARNINGS: Net earnings of the business, after all charges, including all taxes, for 5-year period ending December 31, 1921 (three years estimated,) were at the annual average rate of $1,522,101, which is 5.44 times interest on $4,000,000 bonds.

SOURCE OF EARNINGS: Earnings are largely derived from:

(a) Commissions received from sugar plantations for which we act as agent or in some of which we own stock control;

(b) Dividends and interest received on stocks and bonds held;

(c) Wholesale merchandise business in groceries, dry goods and hardware, which in 1921 amounted to $14,000,000;

(d) Plantation supply and insurance business.

MORTGAGE PROVISIONS: Sinking Fund Commencing November 15, 1922, will retire annually 6 2-3% of the largest amount per issue of bonds at any one time outstanding. This will extinguish the entire debt in fifteen years.

The legal issuance of these bonds and all legal matters pertaining thereto will be subject to the approval of Messrs. Pillsbury, Madison & Sutro, San Francisco.

3. Not exempt at all.

Sometimes it requires rather an intimate knowledge of a particular issue to determine under which classification it should be placed.

Should you be in any doubt respecting the tax exemption features of your securities, we shall be glad to have you submit us a list of them for analysis on this point. Any service we may be to you in this respect is entirely without obligation.

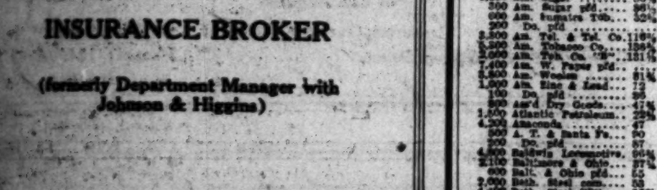
BONDS
have stability in market price—



THIS chart shows you the stability of investment bond prices, compared with the great variations in the prices of even reputable stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

In three years the maximum variation in the average price of the bonds used in this comparison was only 14 points, while the average price of the stocks fluctuated over a wide range of 55 points.

This means that those who buy sound bonds from a reliable bond house are sure of the permanent value of their investment.

We will gladly mail you our list of sound Investment bonds of $100, $500 and $1,000 denominations, returning high interest yields, if you will send us this coupon.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Maximum prices for the year were made by a number of issues in the stock and bond lists today. Many of these gains were subjected to sharp downward revision, however, late in the session.

Rails continued their listless course, investment and junior shares making only slight changes. Apart from several of the more speculative foreign and domestic issues, oils were relatively dull and irregular.

Great activity and strength were shown by equipments, steels, motors and kindred accessories. Shippings, food specialties and textiles made variable advances. Lima locomotive, a comparatively obscure industrial, was the strongest feature at a net gain of eleven points.

Rails continued their listless and a few unclassified issues evidently was due more to neglect by bull pools than to any specific causes. Sears, Roebuck continued to weaken, repeating its low record of the year. Sales, 775,000 shares.

Forecasts of easier December money rates were fulfilled, the call loan rate dropping from 5 to 4½ per cent early in the afternoon. Freer purchases of time loans and merchants' paper were made by out-of-town institutions.

Except the German rate, which was moderately reactionary, all foreign exchange rallied briskly from last week's late reaction. Sterling rose 2 cents and the various continental bills were higher by seven to twenty points.

Liberty second and fourth 4¼ issues and the two Victory issues, the latter at a slight fraction over par, were among new high records in the bond list. Other issues were uncertain on the heaviness of Mexicans. Total sales, par value, aggregated $21,850,000.

Price: 100 and Accrued Interest

We recommend these bonds for the following reasons:

1. SECURITY: These bonds will be a general obligation of the Earl Fruit Company, which has total assets exceeding $10,000,000, and will be secured by a first closed mortgage on approximately 11,600 acres of land and improvements and the packing-houses and sites belonging to the Earl Fruit Company in California, which have been appraised by the American Appraisal Company at $4,960,000. The bonds will be additionally secured by the pledge of at least 51% of the capital stock of the Howard Reed Orchard Company, which holds under purchase contract and has planted largely to Bartlett pears 325.13 acres of land in Yuba County.
2. CHARACTER OF BUSINESS: The Earl Fruit Company was incorporated on April 4, 1887, under the laws of the State of California and is controlled through ownership of all its capital stock by the DiGiorgio Fruit Corporation, which, with its subsidiaries, is one of the largest handlers of domestic green fruits in the United States and one of the largest growers of green fruits in the United States. The marketing organization of the DiGiorgio Fruit Corporation covers the United States and Canada and is represented in the principal markets. The Earl Fruit Company, besides being one of the largest growers of green fruit, is also one of the largest commission merchants dealing in deciduous fruits in California.
3. EARNINGS: The earnings of the Earl Fruit Company have shown a steady and substantial increase over a period of years. For the past three years the earnings of the Company and its owned or controlled subsidiaries have averaged three times the largest interest charges on this issue. The earnings for the year 1921 (which cannot be definitely determined until December 31st,) it is estimated by the management, will maintain or exceed this average.
4. PROTECTIVE FEATURES: The Trust Deed will contain a provision prohibiting the encumbrance of the property of the Howard Reed Orchard Company so long as the stock of that company is pledged. The Trust Deed will provide that $462,500 out of the proceeds of the sale of these bonds will be impounded with an approved depository to be expended upon the development of the property. All insurable property will be kept fully insured with reputable insurance companies satisfactory to the Trustee, and policies will be payable to the Trustee. Provision will be made for the release of lands from the lien of the Trust Deed upon payment according to a schedule in the Trust Deed which will produce upon the whole mortgaged property a release price equal to 175% of the amount of this bond issue; and such release moneys are to be used for the purchase of bonds in the market up to the call price, the payment when due of the next ensuing installment of principal, or for the redemption of bonds at the call price.

The title to the properties will be insured by a title policy issued by the Title Insurance & Guaranty Company of San Francisco.

Bonds are offered subject to the approval of the Commissioner of Corporations of the State of California and Messrs. Chickering & Gregory of San Francisco.

New York Central Equipment Gold Notes

A High Type of Investment for the Ultraconservative

Railroad Equipment Gold Notes are one of the safest forms of investment. Such notes are issued by railroads for building and maintaining the equipment needed in actual railroad operation.

Railroad Equipment Notes constitute a direct obligation of a railroad. They are secured by the locomotives, freight cars, passenger cars and other standard car equipment, the actual title to which is placed in trust as security for the investor.

As no railroad can operate (even in the hands of a receiver) without its equipment, gold notes such as these take precedence over every other form of indebtedness and are sought by ultraconservative investors.

We offer, subject to prior sale, New York Central Equipment Gold Notes; maturity 1934. To Yield 5.80%

The Seesaw

Remember your youthful experience with a Seesaw? With boys of equal weight, the problem of balance was simple.

But we soon learned the art of balancing two boys of unequal weight, by slipping the board a bit.

We learned at school that what we did by slipping the board, was to move the fulcrum away from the center of the board. Thus two bodies of unequal weight give the appearance of weighing the same.

The problem of balancing Assets with Liabilities on a Balance Sheet bears a striking resemblance. Like the Seesaw they appear to balance.

If Liabilities really outweigh Assets, then like the Seesaw—the fulcrum can be moved along to obtain the desired appearance of balance.

When Property is over valued, or Good-will inserted as an Asset, the board has been moved along.

It requires skill and experience to determine just where the fulcrum of a Balance Sheet really lies.

"Successful investing is a difficult problem. Competent, disinterested advice is helpful."

FINANCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
Los Angeles, Dec. 6, 1921.

Bank clearings yesterday were $15,423,800.73, an increase of $2,417,017.18, as compared with corresponding day for 1920:

YESTERDAY ON THE HOME EXCHANGE.

An active day's trading on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange was marked by the rapid advance in United Oil shares. Opening at 67 cents, this stock rose to 74, a net gain of 13 cents over last week's closing price. Aside from this feature, the sales were quiet and spasmodically without interest. General Petroleum dropped 50c to 64, and Mascot advanced 50c, selling at $1.05 a share. The Goodyear issues were the most active among the industrials and Tuesday spent a particularly hectic day, reaching 72 twice and closing at 72, a net gain of 1 point. Goodyear preferred advanced 1 point to 94½. Los Angeles Investment stock continues to advance and sold yesterday at 98 cents, 1 cent higher than on Saturday. Southern California Edison common closed unchanged at 90½, although making a new high for the year at 90¾ earlier in the day. Mining stocks were strong and advances of 1, 2 and ¼ cents were made by Virginia Louise, Telluride and Oatman United, respectively.

Stock Dividend Outlook for Standard Oils

The Standard Oil subsidiaries, since their expulsion from the Standard Oil Company of the latter, have established a remarkable record in periodical distribution or stock dividends accumulated profits, in the form of dividends. In fact, at the present time three-fourths of the subsidiary Companies affiliated or associated sufficient surpluses to pay distribution of stock dividends ranging from 10% to 1,000%, these companies being free with the result in our bi-weekly publication

"Income Building"

This publication, which is devoted to the discussion of developments in railroad, industrial and oil corporations, with special reference to those companies in whose securities funds may be profitably invested, will be sent, under separate cover, including booklet giving a complete outline of buying the Standard Oils.

ABOUT COTTON.

[This is the fourth of a series of articles on the history and development of the cotton industry with especial reference to the movement in California and Arizona. Other installments will follow from time to time.]

BY EDWARD M. FOWLER.

With regard to the history of the product of the cotton farm, this starts with the available land and water. We in this western country have upset all theories with regard to the type of land most desirable. In the South a loose, sandy soil is considered the best, but we have raised in the West, heavy crops from tightly compacted soil, when properly worked and watered.

There is no certain water rule, as every district is slightly different in its evaporation and percolation. Then comes the question of seed. It is needless to say that this is one of the most important features, and is a matter to which the average farmer pays but little attention, except in the Salt River Valley, where he has been greatly helped by the Department of Agriculture. Next comes cultivation of the crop, which most farmers understand. Then comes the picking, which seems a problem in the more thinly settled districts, particularly in our southernmost valleys, where they have to import labor from Mexico, as the natural population is not adequate. Then comes the act of ginning. It is in itself an art when properly done.

Most of our gins are run at too high a speed for best results, though these high speeds are all right if proper adjustment is had in all parts of the machine. Then comes the rail haul, then the compression, next the ocean haul, when finally the lint is brought to the yarn mill. Before this happens, however, the lint and seed are separated at the gin, and the seed takes its own way into other fields. The seed travels to the oil mill, where it is separated from the linter which adheres to it. These linters are used for stuffing material, wool mixers, writing paper, gun cotton, varnishes, celluloid, photograph films and artificial silk. Low-grade yarns are made of linter and find their way into lamp wicks, twine and carpets.

Next come the hulls, which are used for feeding animals and for compressing the fiber similar to papier-mache. Then come the meats, which are divided into three general products, viz: refined oil, foots and putty. The refined oils are used for cooking purposes, lard compounds, oleomargarine, soap, etc., while the foots are used for washing powders, glycerine, linoleum, oil cloth, as a base for paints, candles, phonograph records, etc. Insulators for wire are made of this material, and many other articles of daily use too numerous to mention.

TRAVEL OF THE LINT.

To resume the travel of the lint, after it reaches the yarn mill, the bales are broken open by a bale breaker. The fibers are then put through a carding machine, where they are laid parallel one to the other, and where the extraneous matter is combed out from the cotton. It is often necessary to go through another process of the same character called combing. From this comes the sliver which goes to the mule or ring spindles, as the case may be, where it is then twisted into a thread.

There is a particular interest at this stage for the California grower, as many of our longer stapled cottons are used exclusively for the purpose of making artificial silk known as mercerized silk. This is accomplished by winding the yarn on a metal frame and immersing this metal with the yarn wound upon it, into a solution of caustic soda, which has the effect of making the yarn shrink, and therefore stretching it. After coming out of this solution, it is found to have a very silky sheer appearance, with the exception of some small fibers. These are removed by passing the yarn at a very high speed through a gas flame. The travel through the flame is at such a high speed that it does not burn, but the small fibers exposed on the outside are burned off. After the cotton develops into a yarn, it is then sent to a weaving mill, or a knitting mill, as the case may be, the fabric resulting therefrom being put through a bleaching process and finally going to the printing establishment.

George Kingdon, deputy auditor, was promoted to auditor, L. E. Jacobus and C. S. Tolley, junior assistant cashiers, were advanced to assistant cashiers. All of the appointments are made effective at once.

EARL FRUIT COMPANY.

Girvin & Miller, and Cyrus Peirce & Co., will offer today $2,500,000 Earl Fruit Company, first mortgage, and collateral trust, 7½ per cent serial gold bonds, due serially, from 1924 to 1936. The bonds will be sold at par for all maturities.

The Earl Fruit Company was incorporated in 1887 and is controlled, through ownership of all its capital stock by the De Giorgio Fruit Corporation, which, with its subsidiaries, is one of the largest handlers and growers of domestic green fruits in the United States, and one of the largest commission merchants dealing in deciduous fruits in California, according to the underwriters' statement.

The bonds are secured as a general obligation of the company, and by a first closed mortgage on 11,600 acres of land, with all improvements, packing-houses, and sites, which has been appraised at $4,960,000. For the past three years, earnings of the company have averaged three times the interest charges on this issue.

RAILROAD STOCKS.

A bull movement in rail stocks with Union Pacific as the leader, is predicted in a market letter issued yesterday by McDonnell & Co. This prediction is based on a study of the price trend of the rail group during the past fifteen years.

"The last bull market," says the letter, "occurred in 1909 as an aftermath of the panic of 1907. During this period, railroad stocks were accumulated by the Harriman and other large interests. These stocks were sold to the investment public in 1909 at a wonderful profit. The steady downward trend of the market for railroad stocks which started in the early part of 1910 has continued without abatement for eleven years, so that, generally considered, these stocks are now closely held by large interests, and are not carried in brokers' offices. A bull market should start and continue in these stocks for the next two years, at least."

DIVIDEND NOTICE.

The Richfield Consolidated Oil Company, announces a 2 per cent dividend and a 1 per cent extra dividend, payable January 1. The directors of the company are W. R. Dickinson, president; J. M. Harlan, F. W. Blanchard, E. J. Marks, Edward G. Peck, all well-known business men.

Copper Improvement.

In the copper market the demand continues to be for forward copper, very little metal for prompt shipment being sold. Some large sized tonnages have been sold as far ahead as next June, and at prices that were being quoted for first quarter delivery, 13 3-8c. to 13 5-8c. a pound delivered. The improvement in the copper market has led to talk of a resumption of mining operations, but it is still believed too early to take such a step.

Railroad Financing.

In the opinion of railroad bankers, comparatively little new railroad financing is in sight apart from that which has to do with the refunding of maturing obligations. Within three months the Southern Railway, Erie and Oregon Short Line all have small maturities which are expected to be taken care of through the flotation of new issues. Conditions have undergone such a change in the investment market and in the railroad world recently, bankers point ed out, that some of the roads of second-class credit could probably arrange financing on a favorable basis, if necessary. Little such business, however, appears to be in prospect.

Ticker Ticks.

New bond issues totaling $12,115,000 wer offered in New York yesterday. The largest of these was an issue of $6,000,000 Porto Rico Sugar Company twenty-year 7 per cent bonds.

The net operating income of 178 railroads for October was reported at $104,159,987. This is the best month since the end of federal control. Pure Oil Company sells $4,300,000 8 per cent convertible preferred stock to bankers.

Reports to United States railroad labor board show steadily improving conditions among roads of country, with no serious labor controversy now before that body.

Average price twenty industrials 79.00 up .27; twenty rails 75.50, unchanged.

PRODUCE MARKET.

California fruit and vegetable shipments during the first ten months of this year have exceeded the total for the entire year of 1920. Figures compiled and issued yesterday by the United States Bureau of Markets show that 160,920 carloads were shipped from this State up to November, compared to 155,725 exported during the whole of 1920. Only one month, August, failed to show a gain over the shipments made during the same month last year.

The principal reason for this remarkable showing is the fact that California has not been affected by the numerous crop failures that have afflicted other portions of the country. Many of our crops were unusually heavy this year, but the shortages in the East kept up the demand and sustained prices. The heavy shipments mean that the California grower will get larger returns than he did last year, in spite of lower price levels. Grapes, oranges and dried prunes are three commodities that show particularly large gains over 1920 shipments.

Potato movements are slightly accelerated this week. The market is just beginning to recover from the heavy overstocking that resulted from the threat of a railway strike. Local produce men expect potato shipments to be resumed at their normal rate in the near future. So far, however, prices have not advanced. In spite of the better inquiry. Local storage holdings of potatoes increased from 5000 sacks last week to 6180 yesterday.

The cold storage report, issued yesterday, shows that all food holdings in Los Angeles, with the exception of potatoes, are decreasing, in response to the winter demand and the usual seasonal lightness of receipts. There are now 27,283 cases of eggs in Los Angeles warehouses, 1,430,575 pounds of cheese, 324,611 pounds of butter, 749,016 boxes of apples and 19,500 sacks of onions.

BUNGALOW.

HEARST AT WILSHIRE.

On a high, dry, sightly location, not far from car lines and stores is a white plaster bungalow containing 5 rooms and sleeping porch, all of more than average size. This pretty home is unusual in that it has what few bungalows within its price class have, maid's room and bath—and a basement and furnace. The master bath in this house is also unusual in size and finish. There is a two-car garage. The price is very low and if taken this week the Austrian shades will be included. Will trade on suitable terms. Shown only by appointment. No signs or telephone information. Somebody will SNAP this. Better get busy early.

REAL ESTATE—For Sale, Miscellaneous.

FOR SALE—

HERE IS AN OPPORTUNITY

TO BUY REAL ESTATE

AT HALF PRICE.

I have an option on 50 acres of fine property, 1621 feet frontage on Washington Boulevard. It is my desire to make a quick turn at small profit.

I have therefore worked out an attractive business-like plan enabling 50 purchasers who have the money and can get the idea to enjoy the advantage of a very large financial, legal corporation between seller and buyer, which eliminates heavy retail selling costs, commissions and extravagant advertising, and also takes advantage of a very low price secured by me for reasons which need cause no alarm to acreage right in the path of business development.

The plan involves the necessity of dealing 50 people, each of whom will agree to pay me $1540 cash, $1600 in one year, $1000 in two years, $500 in two and one-half years, 7 per cent interest. For this money I will sell each man a parcel of five large lots, including a large lot on Washington Boulevard, with an alley. (These lots total an acre of ground, including streets.) This, in my judgment, is about half the actual present value of these lots.

When the 50 buyers are found, I will at once proceed to improve the property by grading where necessary, drainage, curbing in the finest street, graded and oiled; concrete sidewalks and curbs according to city specifications, fine street signs; cause water, gas and electricity to be brought upon the property.

My engineer has drawn a preliminary subdivision map of this property and made a report of cost of improvements, which is slightly under $1000 per acre, or $50,000 for the whole tract. When largely, if necessary, to spend $20,000 for these improvements.

I am prepared to fully establish my standing and responsibility. I am the same Collingwood who personally stated in this ad. If you have the money, believe in Los Angeles and real estate, and like values, we will show you this property if at once.

WILL PROTECT NAVAL BASES.

Well Provided for in Late Estimates.

Renews Proposal for Work at Harbor.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Naval bases for the Pacific Coast are well provided for in the estimates submitted to Congress today. The proposal for the Los Angeles Submarine Base is renewed, as is also the general program for the Pacific Coast bases. Starting at the north of the coast line the estimates provide for $150,000 for a heavier-than-air aviation station, at Sand Point, Wash.

This item contained in the Navy's request for appropriations for the coming fiscal year as submitted in the departmental estimates to Congress today, indicates that the department proposes to renew its demand for the establishment of the Lake Washington air base.

In fact, the Navy's estimates demonstrate that it proposes to stand by its entire program for the development of Pacific Coast bases and stations, although it is asking less than last year. As it did then, it asks more for improvements and extension at the Puget Sound yard than for any other yard in the country, namely, $700,000.

ASK $100,000 FOR HARBOR.

It renews its request for legislation permitting the acceptance of the Sand Point air site, the Alameda site for a full base, and the Los Angeles Harbor site for a submarine base. It also asks $100,000 to start work at Alameda, $200,000 for the destroyer base at San Diego, and $100,000 for the submarine base at San Pedro, otherwise Los Angeles Harbor.

The $700,000 it asks for the Puget Sound yard, it proposes to spend as follows: Constructing pier 4, $500,000; rifle range, $85,-000; central power plant, $40,-000, and roadway, $25,000. In addition it asks $5000 for the fuse and detonator house at the magazine, and $45,000 for storage at the Keyport torpedo station.

INSULAR POSSESSIONS.

Here are the items it submits for improvements in the insular possessions, subjects that are about to be discussed in the international conference: Improvements at the Pearl Harbor (Hawaii) base, $681,-000, with $95,000 more for an ammunition depot and $89,000 for a submarine base there; $200,000 to develop a destroyer base at Guam, $163,000 for improvements at the Cavite station, and $100,000 for improvements at the Olongapo sta-tion, both in the Philippines. For a wharf at Samoa, $12,000 is asked.

Mare Island stands next to Bremerton and Pearl Harbor in the amount of money that is re-quested. The department wants $350,000 for the California yard, and an additional $100,000 for an ammunition depot there. The only other Pacific Coast item of conse-quence, is one of $500,000, for a naval hospital at San Diego.

TO INVEST MILLIONS IN CHICAGO HOTEL.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Eastern capi-talists, presumably heavy investors in hotel properties, plan to build a $20,000,000 hotel on the half block between Seventh and Eighth streets, facing Wabash ave-nue. These capitalists have made a secret bid for the real estate and a petition by attorneys for the trus-tee of the property brought out the hotel project. It is said the East-ern men have offered $2,500,000 for the plot of ground and the trus-tee asks for the consent of the Cir-cuit Court to sell at that figure.

The property was appraised for inheritance tax purposes Nov. 30, 1906, as worth $1,480,000. Since then there has been erected there-on a tile building worth $107,454.

This plot of ground is part of the $50,000,000 estate left by Otto Young. It was his life plan to erect a beautiful hotel on the spot, but he died before he could realize the dream. His widow died in 1914, and his daughters and grand-children presumably would prefer to sell the land and let some syn-dicate build and operate the hotel. There are hints that the Eastern men are connected with the Am-bassador or Ritz Carlton of New York.

ROY GARDNER ON TRIAL AT PHOENIX.

SELECTION OF JURY AND ATTEMPT TO PROVE ROBBERY ARE FEATURES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHOENIX, Dec. 5.—Selection of the jury and taking of testimony intended to establish the fact that a United States mail car was robbed at Maricopa, Ariz., on November 2, occupied the entire day today in the United States District Court here, where Roy Gardner, escaped convicted mail robber, is being tried on an indictment charging him with the Maricopa robbery.

Most of the testimony consisted of the reading of affidavits from Salt Lake City to show that certain registered articles supposed to have been stolen at Maricopa were mailed there.

The defense, in questioning prospective jurors, indicated that it would base its case largely on a plea of insanity, while the prosecution indicated its case would be built up principally on circumstantial evidence.

In response to the request of the District Attorney at Phoenix, a copy of the findings of the committee of local alienists who examined Gardner following his arrest for his attempt to hold up the truck driver taking valuable mail from the postoffice at San Diego, to the Santa Fe railway station, was sent to Phoenix yesterday on order of Judge Bledsoe.

Gardner was before Judge Trippet, and the claim made that he was insane. The alienists examined him and did not agree with the contention. Gardner was sentenced to twenty-five years in the Federal penitentiary on McNeil Island.

ASK GOVERNOR TO PROVE IT.

Ties in Slush Fund Charge Demanded Here.

Better America Federation Wants Prosecutions.

Legislator Says Executive Dodges Issue.

A demand that Gov. Stephens immediately furnish to the Better America Federation or to the Attorney-General proof of his charge that certain interests in California have raised $1,000,000 to sway the next election, and take steps to punish such corrupt persons, was made yesterday in a telegram sent to the Governor by H. M. Haldeman, president of the Los Angeles county unit of the Better America Federation.

The telegram follows:

Dec. 5, 1921.

Gov. Stephens, Sacramento, Cal.

The Associated Press quotes you as charging the Better America Federation and a group with the boast that "they have $1,000,000 to be spent in the next election." Who are they who made the boast? In the same paragraph you state that this is a small investment to be compared with the great sum they would take from the people of California." If this means anything it is either a statement that a corruption fund of $1,000,000 is available for the purpose of enriching some individual or group at the expense of the State, or intended to mislead. It is your duty to furnish to us and to the people of the State the evidence of the existence of such fund and the parties interested, or, declining to furnish it to us, to ask you to direct the Attorney-General of the State to take the matter before the proper court. The failure upon your part to prove your charge will give the people of the State an opportunity to properly appraise your capacity for leadership.

H. M. HALDEMAN, president.
LOS ANGELES COUNTY UNIT, BETTER AMERICA FEDERATION.

GOV. STEPHENS' INFERENCE.

Mr. Stephens said that the G[illegible] made "an absolut[illegible] false statement" in intimating that the Better America Federation was responsible for the attack on the Governor by a group of Southern California legislators, who declared that Mr. Stephens was guilty of incompetent failure. "The Better America Federation knew nothing of the legisla-

MADALYNNE LOVE NOTES TO KENNEDY REVEALED.

Father on Stand Hears Romance of Slain Son and Tells Effort to Win Back Only Child.

Impassioned love letters from Madalynne Obenchain professing undying love for J. Belton Kennedy were read in Judge Reeve's court late yesterday as J. D. Kennedy, father of the slain youth, sat upon the witness stand, appearing for the prosecution against Arthur C. Burch, who is accused of conspiring with Mrs. Obenchain in the murder of young Kennedy.

Glimpses of the great war were frequent throughout the love letters, which extended over a period of four years preceding the murder here last August 5. The strenuous objections of Belton Kennedy's parents to Mrs. Obenchain also were reflected.

And reference twice was made to the so-called accident of Belton Kennedy four years ago when two men caught him and beat him on the head while he was out motoring.

As the letters were read in the clear voice of Dist.-Atty. Woolwine, Mr. Kennedy sat upon the witness stand, his head bowed and his hands firmly clasped. Burch, seated at the far end of the counsel table, failed to show his customary smile and many times glared ahead as if in anger.

TELLS OF PLEADING.

For more than an hour Mr. Kennedy remained in the witness chair. He was still there when court adjourned until this morning. In that hour he had told the jury of twice trying to bring Belton Kennedy home at midnight on evenings his son was with Mrs. Obenchain. And twice, he told the jury, he had failed. Both times the youth came home at 2 a.m.

The jurors leaned forward in their chairs as Mr. Kennedy unfolded the most dramatic testimony thus far produced in the two weeks of the trial. He spoke clearly, his face seldom changing expression, even when he replied in a low voice to questions of Mr. Woolwine, who asked him if Belton were the only child.

After a few preliminary inquiries concerning some photographs introduced by the prosecution, Mr. Woolwine changed the course of his examination.

"When did you first see Madalynne Obenchain?" he asked suddenly.

"The first time I ever saw her was, I think, in the fall of 1919. I can't remember the date, but it was late summer or fall of 1919," Mr. Kennedy replied.

"And where was that?"

"That was in front of the house on Occidental Boulevard, where she was living at the time."

"Whose home was it?"

"Mrs. Demond's, I think." (Mrs. Frank Demond is the wealthy woman friend of Mrs. Obenchain, with whom she lived at that time.)

"About what time of night?"

"It was about midnight."

"Were you accompanied by anyone?" Mr. Woolwine asked.

"My wife was with me."

"Belton's mother?"

"Yes."

FATHER'S TESTIMONY.

In answer to other questions, Mr. Kennedy's testimony was substantially as follows:

"I went to the door and rang the bell and I think some lady came to the door and I asked for Belton. Belton came out with Mrs. Obenchain.

"Mrs. Kennedy was on the walk in front of the house. I told Belton to come on home with us, and he told me he would come in a little while.

"And so we stood there for a little while. She was crying, this Mrs. Obenchain, and I insisted on Belton coming on with us. He said he would come home in a little while, so we left there and went home."

"Did Mrs. Obenchain say anything?"

"I don't remember her words. She wanted Belton to stay there. I didn't say anything to her at all except I told Belton to come on with us."

"Now where did Mrs. Obenchain and Belton go after you had this conversation with them there at 12 o'clock at night?"

"They went back into the house." Mr. Kennedy responded with lowered voice.

"And where did you and Mrs. Kennedy go?"

"We went home."

"When did you next see Belton?"

"About two hours after that he came home, I think. About 2 o'clock."

MEET AGAIN.

The second meeting of Mr. Kennedy with Mrs. Obenchain occurred last winter, he said. It was in January or February and Mr. Kennedy followed his son, watched the latter meet Mrs. Obenchain and then followed the couple, walking on the side of the street opposite them.

"It was about 11:30, I should think between 11 and 12 o'clock, at the corner of Eighth and Rampart."

Mr. Woolwine asked: "Now, did you come up to them or not?"

"No, I waited on the other corner."

Mr. Kennedy explained that he walked on the opposite side of the street as the couple proceeded toward Wilshire Boulevard on Rampart street, and just before they arrived there he called Belton.

Again he asked his son to come home, but Belton refused. He went back to Mrs. Obenchain, and it was two hours later before he came home, the father testified. It was the last Mr. Kennedy saw of Mrs. Obenchain until the latter was imprisoned on the charge of murdering Belton Kennedy.

READS LETTERS.

With this preliminary as a background, Mr. Woolwine then began introducing and reading to the jury the huge sheaf of letters from Mrs. Obenchain to Belton.

The first is dated late in May of last year, and begins with: "Belton, dear heart," and is signed "Mazzalin," a name the prosecution declares was used by Mrs. Obenchain and which Milton Carlson, handwriting expert, stated was written by her.

The accused woman's plans for coming West from Chicago are told in the missive.

"I do want to leave here," it reads. "If I go to S. F. (San Francisco) will you meet me there? Loneliness seems to paralyze me and I feel that I must start walking toward you no matter how far away you are."

Her plans were to leave about May 28 or 30 and to be in San Francisco the first week in June.

"My life is worthless without you," and "Maybe soon I can rest in your arms" are some of the other phrases in the letter.

While these letters were being read, Ralph Obenchain, the divorced husband of Mrs. Obenchain and who is acting as one of her attorneys, sat with arms folded across his chest. In a chair against the window farthest removed from the jury and the witness he sat erect, his face giving little indication of what may have been passing through his mind.

PEN EXPERT TESTIFIES.

Mr. Carlson, identified handwriting on telegrams, previously introduced for identification, and also on the love letters. During the morning session the telegrams that passed between Mrs. Obenchain, Belton Kennedy and Arthur C. Burch were read into the records. These messages, the prosecution contends, show that understandings regarding the Obenchain-Kennedy love affair existed between Burch and Mrs. Obenchain and that Burch came here at her request for the purpose of taking a hand in the affair.

H. R. Parsons, who rented Burch the automobile in which the pros-

MALIBU FLAMES RAGE UNABATED

Fighters Without Food or Water as Fire Spreads.

High Wind Whips Blaze to Break Out Anew.

Men Rushed to Mountains to Save Property.

An urgent call for fifty more men and additional supplies and provisions was sent to the Sheriff's office late last night by Assistant Forester Zielke. The men are needed, he said, to fight three additional fires, fanned by the heavy Coast winds, which had started in the vicinity of the area already fire-swept. The additional men were hastily mobilized and hurried by trucks to the scene at midnight.

With no signs of abating, the fierce forest fire which has raged unchecked for many hours in the Rindge property in the Malibu was late yesterday sweeping northward into Dume and Ramera canyons. Another fire is burning on the south near the coast, below Corral Canyon, where the blaze started Saturday afternoon. Many of the fire fighters are without food or water, but expeditions were making every effort last evening to penetrate the mountains with supplies for the men.

Whipped by a high wind that carried sparks to untouched portions of the mountains, the fire has spread with great rapidity and, according to a statement made by County Forester Flintham, no effort has been made by any private organization to arrest the flames.

TO TRANCAS CANYON.

Upon his return from the fire last night, Mr. Flintham stated that the flames are rapidly approaching the Trancas Canyon region, where a disastrous fire occurred several weeks ago. It is quite possible, according to the forester, that the flames will burn to that region before they can be quenched.

The flames started in Corral Canyon Saturday afternoon and spread with great rapidity. No effort was made by employees of the ranches in this locality to stop the flames, it was declared by the forester, and as a result, it is doubtful if the fire can be brought under control for some time. Mr. Flintham stated that it was not until yesterday morning, when county fighters arrived in the Malibu, that the advance of the fire was opposed.

TWO GROUPS BUSY.

A large force of men is working along the coast near Dume Canyon in an effort to divert the flames into an already burned area. Another group of foresters is approaching the fire from the east after having successfully fought a blaze near Calabasas. The men in these groups were, until a late hour last evening, without food or water and had been fighting for hours without relief.

Yesterday afternoon, however, a crew of cooks and a number of supply trains were started into the mountains and it was stated by the forester that by midnight all men would be taken care of.

The wind proved to be the unknown quantity of the fire. It was this terrific force that carried the flames into many parts of the mountains. Should it die down which at sunset seemed improbable, it was believed the flames could be brought under control.

LEAPS TWO MILES.

When the fire had been checked at the banks of Malibu Creek, about six miles north of the entrance to the Rindge ranch through some freak of nature it leapfrogged a gap of two miles and suddenly appeared in Ramera Canyon, which leads down toward the stock sheds of the ranch. At a late hour last night the flames were raging about five miles in the rear of the stock inclosures.

A black swath, approximately eight miles in length and varying to one mile in width, had been cut across the mountain regions leading to the Malibu Creek.

At the head of Ramera Canyon the fifty men under Assistant Forester Harry Merrill were forced to retreat through sheer exhaustion. They had not had anything to eat since 4 a.m. and had had no drinking water all day. Messengers were sent out of the mountains for food, which at a late hour was on its way to the fire fighters.

Mr. Merrill said that without additional men his efforts to check the new blaze, which had forked during the afternoon and headed in opposite directions, would be futile. All his men were able to do, he explained, was to get behind the fire and follow it, beating it with sacks and covering the dying embers with dirt. To fight it from the front, in an effort to check its advance, would be a too hazardous undertaking.

The fighters declared that in some places the fire had spread to a width of five miles and had swept across seven canyons.

VICTOR OBRIKAT TO TO BE BURIED TODAY.

The funeral of Victor Obrikat, junior member of the Obrikat-Meyer Fur Company, will be conducted today with services at 1 p.m. at the chapel of Bresee Bros. Mr. Obrikat, who was 26 years old, died Sunday night at his home, 210 North Marguerite street, Alhambra. Death was due to an infection that set in a week ago.

Mr. Obrikat leaves a widow, who was Miss Helen Tanner of San Jacinto. They were married three months ago. He also leaves his father, Franz Obrikat, Sr., senior member of the firm; his mother; two brothers, Franz Obrikat, Jr., and Edward Obrikat, and a sister, Miss Estella Obrikat.

Figures in Drama of Mystery and Death.

Mrs. Esther Albano (rear,) Held on Murder Charge, and Her Family.

The missing husband of the accused woman, Angelo Albano, is seated on the right. The other man is Joseph Albano, his father. Others in the picture are the children of the younger Albano and his wife.

FIRE AT FT. MacARTHUR DISCLOSED.

Two Hundred Thousand is Estimated Loss in Blaze; Story Kept from Public.

Details of a fire that for a time threatened the entire upper reservation of Fort MacArthur at Los Angeles Harbor before daylight Sunday morning and caused damage roughly estimated at more than $200,000 became known yesterday in spite of efforts of officers of the fort to prevent their becoming public.

The blaze, caused by the explosion of a gasoline tank, destroyed the large frame building that houses the garrison's machine shop and ruined two ordnance trucks, valued at more than $50,000 each, it was said.

The trucks, which are veritable machine shops, loaded with valuable apparatus for the repairing of mobile artillery in the field, stood directly in the path of the fire as it reached from the gasoline tank to the machine shop.

The blaze was fought entirely by the force of the garrison and the Los Angeles Fire Department was not called upon for aid.

Capt. Percy C. Hamilton, adjutant at the fort, and other officers, declined yesterday to give an estimate of the damage but enlisted men at the barracks said it is close to $200,000.

Wife Disliked Other Woman Brought Home

In the opinion of Guy E. Misick, Madge Rose Misick didn't have the proper idea of co-operation, for when he brought Mrs. Kathervn Watson home for dinner one evening his wife did not like it. Then Mr. Misick began to take trips to San Francisco and Santa Barbara with Mrs. Watson and this further annoyed his wife, according to a divorce complaint filed yesterday by Mrs. Misick.

The wife states in her complaint that the first time she ever saw Mrs. Watson was when her husband brought her home to dinner. Mrs. Watson then accompanied them everywhere they went, the complaint recites, and the wife objected to always having a third person in their company.

The complaint states that the couple were married June 28, 1920, and separated November 12 last. Misick is said to own about $20,000 in property, a part of which consists of an auto park on Hope street, south of Sixth.

DEMURRER SUSTAINED.

Mrs. Safrona Whitley Must Amend Alienation Complaint.

The demurrer of H. J. Whitley and his wife, Virginia Ross Whitley, to the complaint of their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Safrona Whitley, in which $100,000 is demanded for the purported alienation of the affections of her husband, Ross E. Whitley, son of the defendants, was sustained by Judge Burnell yesterday. The plaintiff has ten days in which to amend the complaint.

Mrs. Safrona Whitley asserts her parents-in-law took a violent dislike to her and engaged in a conspiracy, the result of which was that her husband left her. Later he sued for divorce.

WOMAN IS ATTACKED IN HOME.

Intruder Fells, Binds and Gags Victim; Husband Finds Wife Semiconscious.

Gaining entrance to her apartment on the pretext that he was hungry, an unidentified man late yesterday afternoon bound and gagged Mrs. F. C. Mariner, 23 years of age, and attacked her, according to a report made to the University police.

Mrs. Mariner was found in a semiconscious condition on the floor by her husband upon his arrival home from work at 6 p.m. She told him she had started to prepare his evening meal shortly before 5 o'clock.

The apartment in which the Mariners live is on the second floor. A man entered the hallway and started up the stairs, she said. He told her he wanted something to eat. She replied that she could not grant his request and allow him to enter the apartment, whereupon he struck her on the head.

She fell to the kitchen floor, unconscious. When she regained her senses she found herself bound and gagged. She was in a hysterical condition when freed by her husband.

Officers Lyttle and Hawes of the University Police Station were detailed to the case. They were given an excellent description of the attacker.

RADIOPHONE CONCERT IS HEARD FAR AWAY.

HAMBURGER STATION GIVES TREAT TO FANS MANY MILES DISTANT.

Radio fans living within a radius of 1000 miles of Los Angeles who happened to have their receiving sets out last night were treated to a radiophone concert by the Hamburger radio station.

Gay's Orchestra provided the music. The program included "Sweetheart;" "Say It With Music," "Saxophobia," a saxophone solo by Frank Hopkins, Frank Soria singing "Peggy O'Neil," "The Navy Goat," "Canadian Capers" and "Nobody's Baby."

The radio station, which was installed in July and completed the last week of August, has been spreading daily concerts through the atmosphere for more than three months. Amateur and professional radio stations all over Southern California pick them up every afternoon except Sunday, from 4 to 5 p.m., and Monday, Thursday and Saturday evenings from 8 to 9 p.m. The concerts have been plainly heard as far away as Panama.

An innovation in department-store service is the "Gray Shop for Gifts," opened recently by Hamburger's. Here, on the second floor, are separate little shops contributed by departments throughout the building, where the Christmas shopper can find any kind of a gift.

Each is a specialty shop all in itself, where the best merchandise of each department is on display and sale.

FOR SARAH H. KING.

Funeral Tomorrow for Wife of Well-Known Horticulturist.

Funeral services for Mrs. Sarah H. King will be conducted by Dean MacCormack tomorrow at 10 a.m. at the chapel of George A. Fitch, Twelfth and Hope streets. Mrs. King died Sunday at her home, 226 South Norton avenue. She was born sixty-four years ago, the daughter of James E. Atterbury, founder of the Pittsburg Glass Company. She leaves her husband, Albert L. King, a horticulturist, prominent in Southern California, three brothers, B. F., Carlos C. and J. Seaman Atterbury, and a sister, Mrs. Agnes Cooper of Lancaster, Pa. Mrs. King's son, J. Seaman King, died here three years ago.

Dog, Chasing Cat, Severely Injures Woman

A large dog chasing a cat yesterday caused injuries to Mrs. Leo Mathias, 38 years of age, of 151 West Seventeenth street, which will probably confine her to her bed several weeks.

According to Mrs. Mathias, the dog dashed against her legs as she was crossing Sixteenth at Main street and threw her against the curbing. In falling she struck on her back. She was treated at the Receiving Hospital.

TO TRANSFER SUIT.

Court Grants Marblehead Land Company's Application.

The motion of the Marblehead Land Company, a Rindge corporation, to transfer to the Federal Court the condemnation suit of the county to acquire three miles of ocean frontage for park purposes was granted by Judge Burnell yesterday.

Attorneys Anderson and Jackson, representing the Marblehead Land Company, set up diversity of citizenship, holding the company is a Delaware corporation and has a right to be heard in the Federal courts.

WOMAN SLAYER ACCUSES DEAD.

Mrs. Albano Charges Leone Killed Her Husband.

Says He Tried to Blackmail Her; Mate is Missing.

Tangled Clews to Italy Feud Are Held by Police.

Eleven bullets fired yesterday by Mrs. Esther Albano, 32 years of age, into the body of M. G. Leone, and which forever closed his lips, left Captain of Police Heath holding a dozen tangled clews to what may be two murders, both centering in an Italian blackmail plot.

Beginning with the kidnaping on October 23 of Angelo Albano, 33 years of age, wealthy Italian landowner and husband of the woman, who says she attempted yesterday to avenge him, and then running through attempts to secure his property and a last asserted effort to blackmail Mrs. Albano, the whole strange drama came to a sudden climax with the shooting of Leone yesterday.

In the dining-room of her home at 554 East Thirty-sixth street, and almost in the presence of her aged father-in-law, her niece and her seven children, Mrs. Albano at noon yesterday poured bullets into Leone's body. She shot twelve times and eleven of the bullets hit the man. The last four were fired as he lay on an outside rear stairway.

"If you do not give me $500 in cash and all of your jewelry I will kill you the way I killed your husband."

FIND WEAPON ON BODY.

These words, spoken by Leone, who is said to have lived at 597 Mt. Vernon avenue, San Bernardino, according to Mrs. Albano, brought about the killing. Other witnesses in the house say the same thing. Because she was the only one in the room, Mrs. Albano alone declared that Leone reached for a revolver after the threat. An unexploded automatic revolver was found in his hip pocket when the police arrived.

Questioned at great length by the police Mrs. Albano, who is held on a charge of murder, stuck to her first statement. She declared that she shot because she believed that Leone had murdered her husband and she feared he intended to kill her.

Here is her complete statement as taken down by the police and signed by Mrs. Albano:

"Leone was known to me by the name of Frank Mumphrey. At one time he was my husband's partner. They purchased this house together and my husband bought him out later. They had other business dealings together but some months ago my husband bought everything out and paid Mumphrey or Leone in full.

"Mr. Albano married my sister in New Orleans years ago. I was married there also and lived at 1124 Howard street. My husband

The People and Their Daily Troubles

DOROTHY DIX TALKS

Laying Ghosts.

BY DOROTHY DIX.

A man writes me that, although he has been happily married for twenty-five years to a most estimable woman, to whom he is devoted, he is tormented by a longing to see once again his first love.

It has been more than a quarter of a century since he parted from the sweetheart of his boyhood, and in all that time he has never beheld her or held any communication with her. He doesn't know whether she is married or single or where she lives. He only knows that she lives enshrined in the inner sanctuary of his heart, and that she is eternally luring him to come back to her. And he feels this is disloyalty to his wife and he doesn't know what to do about it because the older he gets the stronger becomes the urge of this youthful passion.

This man thinks his case peculiar, but it is an experience common to humanity. Probably there isn't a middle-aged man or woman in the world who hasn't some such romance laid away in the lavender of memory. Always it is our early loves, our first loves, that embody for us romance and all the beauty and the thrills that go with youth, and as we get farther and farther along the prosaic road of everyday life this ideal of our boyhood and girlhood becomes more and more beautiful and alluring.

The girl that a man marries grows old, and thin and scrawny, or fat and waddly. Her hair gets grizzled. Her face is lined with wrinkles. Her conversation mostly runs to the high cost of living, and problems about the children. She may work her fingers to the bone to make her husband comfortable, but she makes no pretense of considering him a dream hero, and she is more apt to ask him when he comes home of an evening if he remembered to bring the steak for dinner than she is to demand whether he still loves her unalterably and forever.

The woman a man marries has peculiarities that rub the bloom of romance. She has a temper and nerves that even the boldest husband finds is best to sidestep. She has disagreeable relatives that will come and visit her. She has a brutal candor in dealing with a man's faults and weaknesses and it often seems to the husband of even the thriftiest wife that marriage is just one darn bill after another.

It is the inevitable disillusion of matrimony that makes the ideal of our first love retain its enchantment.

For the years never touch a man's first sweetheart. She always stays sweet and 20. Her figure is always lithe and slim. Her hair never loses its luster, nor her cheeks their roses. She is always a creature of moonlight and thrills, babbling of celestial things.

Somehow a man feels that if he had married her he would have escaped the sordid cares of domesticity. She would have been always beautifully dressed and meeting him at the door of a vine-wreathed cottage that would have required no money to support. She would never have been sick and haggard faced. Her babies would never have had the colic. She would never have reminded him of his faults, and no bill collector would ever have crept into their Eden.

Of course, in his sober senses, the man knows that if he had married his first love she would have made very much the same sort of wife that his second love has, and that he would have had to pay the same price for domesticity. Nevertheless, he cannot help contrasting the two women to the detriment of the second, and many a man's life is made bitter by his regrets over the woman he didn't marry.

Women are subject to this same folly, and many a wife, unsuspected by her husband, has her little private altar before which she worships the image of the man she didn't marry, and who, she is sure, would have treated her very differently from the way in which the commonplace man to whom she is united in the holy bonds of wedlock, treats her.

He would always have been a romantic lover sighing at her feet. He would always have appreciated her and paid her flowery compliments. He would have kept her a goddess on a pedestal instead of turning her into a cook in the kitchen. He would never have quarreled over the bills. He would have always stayed slim and handsome, instead of getting baywindowed and bald as has the man she has mistakenly chosen.

So she, too, sighs for what might have been, and eats her heart out in longing for the old romance.

There is one sure cure for this silliness. Let every man and woman who long for their first love, pack a bag and start forth in search of them. Let them go once more to the shrine of the old romance. The man will find that the girl he remembered as light as thistledown, and as pretty and fresh as a rosebud, has grown fat, and homely, and dull. When he seeks to revive the old romance, she will talk to him about her children, and how trifling servants are now, and she will bore him to tears with her platitudes. The woman will find her Romeo with his mind obsessed by the green grocery trade instead of sentiment, and he will tell her how she has changed, and she will feel like murdering him where he stands.

No people are so strange to us as all those who were once dear to us and from whom we have long been parted. No one seems so old to us as those whom we have remembered as young and beautiful, and so probably no one ever meets one's first love without thanking God for the escape from him or her.

Giving the once over to that old sweetheart is guaranteed to remove the last lingering regret that one didn't marry him or her.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES."

Dangerous Citizen.

LONG BEACH, Dec. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Permit me to say amen to the letter published in The Times yesterday by William Keeney.

Debs is kept in prison for disloyalty and William Hearst is allowed to go at large, when the truth is, judging from his newspapers, that he is a more dangerous enemy to not only the nation, but to mankind, that ever Debs dared to be.

I had been taking the Examiner before the Arms Conference, but after reading the contemptible articles opposing peace I promptly stopped it.

What does the man, Hearst, mean? Does he want war? It would seem so.

Instead of trying to soothe the troubled mind of the world and restore peace and harmony, he is insidiously agitating and exerting an influence to stir up and make things worse.

I have always thought the Kaiser was crazy, and it looks as though Hearst is crazy. At the best he is a bad citizen—a dangerous one.

MARY PHILLIPS.

Too Much Learning.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Letters to The Times have interested me very much of late, and I have not expressed myself before, but feel it my duty to make an effort to help Eugene Alker, who is all wrong in opinion and idea of virtue and character.

Anyone who does not stand for prohibition is selfish and thinking more of self than anyone else. What good ever came from liquor? We all know much harm, suffering and trouble comes from it.

Much is said about doctors prescribing liquor now, but before the law prohibiting the sale of it went into effect, doctors rarely ever prescribed liquor.

Because the Roosevelt family use liquor is no sign we should not have prohibition in the United States. No one is entirely perfect, and that may be one little or big fault the Roosevelts have.

Every thinker and intelligent person knows the weak must be protected by the stronger; "that we are our brother's keeper." A great world this would be if we just thought of self and pleased self all of the time.

Eugene Alker writes a wonderfully well worded article, no doubt too much time has been spent with books, and other people's thoughts and ideas, to be a real thinker and a scientific person. Sometimes too much education robs a person of the true idea of life, for books give one son's one's else idea, not your own, of things.

Wilson is a good illustration of that—too much book knowledge and not enough of observation and nature study and real experience. If one calls taking liquor away taking freedom away they have a lot to learn about life. Liquor is one thing that takes freedom away from people. I have seen it take many, many into bondage and keep them there against their will. I speak from the experience I have had with my own loved ones and friends.

FLORENCE C. MAXWELL.

Board is Right.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Permit me to reply through your columns to a letter in this morning's Times signed by one Maxwell L. Davis and written in defense of the moving picture, "The Affairs of Anatol." Mr. Davis resents the action of the Pasadena censors in refusing this picture and feels that it is so "utterly devoid of objectionable features that one can only hazard a guess" as to what the censors found objectionable.

Now, in my turn, I ask any clean-minded person to consider some of the details of this picture. I found it one of the most unpleasantly suggestive and immoral I had ever seen. The whole atmosphere is of sex intrigue, beginning with the disgustingly flirtatious scenes between husband and wife, where stockings were drawn off, or on, I forget which, and where we had the edifying and true-to-life spectacle of a peephole in the wife's door, through which the husband sued for forgiveness. Later comes the episode of the frank courtesan and we are shown her luxuriously entertaining friends and coquetting with a music master. In the situation generally described as "kept," and she captures an old libertine as the final glimpse of her career. A scene in which an apparently innocent little country wife turns into a thief follows with much gayety and laughter, and then we come to one of those idiotic scenes that deeply impress the girls and boys of our villages as being what Mr. Davis considers (according to the heading of his letter) "too true."

In this scene Anatol is frankly going to the devil. He seeks an assignation with one Sinne Satan, or Satan Sinne, an actress evidently notorious for her lack of virtue. At first she repels him with remarks about the expense of playing with the devil, but, needing money, she agrees to entertain him "tonight!" Anatol finds her apartment guarded by all the ridiculous barriers that flourish only in this sort of play—curtains, bars, mute and mysterious attendant. Her rooms are full of devilish suggestions, skulls and sinister warnings. She joins him and they have a typical vamp scene. But by this time the audience knows that she can find no other means of raising some money than by luring a wealthy young bachelor to her rooms and asking him outright for it. She could sell no jewelry, dismiss no maid, borrow no salary—or at least these things have not occurred to her. And a great surgeon refuses to operate upon her dying husband without payment—another "too true" touch in this sort of film. So Satan entertains Anatol, although, when he angrily questions her virtue she leads him through a curved arch and gauzy curtains to her narrow bed, guarded by a live leopard or young lioness—which naively enough her maid almost immediately leads away, although that is not to the point.

This is, of course, infinitely more impressive seen than written. Does it seem harmless to most persons? One at least heartily commends the Pasadena board of censors and feels that it is just this kind of pleasant, diverting poison that is killing the film industry today.

MARY J. FARGO.

About Our Birthday.

HAWTHORNE, Dec. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] A man reaching his fortieth birthday is ruled by the same soul wished on him by his ancestors, plus or minus perhaps 15 per cent of its original virtue; that small percentage of new individuality which is the instrument he is able to use for his advancement or retrogression.

A newspaper in forty years has had many souls. Many great newspapers of today are rotting because of an indwelling dead soul of materialism and while there is no outward sign of decay they are on the way to certain dissolution by reason of the disinfecting action of a purer social atmosphere.

Even in its early and cruder days The Times was honest. It drove straight over an obstructed and dangerous road in the direction (we have no doubt) its managers believed to be a smoother way for the greater number.

We may question the wisdom of its methods, we may believe in some instances it had a perverted moral sense, but no one has fair reason to charge that The Times has ever been "bought."

During the stormy days, during the changing ethics of labor in its demand for a fairer distribution of its products between the brains who directed and the hands that made possible the execution of the visions of the masters, many believed the great inspirer of The Times favored an unfair division and awarded too great a portion to the thinker, but it is unlikely that Htrrison Gray Otis ever consciously erred in that direction.

This man, who witnessed the horrors of battle in two wars in which he took an active and honorable part, was so impressed by the futility and inhumanity of war that he has left a white stone to his memory in shape of a plan to end wars; anticipating by some years the League of Nations. It was stronger than the league, and provided the power to enforce its commands. It is probable that the nations may yet be obliged to come into such a confederation in spite of the opposition of weaklings and selfseeking politicians. A few wolf-nations if not withheld by force, will make universal peace forever impossible.

We know that if this great spirit were with us today he would put every ounce of his strength behind the Disarmament Conference.

And, we, who are not yet in full sympathy with all the policies of The Times, respect it for its usual impartiality, even towards movements which it opposes. Seldom now does sarcasm appear in its editorials unless directed against certain newspapers of unspeakable iniquity. We have read its editorials for seven years and noted its improvement in later years from the old style so much in vogue in the days of Horace Greely, Dana and "Mar'se Henry." We have marveled at the strength and genius of many editorials and tried to forgive the few that were unworthy of it. We have seen it outgrow the habiliments of the village paper, pass into the roomy garments of a metropolitan leader and finally claim rank as "the greatest newspaper in the world." Is there really another that can make it take second place?

This is not servile commendation but just appreciation by one who is more ready to condemn than to praise.

Also more than 15,000,000 real Americans by birthright or adoption stand behind you in support of your stand on disarmament. Let the Johnsons, the Borahs and Reeds bark and snarl—they are but a few bounds from the gulf of oblivion into which they shall soon plunge.

LAST SERVICES FOR ENGINEER.

Death of Gustavus O. Newman Ends Long Career.

Was Actor in Notable Work Here and Abroad.

Long Official of Two Large Power Concerns.

Ending a career of more than fifty years' active service as an engineer and developer, private funeral services for "Commodore" Gustavus O. Newman, chief engineer of the San Joaquin Light and Power Company and the Midland Counties Public Service Corporation, who died Sunday, will be conducted at 10 a.m. today at the family home, 607 Park View avenue.

Mr. Newman is credited with many notable achievements in civil engineering. He was the first man to establish the relation between a miner's inch and a cubic foot per second, it is stated. He built one of the first concrete bridges in the United States, importing the cement from Germany for the purpose. He was a pioneer irrigation engineer in the Riverside district and has been a factor in modernizing the hydroelectric business of the Southwest.

Born at Fortuna, Sweden, in December, 1844, of a family noted in the religious and professional history of that country, Mr. Newman received his early education in the Swedish common schools. He was later graduated from the Carolina University, Orebro, Sweden. He was then made engineer of the Swedish government railroad.

AT RIVERSIDE.

Arriving in America in 1868, his first great engineering problem was the construction of a Kansas City bride. Later he was in charge of several intricate engineering surveys. He came to California a little more than fifty years ago, his first work of importance in this State being the construction, in 1876-77, of the lower canal for the Riverside Canal and Navigation Company.

In 1881 he entered the service of the United States Geological Survey. Later he was constructing engineer of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad, and then with the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific. In 1884 he returned to Riverside as chief engineer of the Riverside Water Company, a position he held for twelve years.

In 1897 Mr. Newman was engaged as chief engineer for A. C. Balch of the San Gabriel Electric Company, and when this concern was purchased by the Pacific Electric Light and Power Company he was retained by the latter. At the time of his death, aged 77 years, he was chief engineer of this company and the Midland Corporation.

WAS A MASON.

Mr. Newman was a member of the California Club and of the Masonic order, having taken degrees in the blue lodge, Scottish Rite and Shriners. He was known familiarly by his friends as "Commodore" Newman, although the title was purely honorary. His residence adjoined that of the late Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, now the Otis Art Institute, and the two men were fast friends for many years.

Mr. Newman leaves his widow, Mrs. Mary Newman; two sisters living in Sweden; a brother, Emil Newman of Fresno, also connected with the San Joaquin Light and Power Company; a daughter, Mrs. Paul Paine, 607 Park View avenue, and three sons. They are Rolf Newman, a civil engineer of Los Angeles, and Davis and Miller Newman of Riverside. Mrs. Newman is a sister of Frank Miller, proprietor of the Mission Inn of Riverside.

VICTIM OF ACID MAY SAVE EYE.

Man in Hospital Again Refuses to Name Woman Who Threw Vitriol.

Although seriously burned by nitric acid hurled into his face by a woman last Saturday morning, Olai R. Lee, president of the Consumers' Milk Company, may not be blinded in his left eye as was first feared. This announcement was made yesterday by Dr. Jack Crossan, who is treating the injured man.

Interviewed yesterday by Police Detective England in St. Vincent's Hospital, Mr. Lee again declared that he will not prosecute and refused to tell the name of the woman who hurled the acid. He stated that he wishes the police to drop the investigation and Captain of Detectives Moffatt instructed his men to file the case.

From what could be learned by the police during the first investigation, a well-dressed woman entered Mr. Lee's office at about noon Saturday and without warning hurled a quantity of acid in his face. She then fled.

Treated in the Receiving Hospital by Police Surgeon Crossan, Mr. Lee was at first thought to be in danger of losing the sight in his left eye. He was also burned on the face and neck. Yesterday Dr. Crossan announced that he probably will be able to save the damaged eye and smooth out the worst of the acid scars.

OFFICE RANSACKED.

Burglars Raid Customs Place at Harbor and Steal Gun.

Burglars played havoc some time between Saturday night and yesterday morning with the offices of the United States Customs Service at Los Angeles Harbor, but, after ransacking every desk, tearing out the drawers of filing cabinets and attempting to knock off the combination of the safe, stole nothing more valuable than a revolver.

The burglary was reported to the police of the harbor division yesterday by Customs Inspector D. S. Packard, who is in charge of the office.

SILKS-A-SALE

THE ANNUAL DECEMBER EVENT

FOR WHICH JACOBYS HAS BECOME FAMOUS

NEARLY 100,000 YDS. AT ¼-⅓-½ LESS.

—Nearly 100,000 yards of silks!

—Yes! and we bought them at prices that must be causing some of those New York silk men to be as jealous as a Barbary Pigeon, now that silk prices have gone up.

—And these prices we name are a quarter—a third—yes, even a half under worth—and mind you, that means under the regular prices of a month ago—not those of today.

Chiffon Taffetas and Gros de Londres at $2.00

—Taffeta and Gros de Londres are always good, but the style astronomers tell us they are to be the "one best bet" for spring.

—And so we count ourselves doubly fortunate to have these good taffetas and Gros de Londres to sell at a price a full half under the regular, and you should be even happier over the fact that they are in the colorings that will be the most in demand this coming spring.

50-inch Black Baby Lamb Less Than Half, $2.95

—When we tell you that this is Salt's Plushes we've told you something that will interest you quite as much as it did when we told you they were less than half.

Here Are Five Lines of Silk That Will Cause Talk a-Plenty at $1.50

—"By all means"—said the famous Susquehanna Silk Mills, when we asked for their help to make this sale a thing to be talked about—and they sent brocaded Poplins and Satin de Chines in pretty printed patterns so we can sell them at $1.50.

—Then from another maker of good silks we got 3500 yards of 36-inch Chiffon Taffeta in a wide color range, also at $1.50.

36-Inch Wash Satins are Included, too, at $1.50

—And perhaps of most importance of all are the 32-inch Tub Shirtings which we have gathered to sell at $1.50.

1800 Yards Satin Francaise and Imperial Satin to Go at $2.50

—You'll appreciate, quite as much as the writer does, that these two greatly-liked silks "will go" at $2.50.

—The regular price—which very seldom comes off its high perch—is 'way over the head of this December Sale price.

—Colors—and colors—and colors—running one way from black to white and the other from Quaker to Peacock.

Crepe Cambridge and Crepe Sorel at $2.95

—Never have silk and wool been combined so happily as they have been in these two aristocratic crepes—and the writer doesn't remember of seeing them priced as low as $2.95.

Canton Crepe and All Her Sisters Grouped at $2.50

—Many women are even more in love with Chiffon Cantons and Satin Cantons and Marinettes than they are with Canton Crepes—and so to please them all we've grouped the whole lot at $2.50.

—And surely no woman who has priced Cantons will need to be told of the lowness of this December Sale price.

—Colors for afternoon—for evening—and for spring.

Just 750 Yards Eagle Canton (Satin) Crepe $2.50

—We picked it up for a song and a mighty short song at that, so this December price is more than a third under regular.

—But of more importance even than the low price is the fact that these exquisite silks are in many of the new shades that have been adopted for next spring—and then of course there are the stand-by blacks, white, navys, etc.

2100 Yards Silk Shirtings at $2.00

—And a lot of chaps are going to find silk shirts in their sox on Christmas morning—who would have fished out slippers or pink suspenders, had it not been for this sale.

—Among the silks are Broadcloths, Crepe de Chines, La Jerz and Crepe Sans Gene in white and nearly twenty real "yours and mine" sort of patterns.

40-Inch Peek-a-boo Georgette Crepes at $2.00

—"Georgettes are coming back," say some of the highbrows who are supposed to know the way of things in the silk world.

—"Georgettes are back—and strong, too," say the silk salesmen—and they ought to know, for they are in intimate touch with the women who are doing the buying.

—And so we're doubly glad to have these georgettes at less than their worth right now at the beginning of their popularity.

—Colors aplenty for all uses.

A Silk Mill That Stands "Ace High" Sent Crepe de Chine at $1.50

—Even before silks took their last jump skywards these Crepe de Chines were considered excellent values at a full half more.

—This manufacturer might well be dubbed the "prodigal miser"—for while the price is much, much lower than he needed to have set—he doled out but 1500 yards, which will be but a drop for the silk-thirsty buyers who will be here today.

—Colors—a good many—even more than you'd expect in such a limited yardage.

MOTHER HIGH-BORN.

"English Lady" Figures in Hearing of Extortion Case.

"He told me his mother was an English lady," was the testimony yesterday of Mrs. A. B. Moore, one of six defendants accused of extorting $1170 from James Hargraves, when the case was called before Justice Hinshaw.

"He also told me his brother-in-law was in trouble," said the witness, "and he was in destitute circumstances."

The case was continued until the 13th inst. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Costello is prosecuting, with W. Joseph Ford as defense attorney.

OFFICER IS JAILED IN KILLING CASE

C. E. Miner, a motorcycle officer of Culver City, accused in an indictment of manslaughter in connection with the death of Herman Goldstein, surrendered himself yesterday in Judge Reeve's court. His case was continued until Saturday for entry of a plea. Miner, in default of bail, was committed to the County Jail until Saturday.

PRISONER OF THIEF.

Burglar Compels Woman to Stay in Bed, Ransacks House.

Miss Annie Jonas, 1226 North Kenmore avenue, was compelled to lie in bed with her head covered while a prowler ransacked the house last evening and took jewelry valued at $500.

Miss Jonas told the Hollywood police that she was alone in the house. The other occupants, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Muller, were out driving. She was awakened by the noise of some one moving about the room, she said. When she inquired who it was, the burglar commanded her to cover her head and remain quiet.

MOTORIST HELD UP.

C. G. Lambert, 1442 North Gower street, was held up and robbed by an armed bandit at Santa Monica Boulevard and La Brea avenue last evening. The bandit jumped on the running board of his car and compelled him to turn over $9, he told Hollywood police.

He stopped a car driven by Paul Forman and in an altercation that followed, his revolver is said to have been discharged accidentally, striking Goldstein.

FAR, FAR AWAY.

Apples and potatoes are each selling for 50 cents a bushel in Nova Scotia, but who wants to live in Nova Scotia?

THE HESITATION.

If Mexico goes into the League of Nations Uncle Sam may be sorry he was so slow in recognizing an old acquaintance.

FOR THE FUTURE.

We may not be saving much money, but we are building a lot of schools and other uses and that is a good foundation for future prosperity and righteousness.

THE BIG DOINGS.

We have had many of the great ones of earth as visitors in Los Angeles this year. The name of Marshal Ferdinand Foch will complete the glorious roster. Although it comes at the wind-up, it may be said to lead all the rest.

THE GOBLINS IN ANGER.

The grand goblin has sued the imperial kleagle for $50,000 damages in an action for slander. The kleagles should be mighty discreet. The goblins will get them if they don't watch out. They are taking the klan out of the Ku Klux.

THE SHINING MARK.

Marshal Foch seems to have come and gone without being embraced by one of our film favorites. He is the first celebrity to get by. The great soldier must have been well guarded. It is also well known that he is not afraid of powder.

NO SACRIFICE.

Eamonn de Valera says that nothing was ever won without sacrifice. What has he ever sacrificed? He has never been willing to surrender a syllable or an opinion. He is one of those self-centered souls who expect the other fellow to do all the sacrificing.

THE STRIKE HABIT.

This is a poor time for the unions to be calling a strike in the packing industry. The packers say that there are two applications for every job. Besides this, there is a brisk educational movement to demonstrate that the whole family can get along without meat.

THE OBSTINATE JUROR.

Counsel for Arbuckle must have been asleep at the switch when Helen Hubbard was accepted on the trial jury. A juror who refused to consider the evidence and who announced that she would hang out for a verdict of guilty "until hell froze over" would not be a proper juror from any standpoint. How did she get by?

SEEK NEW FIELDS.

The Nonpartisan League announces its purpose to invade the State of Washington as its next ambitious venture. The league will put a complete State ticket in the field next fall. Bankruptcy and failure mark the trail of the league wherever it has won success. What have the people of Washington done to have this thing wished on them? There is no willingness to emulate the experience of the Dakotas.

"AIN'T I RIGHT?"

When a person tells you he is ashamed of his ignorance he usually means either to make a bid for your good will by trapping you into an egotistical display of your knowledge or else he is really ashamed of his failure to have taken advantage of his own opportunities to learn. If a man is genuinely ashamed of his ignorance he will not be ashamed to ask questions and he will take pride in his ability to devote full attention to the answers he receives.

DEVOTION IN ART.

In a recent book entitled "How I Teach the Violin" Leopold Auer, one of the master technicians of the musical world, has a great deal to say concerning the essential quality of devotion which the music student should apply to and in his work. Not only should the aspiring musician be devoted to his art, says Auer, but he should approach every masterpiece in musical literature with reverence, which includes the desire to see and interpret the soul of the composer. This quality of devotion is indeed requisite to the accomplishment of anything worth while in any branch of art, and even in the business world and in every-day life that man or woman is most sure of genuine success who can look upon life as something sacred and beautiful.

THE GERMAN PROGRAM.

Germany is said to be urging a consortium of Great Britain, France, Germany and the United States for the economic exploitation and development of Russia. Each nation should furnish such goods and materials as it produced and the problems of finance and exchange should be handled in bulk. Germany should have her share credited upon the Allied bills against her for reparations. This idea of capitalizing Russia's needs in order to extend Germany's economic program is not new; but that Germany should be anxious to share with her former foes is the new feature. Possibly a realization that without this co-operation the plan is impossible is responsible for the suggestion. Incidentally, Germany proposes a moratorium on her obligations to the Allies until the consortium is established. The question is, can a consortium and moratorium be driven as a matched team? First thing we know somebody will be wanting a proscenium.

CONCERNING THE ARBUCKLE CASE.

If we are to accept the financial estimates of the Arbuckle case, the higher cost of justice provides much food for serious reflection. We have been told that the expense to the State was around $6000 to $7000 and to the defense anywhere from $150,000 to a quarter of a million.

For the sake of argument we will accept the more conservative estimate of $150,000 for the defense.

If a man is innocent, isn't it appalling that it should cost him $150,000 to prove it in our courts of justice? If he is guilty, isn't it appalling that his guilt should profit any group of persons so lavishly?

Dist.-Atty. Brady for the prosecution was reported to have declared at the close of the trial that our "jails were built for the poor." This evidently upon the presumption that Arbuckle would be acquitted. That was an extravagant statement, unworthy of a public prosecutor. If he believed it, the reflection is against the efficiency of the prosecution. If he has any evidence to prove that wealthy misdemeanants in general, and the Arbuckle defense in particular, were evading justice with bribery and corruption, his duty was perfectly clear. If he had no such evidence his declaration was indefensible.

But this is by no means the first case in which extravagant fees and expenses have been mulcted from rich defendants. And far from the jails being exclusively for the poor, it would seem that the rich are the special victims of any misapplication of the law. Innocent or guilty, they are at once the prey of a condition that makes it possible to mulct them to the extent of their worldly possessions—with the jail held over their head. In some few cases they may finally escape that jail, where, were they guilty, it would have been immeasurably to their advantage to have sojourned and paid the lesser just penalty. For in such cases their "innocence" is never proven, the mud forever sticks, the public forever sneers: and to live the life of a social pariah outside the jail is, as these have found to their cost, a dubious blessing.

Or, if they be innocent, just so they be rich, they are called upon to make a far greater, longer-drawn-out fight to prove that innocence, at an infinitely magnified expense. The innocent poor man can at least prove his innocence at the minimum of expense, but, be he innocent or guilty, the rich man must pay, pay, pay for all the traffic will bear.

And incidentally there are quite as many guilty poor who escape the penalty of their crimes as the rich. Often they escape prosecution altogether, as even Dist.-Atty. Brady must admit, but the spectacular charms of a rich defendant are rarely allowed to escape the stern attention of the law.

That there are numerous and shameful miscarriages of justice is probably true, but that they are always in favor of the rich is quite preposterously untrue. And just the fact that it is legally customary for the defense of any kind of a rich man to cost so extravagantly out of all proportion to the defense of a poor man is evidence enough that his jeopardy is regarded as greater.

When we finally get round to the reform of our jurisprudence, to the purification of our courts of justice so long advocated by ex-President Taft, this question of mulcting rich defendants, the profiteering by the star lawyers at the expense of a rich man's shame, this higher cost of justice to the innocent or guilty just because they are prominent, may well receive particular attention.

In a just State it should cost no man his fortune to prove his innocence. Neither should his guilt and shame prove richly profitable to his defenders.

JOHN BARLEYCORN'S MASQUERADE.

There are more ways than one of acquiring the "kick." Of course, we have the bootleggers and the home-brewers who strive to keep memory dear and see that John Barleycorn's ghost is materialized as often and as adequately as possible; and we have the private stocks which insist that his burial was a trifle premature.

But it has remained for an enterprising "pharmaceutical chemist" to tickle and exploit the memory and conjure up a strictly nonalcoholic "kick" via the name and the flavor all complete, strictly within the law.

This gentleman, who advertises with mysterious little liners in the most reputable magazines, claims to provide "new liquid nonalcoholic flavors of whisky, brandy, rum, wines, etc., for the soft-drink trade."

"These new flavors," he naively declares, "tap a brand new vein of business and add large profits to this big field." He doesn't exactly advocate that the soda fountains should deceive a more or less innocently kick-thirsty public, but the implication is seductive. Exclusive rights in each territory are positively promised to selected parties, and the contract calls for inviolable secrecy. And all the agent is required to pay for this very exclusive secret is $10—sent in advance.

He says he can provide these languishing reminiscent flavors for 12 cents an ounce to sell at a dollar an ounce—87 per cent profit for a smell and a taste, with nothing but kickful memories. With its aid the vendor can make the kick-yearners wallow in happy memory and present self-deceit without infringing the law.

"It smells like whisky, it tastes like whisky, and—ahem—it costs like whisky, so, dash it all, it must be whisky."

That's the happy effect it is expected to have—within the confines of the Eighteenth Amendment. John Barleycorn in effigy. John Barleycorn in masquerade. John Barleycorn in make-believe.

What's in a name? A rose by any other name will smell as sweet. Perhaps. But a flower that looks like a rose, smells like a rose, is called a rose and yet is picked off an innocent lily bulb is going to make much more of a hit as a rose than it ever could as a lily. Christen those "new nonalcoholic flavors" by the good old names and there is 87 per cent profit in 'em. It's the association that does it—with a little fond imagination. But endow them with new exclusive names of their very own for a generation that knew not the insidious charms of their wicked ancestors—would they then smell as sweet?

"The Right Honorable gentleman is indebted to memory for his jests and to imagination for his facts."

ANCIENT HISTORY.

Gov. Allen of Kansas says that his State is passionately fond of prohibition and even the bootleggers are going out of business. Kansas was a prohibition State for thirty years before the amendment and consequently its bootleggers have grown old enough to retire.

It's a Good Act.

A FAILURE AS GOVERNOR.

A representative group of State Senators and Assemblymen have accused Gov. Stephens of conducting an extravagant and demagogic administration and of resorting to misrepresentation for the purpose of escaping the consequences. The legislators also accused the Governor of "self-praise and laudation" and of repudiating his pledge to reduce the cost of State government.

Having formally expressed their conviction that the Governor is a failure, the State officers expressed the wish that Stephens be defeated and a man elected who will have the courage to stop the orgy of spending at Sacramento.

In his reply to this arraignment the Governor resorts to all the tricks of a man possessing the weak end of an argument. He blusters, "warns the people," makes preposterous counter-assertions and takes unto himself a sort of purified sanctity, but supplies no real explanation nor excuse.

The Governor is quoted as saying:

"Regardless of whether or not I shall be a candidate for re-election next year, I desire to warn the people, these legislators are the tools of special interests seeking to exploit the State." The Governor further claims that "an unprejudiced investigation" will prove that California has an economical government. In his self-righteous attack on the men who have had the temerity to oppose him the Governor assumes all of the characteristics of a demagogue of which they accuse him.

"Now in the names of all the gods at once, Upon what meat doth this, our Caesar feed, That he is grown so great?"

The Governor forgets, or, if he does not forget, he ignores, his plain and unequivocal pledge before the last general election that he would, if elected Governor, introduce economy in State government.

Speaking at Santa Ana, Aug. 1, 1918, Gov. Stephens said: "I pledge myself to do everything in my power to reduce the cost of government without in any way impairing the high type of service rendered to the people of the State."

A few weeks later, addressing an audience in Sacramento, the Governor asserted: "It is my pledge to the people that there will be most rigid economy in State affairs."

Had the Governor kept his word, had he even kept a half or a fourth or a tenth of his word to the people of California taxes in this State would be lower and the Governor himself would not now find himself under the necessity of making ineffectual replies to the just charge that as a Governor he is a failure.

Pompous claims by Gov. Stephens that he is above criticism and his bombastic denial that his administration is an extravagant one will not change the real situation. And the real situation is that if he sets out to classify as "special interests" all those who oppose him he will find that his classification takes in a large block of citizens.

The Governor has always shown a great antipathy to the natural interest felt by the average business man of California in State affairs. Finding that flattery failed to befuddle the business man and that rebuffs proved fruitless, the Governor and his tax-boosters have resorted to abuse and from abuse have progressed to denunciation.

Regardless of what the Governor says about others, his own acts reveal that he is careening from one end of California to the other in a desperate endeavor to assure his re-election. Instead of attending to their duties as State officials, large numbers of his appointees are electioneering with him—and all, as the Southern California legislators charge, at State expense. The State rests under a cloud of soothing-syrup propaganda issued by the Governor's office, and the campaign is just beginning!

The Governor is out on a back-slapping, baby-kissing, hand-shaking, self-congratulating campaign that resorts to every little vote-getting trick known to the politician's trade. In San Diego the Governor sneaks unnoticed into a hot-cake establishment and finds this humble act on his part heralded in the press. In Los Angeles, which he betrayed on reapportionment, he demands that the people no longer call him "Governor," but resort to the more amiable title of "Bill."

His campaign is based on two general principles, first to admit nothing and, second, to accuse others of everything. In his policy he assumes that the people are unable to obtain any reliable information as to State affairs and must, therefore, accept his version as the true one.

It seems impossible that he can "get away with it." California needs a change in administration and the people of California generally recognize this need. All that is lacking is a candidate for Governor in whom the people can place their confidence. But, regardless of the candidate or his standing or his previous reputation for fair-dealing and honesty, Gov. Stephens will call him a "tool of the interests." This much is assured, for the Governor, not yet apprised of the identity of the man or men who will oppose him, has taken no chances and has classified him or them already as "tools." The Governor has overlooked the fact that occasionally an exasperated people themselves find "a tool."

HEARST'S GRAB-BAG.

The Federal government has put an end to Hearst's "grab-bag" attempt to secure unwilling subscribers, the Postmaster-General having warned him that his lottery in Chicago, as well as in this city, was illegal.

Thus it is shown that he was not only making an effort to build up a false circulation illegally, but was also so desperately in need of subscribers that, instead of having them pay the full price for his papers, he had to offer them lottery inducements to even interest them.

It is not strange, therefore, that advertisers shun Hearst newspapers, regarding them as poor investments because lacking that year-round subscription list which is the key to a newspaper's influence.

What the advertiser wants and is willing to pay for is not "space" merely, but focussed attention. A newspaper which is bought merely because the purchaser wants to get a lottery number is worthless from an advertising standpoint. There must not only be purchasers of newspapers, but readers of them, and it is the reader willing to buy the paper for what it has in it, rather than for gambling purposes, who is worth while to the advertiser. He gives his attention to the paper, having cared enough for it to pay a genuine subscription rate in order to get it.

Papers distributed through a lottery system are about as valuable to the advertiser as are handbills strewn along the street. Even the short-term subscribers secured are ephemeral in character, soon giving up in disgust a newspaper which has to subsidize its readers.

RHYME AND REASON.

A perfectly serious attack has lately been made on nursery rhymes in general and "Hey-diddle-diddle the cat and the fiddle" in particular. Apparently they are too silly for the modern nursery. As a matter of fact, many nursery rhymes have quite a serious origin as political squibs. And they survive precisely on account of the jingling qualities to which the reformers object. It is a pity the reformers themselves do not try to produce verses that show an equal genius for rhyme and rhythm instead of crusading against nonsense. Imagine a nursery without nursery rhymes or fairy stories or only with fairy stories rewritten according to communism, as the Bolsheviks have proposed! Imagine a world without nonsense! No Edmund Lear! No "Alice in Wonderland!" Nothing but blue books and moral tales for children and grown-ups! An intolerable prospect.—[London Daily Express.

MAKE IT GENERAL.

Two thousand elm trees will be planted on the road between Syracuse and Utica early next spring as the possible beginning of a "road of remembrance," extending from New York to Buffalo, as a tribute to New York soldiers who died in the World War.

The idea is an excellent one. Any excuse or any reason for planting the highways of the State with trees is sufficient. When the road of remembrance is completed the application of the idea should be extended to other roads until it covers all of the State.—[Buffalo Express.

CHOP SUEY.

By Henry Christeen Warnack.

Four men stood up with God when he made the world and watched with wonder as the shimmering sphere, flung from the finger of Omnipotence, found its place in the shining galaxy of stars. One of them asked, "How did you do it?" "Go and find out for yourself," said God. The man went and became a scientist. "What's it for?" asked the second. "Go and find out for yourself," said God. The man went and became a philosopher. "Give it to me," the third begged. "Go and get it for yourself," said God. The man went and took it and became a business man. The fourth said nothing at all, but fell down and worshiped. God said to him, "Because you have cared for the work and the workman you also shall go to the world and create. This man went to the earth and became a poet, a painter, a sculptor, an inventor and a musician, for in the first days creative genius turned its hands to many things and interchanged the terms of all the arts.

Now, in good time the business man saw a chance, since it was his business to take chances and also to make them, to be more than just a business man. He became the patron of arts. Today it is perhaps the most wonderful thing in the world to be the man to whom the writer of a new book sends his manuscript for a first judgment, the man to whom the young inventor brings his model and his plans, to whom the chemist first brings his formula for something destined to be of high use. Such a man becomes the very mold and matrix of all the new power released in the world. Next to making things, the next great experience is to recognize their place and to give them to humanity. When a business man takes this stand he comes pretty close to being cosmic-minded and he walks hand in hand with the romance of living.

What interests one tremendously in this story is the way the Lord sold these men his world, or rather the way in which they sold themselves on it. It is always astonishing to note how a fellow sells himself. If you dare look squarely at the proposition you will be amazed to see how people sell themselves to one another in marriage. Almost nobody is really sold on the other fellow. For instance, the moon is undoubtedly the greatest salesman in the world when it comes to the marriage market. The man will say, "What wonderful eyes—they are like the stars. What wonderful hair and what luminous flesh!" Now, he really means what a magnetic, witching night and what a glorious moon. The girl says, "What a heroic head he has and what splendid bearing; I am very sure that he is the strongest man in the world." The lady is really trying to say, "I never knew a night quite so romantic. I never knew the starlight to be so sweet nor the moon so effulgent." In the old days the host of the cafe sold young people to one another by the sparkle and melting glow of his wines. He can't do that any more, but what he does do is to sell them to each other by the softness of his lights and the caressing cadences of his orchestra. The man says, "What a girl, what a girl!" when he really means, "That steak was the best I ever ate and the music was excellent." The girl says, "He is adorable. I know I could be happy with him." But she really means that the flowers on their table shot her with an ecstasy of fragrance and that the violin obbligato had a sob and a sigh like the cry of a soul. Two young people stand near the rainbow spray of a waterfall like that of Niagara, or they stand upon the ledge of the Grand Canyon and look across at the amazing color of the mightiest wound in the side of the world. They melt into each other's arms and they call it love. Bless them, they have not found one another, they have merely found the waterfall or the Grand Canyon at the same time. Sometimes they wake up and see one another instead of the thing that sold them. After that there is either a real marriage or a divorce.

"Who's Who in America" is a great book in which to read about the men who have sold themselves to the world and how they did it, but a more astonishing work is the smaller Who's Who which contains only six hundred names. Mr. Rockefeller is the richest man in America because he serves the most people in America, but he is not in the little Who's Who on that account, but for the sake of the universities he endows. King Gillette would not be in that book because he sells enough razors to own a fine mansion in the wealthiest district of Los Angeles, nor even because he knows how to fill that mansion with the rarest objects of art, but because he has endowed an institution for the cure of a dread disease. Dr. William H. Bailey of the University of Southern California is 84 years old and drives a little Chevrolet for which he just traded a 1912 Ford. vet Bailey has sold himself so well to the world in sixty years' professorship in geology and metallurgy that he has a column and a half in this remarkable book.

Well, a man can afford to die when he has really lived, because, of course, he is the kind who never dies.

EDITORIAL OPINION.

The vanquished nations of Europe have no delegate at the Washington gathering, but from one of them comes to this country of his own volition an envoy extraordinary who is attracting as much attention as any statesman of the victorious powers. This is Dr. Lorenz, who presides over his own conference for the disarmament of pain. He is the children's ambassador, with full powers to show the way of making happy many unfortunate boys and girls of his own country and ours.—[New York Herald.

Touching the conference and related matters, it is increasingly evident that President Harding has large views. If he has the psychology of the small town, if he is Main street in political life, then an American small town is not lacking in vision and its Main street, whatever it lacks in architectural splendor, is a highway of significance.—[New York Tribune.

It's all very well to talk about junking battleships, but we mean to keep our superiority in gunnery, just the same. In the New Mexico's tests off Los Angeles the crew of turret No. 4 scored in one minute and twenty-three seconds five shots that were direct hits at 6000 yards. The world may find this record well worth noting.—[Brooklyn Eagle.

In the last war Italians fell by hundreds of thousands in the vain effort to force the barrier of the Carso. In the next war the Carso will be fighting for Italy. War between the two countries would probably be a terrible misfortune for Italy, but it would certainly be ruinous for Jugo-Slavia. Sensible men in Belgrade know this; the irresponsible Serbs and Croats who talk eagerly of war with Italy are of little more importance than the irresponsible Italians who talk eagerly of war with France.—[New York Times.

The surest deterrent of crime is the speedy and certain application of justice. The thing we call a crime wave need not be accounted for as reaction from cataclysm of war or prohibition or as an indication of declining morality or as the effect of industrial depression. Crime waves occur without reference to these. They follow periods of public apathy which express themselves in undue sympathy for criminals, verdicts of acquittal on unsubstantial grounds, leniency of parole, indolence of police. If an uncompromising attitude toward crime were not intermittent and dependent upon the prevalence of crime there would be no such thing as a crime wave.—[Portland Oregonian.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM.

BY HERMAN J. STICH.

Postponing Life.

There are so many things we are going to do—when we get time.

A well-known lawyer told me the other day of his boy of 6.

The little chap was very proud of his papa and he never got half chance enough to play with him.

One thing in particular this youngster wanted very much to do, and that was to go out to the zoo and see the animals.

And his papa said he would take him—some day.

But the lawyer was busy.

He never could spare the time.

He was working, working, at his office, to make money, so that some day the little chap could get an education, so that he could have all manner of advantages, so that his wife could swap the old flivver for a brand-new big limousine.

And he simply did not seem to be able to squeeze in enough time to go with Willie to the zoo.

Then one day Willie was sick. He didn't get better.

Toward the last the lawyer sat at his son's bedside, holding his hand.

"And," he told us as his throat choked and tears welled to his eyes, "do you know what was the last thing he said to me. It was:

"'We'll go to the zoo—some time—won't we, daddy?'

"What do you think of that? I had postponed it—postponed life—postponed the best thing in the world!"

RIPPLING RHYMES.

PAYING UP.

The first day of the month arrives, as scheduled by the almanac, and then, to save the merchants' lives, I toddle up the street and back. Escorted by the village band, I climb up Main street's asphalt hills, and with my check book in my hand I pay up all my monthly bills. It's good to see the grocer's face when I arrive, with checks on tap; it's good to see the glad smiles chase themselves around his haggard map. And from the butcher's furrowed brow the shades of trouble flee away, when I would pay him for the cow I bought in fragments, day by day. The weary baker seems quite gay and heaves no more his heartsick sighs, when I invade his mart and say, "I'll pay you for those concrete pies." Oh, many books have told us how to make the world a brighter place, to speed the optimistic plow and light up every mourning face. And doubtless all such schemes are fine, and Pollyannas cut much grass; but I contend this scheme of mine will all the other schemes surpass. I might invade the merchant's store and say a lot of sunny things, and he would rate me as a bore and throw a score of bricks and things. His heart is sick with grievous woes, his trade is slack, he's needing cash; and sunshine words and spiels like those appear to him as tawdry trash. But when I come and say, "By heck! Produce your bill—I'll pay it now," he promptly falls upon my neck and plants a kiss upon my brow.

CORES GIVEN IN MILK TEST.

City Inspector Tells Results of Dairy Contest.

Explains Method of Awarding Points in Tabulation.

Disinterested Judges Used to Decide Standings.

Dr. Joseph P. Bushong, chief milk inspector and city veterinarian, yesterday reported results of the tabulations of a milk scoring contest which started August 1.

During the week ending last Saturday samples of milk have been collected from every milk dealer and dairyman having more than five cows. These were scored at the health department by Prof. G. Tarnbow of the university farms, University of California, Davis; R. J. Posson, market milk specialist, United States Department of Agriculture, and Dr. F. Wilcox, State Department of Agriculture.

This score card allows 100 points [illegible] of which thirty-five points are for bacterial count, fifteen [illegible] for flavor and odor, fifteen points are for absence of sediment, fifteen points are for butter fat, fifteen points are for solids not fat, five points are for cleanliness, and five points are for appearance of package.

By the use of his system with disinterested judges, the standing of dairies is placed before the consumers in a fair and impartial manner, Dr. Bushong states.

It is the custom of the judges to allow points as arrived at from the score card adopted by the representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Animal Industry, as stated above.

Below is a list of the dairies with their class, location and score:

SCORES GIVEN IN MILK TEST.

Dairy Inspector Tells Results of Dairy Contest.

Sudden Method of Awarding Points in Tabulation.

Untrained Judges Used to Decide Standings.

Dr. Joseph P. Bushong, chief dairy inspector and city veterinarian, yesterday reported results of the investigations of a milk scoring contest which started August 1.

During the week ending last Saturday samples of milk have been collected from every milk dealer in the city, these having more than 90 points. These were scored at the health department by Prof. G. H. Benton of the university farm, University of California, Davis, R. J. Poesen, market milk specialist, United States Department of Agriculture, and Dr. F. Wilson, State Department of Agriculture.

The score card allows 100 points for cleanliness of the product, of which thirty-five points are for bacterial count, fifteen points are for absence of sediment, fifteen points are for butter fat, fifteen points are for solids not fat, five points are for acidity, and five points are for appearance of package.

By the use of his system with competing judges, the standing of cattle is placed beyond the question in a fair and impartial manner, Dr. Bushong states.

It is the custom of the judges to allow points as arrived at from the score card adopted by the representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Animal Industry, as stated above.

DR. VON KLEINSMID TO BEGIN DUTIES.

NEW UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT WILL GREET STUDENTS OF INSTITUTION TODAY.

Dr. Rufus Bernard Von Kleinsmid, who was recently elected president of the University of Southern California, arrived in Los Angeles yesterday to take up active work. He will deliver his first public address at 11 a.m. today to the assembled students in the George Finley Bovard Administration Building. His remarks are expected to be largely an address of greeting to the nearly 7000 students of the local educational institution.

President Emeritus Bovard will give the greeting for the university. Dr. Ezra A. Healy, dean emeritus of the Macley School of Theology, will be one of the speakers. The affair today is strictly a university function. The public welcome of the new president will be held at a later date.

The university affairs have been conducted recently by three members of the faculty: Prof. J. H. Montgomery, registrar; Dr. Lester B. Rogers, dean of the School of Education, and Warren B. Bovard, comptroller, in the absence of former President Bovard, who was given a six-months' leave of absence. Dr. Bovard will remain as an adviser, and the direction of the university will be turned over to President Von Kleinsmid today.

LUND CASE WAITS.

Woman Who Was Attacked Still Unable to Testify.

Because of the inability of Mrs. Pearl Tabor Lund, age 20 years, to testify because of a recent operation on her brain, the hearing of Charles Lopez, accused of assault upon her with intent to commit murder, was continued yesterday by Justice Forbes until the 29th inst.

Mrs. Lund is unable to remember clearly the use of words, it was stated. According to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Fitts, she was found on Glendale Boulevard, near Bellevue avenue, with her jaw broken, gashes on her chin and suffering from concussion of the brain. She stated Lopez attacked her. She is now in the County Hospital.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR T. E. HANCOCK.

Funeral services for Thomas E. Hancock of the Pacific Film Company were conducted yesterday at the Faris chapel. Hundreds of men representing all the film exchanges here and many other cities accompanied the casket to the place of burial in the Hollywood Mausoleum.

"Times" Rotogravure Shows World Conflict Leaders at Arms Conference.

The Times rotogravure section next Sunday will contain photographs of the mighty leaders of the great war who are lending their aid and council to the statesmen at the Arms Conference in Washington: Foch of France, Pershing of the United States, Jacques of Belgium, Diaz of Italy and Beatty of Great Britain.

Sight-seeing trips will show Baldwin Park, El Monte, Puente, Rosemead and Walnut. A full page of photographs showing the fairest blooms that decked Exposition Park during the recent California flower show will be displayed. Three art glass decorative panels to grace the new First Methodist Episcopal Church, said to be among the finest examples of art glass of modern times, also will be reproduced.

Peggy Hamilton's fashion page will fairly sparkle with Christmas apparel for those who follow the whims of that most fickle of females, Dame Fashion. News photographs of world-wide general interest will be found on this superb rotogravure section.

WILL TAKE UP PORT TROUBLES

Chamber Committee to Talk Over New Officers

Recent Appointments Bring Sharp Criticism.

Municipal League Warns of Effects of Politics.

The Harbor Affairs Committee of the Chamber of Commerce is scheduled to meet at noon today to discuss the troubles of the Board of Harbor Commissioners following the board's action of appointing Charles Terry as port warden, E. A. Heffner as assistant to President McKee at $200 a month, and of offering the position of traffic manager of the harbor to John T. Hendricks at a salary of $4000 a year.

The executive committee of the Municipal League has also taken a hand in the harbor board mix-up, and has filed with Mayor Cryer a strong protest against the three actions. The league urges upon the Mayor the necessity of "seeing that our harbor is handled in a way completely divorced from personal or political considerations."

"As a result of the protests over the asserted manner in which the harbor board is "railroading" appointments, negotiations to secure Mr. Hendricks as traffic manager of the port have been broken off, at least temporarily, until the present situation is smoothed out.

TO DISCUSS POST.

"It is expected that at today's meeting of the Harbor Affairs Committee, which is to follow the usual Tuesday morning meeting of the harbor board, the "emergency appointment' of Mr. Heffner will be discussed. Mr. Heffner assumed his duties last Friday morning, after President McKee and Commissioner Kibbe had voted to employ him for at least sixty days.

Under this manner of appointment it was not necessary for Mr. Heffner to take and pass a civil service examination, but before he is permanently appointed he must pass the examination, unless the Civil Service Board and the City Council vote to exempt the position from civil service.

RICHARDS'S REASONS.

Commissioner Richards voted against the appointment of Mr. Heffner, his reasons, as shown by the official minutes of the Harbor Board, being as follows:

"I vote 'No' on the ground that no 'emergency' exists; the business of the board is neither being hampered or imperiled. These are the only grounds upon which we can ask an emergency appointment. The office is a new one, its usefulness is highly problematical, as Mr. Kibbe has expressed it.

"The chairman of the board has not endeavored to discover whether the assistance he says he needs cannot be rendered by our present force. I believe the position I take is the only way this board can hold the respect of the community. I therefore vote 'No.'"

Fails to Put Ban on Dance Hall Weddings

Councilman Sparks, for many years the official county Cupid, as clerk in charge of the issuance of marriage licenses, failed yesterday in his efforts to have an ordinance enacted preventing wedding ceremonies in dance halls and other public places of amusement, after City Attorney Stephens had reported that such an ordinance would hardly stand the test of the courts. Councilmen Sparks and Allan were the only members voting in favor of the proposed ordinance, six Councilmen voting "No."

Councilman Sparks contended that marriage is a solemn and sacred event, and that wedding ceremonies in public dance halls were not in keeping with the seriousness of the occasion.

Loading Zones at Downtown Curbs Planned

The Public Safety Committee of the City Council yesterday afternoon agreed to recommend that the Council establish twenty-foot zones on the north and south downtown streets between First and Ninth streets, and including Hill street, Broadway, Spring and Main streets, which will be reserved exclusively for the loading and unloading of passenger and delivery cars. There should be two zones in each block, the committee reported, the curbing to be painted red to show the location of the zones.

The establishment of the spaces was recommended after business men complained of difficulty in securing parking space for delivery wagons near their places of business.

The spaces are to be reserved between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., after which the usual no-parking regulations apply.

VETERAN COUNTY EMPLOYEE EXPIRES.

P. B. Spears, 64 years of age and for twenty years in the service of the county, died suddenly of heart disease at his home, 1956 Milan avenue, South Pasadena, yesterday. He leaves a widow, one son and two daughters.

TROJANS WON'T PLAY CENTRE.

Athletic Council Refuses San Diego Bid.

Matter Settled After a Five-Hour Discussion.

Bruce Thinks Negotiations Are Off for Good.

BY PAUL LOWRY.

Following a five-hour conference of the U.S.C. athletic council with E. B. Gould, president of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce, and Stanley Hale, member of the executive committee which is promoting the game in San Diego on December 26, at the Athletic Club last night, it was announced by Graduate Manager Henry Bruce that negotiations had been called off. Trouble arose over the final arrangements. San Diego may make a further bid for the services of the Trojan football team, but Bruce indicated it was unlikely.

The outcome of the first three-hour session of the Trojan athletic council at the university yesterday seemed favorable. The committee reserved at noon and broke up at 3 o'clock with Stanley Hale, representing the San Diegans, hanging onto the end of a downtown telephone receiver in an effort to get the hot dope.

The U.S.C. committee, composed of Warren Bovard, Hugh Willett, Harold Stonier and Ralph LaPorte, talked the matter over from every angle with Coach Henderson. The gloomy one is not enthusiastic about the game save from the university's standpoint. If it means added prestige for U.S.C., and a possible victory over Harvard's conquerors this year would certainly mean all that and more, so is for the game.

While the commitee was in session students hung around the administration building praying, figuratively speaking, that the power that be would decide in favor of the post-season battle.

When the early news leaked out that this was the case there were a dozen wild and impromptu celebrations in different parts of the campus. Since the Trojan team's victory over Washington State the students think there isn't anything too good for their warriors and believe the season's fitting climax is the chance to play Centre at San Diego.

For ten letter men on the U.S.C. team Saturday's game was supposed to have been their last varsity contest, and they welcome the opportunity to battle in just one more. Some of the boys aren't crazy about the intersectional tilt, for they figured on earning some Christmas money during the holidays, but for the sake of the last year men on the squad they will risk their feelings.

Coach Henderson left last night for Portland to attend the meeting of coaches, athletic directors and managers of the Pacific Coast conference in that city Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. He will be gone ten days, but left instructions for Assistant Coach Willis Hunter to call the boys out for practice next Monday afternoon.

Boone Thinks Negotiations Are Off for Good.

BY PAUL LOWRY.

Following a five-hour conference of the U.S.C. athletic council with E. B. Gould, president of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce, and Stanley Dunn, member of the executive committee which is promoting football game in San Diego on December 26, at the Athletic Club last night, it was announced by Graduate Manager Henry Boone that negotiations had been called off. Trouble arose over the final arrangements. San Diego may make a further bid for the services of the Trojan football team, but Bruce Baumgartner said it was unlikely.

BEARS NOT LOOKING FOR ANY FOOTBALL SET-UPS.

California's Only Lament is That None of the So-Called Eastern Topnotchers Would Come.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Comments of eastern writers on the selection of Washington and Jefferson for the January 2 game in Pasadena are not particularly laudatory or encouraging. In fact, the rush of several of these into print was quite precipitate, and the general typewriter twitter of these was that the team which beat W. and J. wouldn't be beating much. One even went so far as to refer to Washington and Jefferson as a "set-up" for California.

All of which savors of advance alibi stuff, and should the Western eleven win, the Eastern comment will be, "Well, what of it?"

Recently the writer quoted a former Eastern football player on the caliber of Washington and Jefferson, whose opinion was extremely favorable. But we hold no brief for the W. and J. team.

CAUSES SMILE.

But that set-up stuff makes us smile. Was California looking for a set-up when it offered to go East and play either Yale, Harvard or Princeton on their own grounds and in their own climate? The Bears are not looking for any soft sparring partners, and neither is any other Western eleven. Their only lament is that none of the so-called topnotch elevens of the East could be induced to meet them. None of these saw fit to monkey with the California Bear trap.

Incidentally, W. and J. is one of the three undefeated teams in the East, and has a much better record than some of those who have representations as football headliners.

Admitting that California's attitude is not enthusiastic about the game save from the university's standpoint. If it means added prestige for U.S.C., and a possible victory over Harvard conquerors this year would certainly mean all that and more, as it is for the game.

While the committee was in session outsiders hung around the administration building praying, figuratively speaking, that the powers that be would decide in favor of the post-season battle.

MAY GET BACK HIS OLD JOB.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTLAND, Dec. 5. — Hugo Bezdek, coach of Penn State football team, may be back at his alma mater, University of Oregon, as football mentor next season. A vigorous campaign to bring this about is under way at the University and among Oregon alumni. Bezdek was guest here tonight at a banquet tendered by the alumni of the university. Tomorrow he is going to Eugene where he will be the honored guest of the student body and the faculty. Also he will receive while there a definite tender of a position as coach.

Last year Bezdek was offered $8500 a year to return to Oregon. He declined the offer. It is altogether likely that the figure will be increased to $10,000 this year and the offer renewed, according to university gossip. And Bezdek is receptive this time. He has told friends since he arrived on the coast that he would like to get back to this side of the country to live. In an interview today Bezdek declared he would never again enter professional baseball notwithstanding his fine record of a few seasons ago as manager of the Pittsburg Pirates. Said Bezdek today:

"I have had my fling at the big league stuff and I have had all that kind of glory that I want. Now I am ready to settle down and grow old in peace and quiet. (If anybody can imagine Hugo Bezdek growing old in peace and quiet.) I made my start here in Oregon and I love this State. I certainly love it. Mrs. Bezdek loves it as I do. It is the place

EASY FOR CALIFORNIA.

Bears Would Slaughter Penn State by Forty Points, Says Coach Bagshaw of Washington.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SEATTLE, Dec. 5. — Enoch Bagshaw, Washington coach, who played both teams, says that California would beat Penn State by forty points. Seattle fans, not having seen the power of the Bears, can hardly realize a machine strong enough to beat a team such as Bezdek showed them Saturday by that big margin. Certainly the Lions looked better than any eleven that has played here this year.

Having seen the Oregon Aggies beat Washington soundly, and by a bigger score than did the Bezdek team, the writer states without hesitation that Penn State is the stronger team. In all fairness it is only right to state that the Lions looked stronger than the score showed. The fact that they made but three touchdowns out of a total of twenty-nine first downs proves that.

Three fifteen-yard penalties robbed them of chances to cross the Washington line, although holding is poor football. In the kicking department the staters failed to live up to expectations, while both Wilson and Zell performed nobly with the toe.

The fact that Washington out punted the visitors by some ten yards to a kick proved a life saver to Baggy's men. Bezdek is probably right when he says his team was not quite at its best against Washington.

Hugo Bezdek is Honored Guest at a Banquet.

PORTLAND, Dec. 5. — Hugo Bezdek, coach of Penn State football team, was honor guest here last night at a banquet tendered by the alumni of the University of Oregon, where he graduated and subsequently coached the football team successfully. Bezdek was to leave today for Eugene, where he will be the guest of the faculty and student body at the university. A movement is on foot among students and alumni to endeavor to obtain Bezdek's services as coach again.

BAMBINO IS PLASTERED HARD BY JUDGE LANDIS.

Ruth Mulcted His Share in World's Series for Barnstorming and is Suspended Until May 20.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—Bad news for Babe Ruth, world's champion home-run hitter, with the New York Yankees, broke today. Ruth was fined his world's series prize of $3362 and suspended until May 20 of the 1922 season by Judge Landis, commissioner of baseball, for participating in exhibition games following the close of the world's series.

Outfielder Bob Meusel and Pitcher William Piercy, also members of the Yankees, who participated in the barnstorming trip, drew substantially the same penalty. Piercy's fine was $100 less than the other two, his share of the world's series being that much less.

Suspension of Ruth for at least the first month of the American League pennant race practically means, baseball observers pointed out, that he will have little chance next season of breaking his record of fifty-nine home runs. He will not be eligible to apply for reinstatement until May 20—the season starts about April 14.

The decision, which the baseball world regards as the most important Judge Landis has made, came after two months' deliberation.

The rule enacted in 1911 forbids a member of a team competing in the world's championship series from participating in any exhibition games after the close of the series.

BUFFALO (N. Y.) Dec. 5.—The penalty imposed on Babe Ruth and two other players of the New York Americans for disregarding an order against playing in exhibition games after the world's series, overshadowed all else in interest among baseball men here today for the twenty-first annual meeting of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

Deals for players, President M. H. Sexton's campaign for greater economy in the management of smaller leagues and the possibility of reinstating the draft system, were temporarily side-tracked while magnates and players discussed Commissioner Landis's ruling, and its possible effect on the national game next season. It was the generally expressed opinion the best interests of the game demanded disciplining of the players, and that the penalty imposed would have the effect of putting a stop to barnstorming after future world's series.

Col. J. C. Ruppert and Col. T. L. Huston, owners of the Yankees, said they would abide by the ruling.

The national board of arbitration today took up 126 cases of disputes over contracts, releases and other issues, growing out of the season's

EDWARDS IS TO TACKLE MARKS.

Little Fellows Slated for Doyle's Main Scrap.

James and Ertle Scheduled for Semi-Wind-up.

Seven Good Bouts Are Down on Tonight's Card.

Danny Edwards and Georgie Marks will meet tonight at the Vernon arena for the third time. As the score now stands Edwards has one victory and a draw to his credit. The two boys will meet at catchweights but it is not likely that there will be more than a couple of pounds difference when they climb on the scales. If there is any edge it is in Edwards's favor.

The Bobby Harper-Willie Hunefield bout slated for the semi-wind-up has been called off by the examining physician. Harper has contracted a heavy cold and was ordered not to appear in the ring for another week.

JAMES-ERTLE.

Matchmaker Wadhams has moved Eddie James into the semi-wind-up with Bobby Ertle, and Johnny Trambitas will take on Young Papke in the feature preliminary.

James is making his first start at Vernon. He boxed a draw with Joe Coffey at Hollywood a few weeks ago. Ertle is a flashy boxer and this bout should promise more action than the Hunefield-Harper bout.

Gene Cline, welterweight battler from Fresno, who has been idle for several weeks, will have Johnny Kramer for an opponent.

In the preliminary bouts, Jimmy Dime will meet Patsy Dillon at 175 pounds. Eddie Denny will take on Fred McManus at 135, and Red Mulburn will meet Cliff Bricker. Dick Donald will referee with the assistance of two judges.

Field Meeting is Scheduled for Stockton.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

STOCKTON, Dec. 5.—The 1922 State track and field meeting of the California Interscholastic Federation will be held in Stockton on May 6, 1922, it was announced today by Homer S. Toms, local member of the C.I.F. Federated Council. Official action was taken at the C.I.F. meeting in Los Angeles Saturday. The State championship football finals will be played in the north this year, establishing a precedent. The game will be played in either Sacramento, Berkeley or Palo Alto.

BEARS SHOULD HAVE A HARD TIME BEATING W. AND J.

BY ROBERT W. (TINY) MAXWELL.
(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—Washington and Jefferson kept its 1921 football record clean on Saturday in defeating the University of Detroit at Detroit, and has earned the right to play the University of California in Pasadena on New Year's Day. The Presidents put over a clean cut victory which cannot be questioned. They made twelve first downs against one for Detroit.

With the exception of the University of Pittsburg, Detroit was the hardest team W. & J. played this year. The westerners romped through their schedule easily defeating Tulane, Boston College and Vermont and were confident of ending the season with a victory over Greasy Neale's eleven. They battled hard from start to finish, but the Pennsylvanians were a trifle better

PLAY SOUND FOOTBALL.

This was the first time we had an opportunity to see Washington and Jefferson in action and the team lived up to all of its advance notices. Good sound football was played. Capt. Stein proved to be an able leader and field general and Greasy Neale must be ranked with the best of football coaches. The men were well trained, knew a lot of football and the plays were run off smoothly.

We were told before the game that Neale used a number of weird trick plays spreading his men all over the field and using the forward pass attack almost exclusively. This did not happen on Saturday. W. & J. confined itself to a line attack, with Basista, Brenkert, West and Capt. Stein carrying the ball with an occasional reverse play and end run by Erickson. During the game not more than three forward passes were completed and about a dozen simple ones were attempted.

On defense W. & J. showed very well. Not once was the heavy Detroit team able to make a first down through rushing, and when they made the necessary distance it was on a completed forward pass. This is not a slam at Detroit's attack, for it was above the average. The defense of the Presidents was the best we have seen this year and it was needed to stop the Red and White onslaughts.

Fitzgerald, Loomis and Laure were able to gain consistently against every team this year until they collided with the W. & J. rush line.

WRONG TACTICS.

Detroit expected an open game and planned a defense for it. Six men were used on the line of scrimmage, the guards about four yards apart, and the tackles three yards from the guards. The ends played wide and the center and halfbacks were eighty yards back of the scrimmage line. As soon as Stein saw this, he called signals for line plays, which proved to be successful.

The forward pass threat kept the secondary defense back until the ball was close to the goal line and then it came up and helped the linemen. That is the reason why W. & J. could not gain consistently inside of Detroit's 20-yard line.

Therefore, the Presidents had the ball most of the time. They would carry it down the field and when the defense stiffened kicked the ball over the goal line. Detroit would kick it back again and and the W. & J. march would start all over again.

Neale's team scored twice, once on a blocked kick and the other on a brilliant 44-yard run by Erickson. This showed how hard Detroit fought and how the breaks in the game favored the visitors. In midfield the Pennsylvanians could gain consistently, but near the goal line they were turned back.

TURNING POINT.

The first play of the game proved to be the turning point. Detroit kicked off and Brenkert received it on his 10-yard line. He ran toward the side line, passed the ball to West, who almost got away for a touchdown. The old criss-cross play brought

CALIFORNIA STILL UNDECIDED

BERKELEY, Dec. 5.—No decision regarding the proposed New Year's football game between the Washington and Jefferson and University of California elevens was reached by university officials in a four-hour meeting tonight and the conference adjourned until tomorrow. The meeting will decide upon California's acceptance of the proposition to participate in the annual Tournament of Roses East-vs.-West football game at Pasadena.

Another NASH

There's a reason for the rapidly increasing number of Nash cars you meet on the highways. If you see four or five, or a dozen on your hundred-mile trip Sunday, just think how many more there must be in use on the many other stretches of boulevard in Southern California.

Ask your neighbor who owns a Nash—He'll tell you why he drives one.

Experts With Foils to Meet at L.A.A.C. in Tourney.

D'ARTAGNANS DISPLAY SKILL..

Fencing Experts Cross Steel at L.A.A.C. Gym.

French and Belgian Champs to Flash Foils.

Miss Janet Ford to be One of Contestants.

The fencing tournament at the Los Angeles Athletic Club tomorrow night is to be featured by a Southern California amateur title match. Cliff Horne, the local amateur champion, will cross steel with Isidore Romanowski, a French foil expert and winner of gold cups and medals in New York and elsewhere. The bout between these two should be extremely fast and interesting. This and other contests and exhibitions will undoubtedly be the snappiest ever seen in Los Angeles. The meet will be held in the L.A.A.C. gym and will be free and open to the public. It means the revival of this fine art in Los Angeles.

The club's maitre d'armes, Arthus Saint Remie, and Harry Uyttenhove, former champion of Belgium, will figure in an exhibition bout that promises to be sensational because this probably is the cleverest pair of fencers in America today.

IN YEAR OR TWO.

In addition to Messrs. Horne and Romanowski the club contestants will be J. V. Estrenol, W. Emile, S. L. Cooper, A. Lobar, Albert Follet and Miss Janet Ford. Miss Ford, who is one of the clever national known divers of the L.A.A.C. team, aspires to the world's amateur fencing championship, and Arthur Saint Remie confidently predicts that she will annex the title in a year or two. She is making a remarkable showing and will surprise the fans tomorrow night by her expertness with the foils.

These events will be governed by the rules of the Military School of Joinville de Pont, adopted by the Amateur Fencing League of America. There will be three judges. The tourney will be the first of its kind here in seven years.

WON IT TWICE.

Master Saint Remie is making an endeavor to bring the next national fencing tournament to this city and prospects of success are extremely good. Los Angeles is entitled to the classic on the record of Mr. Romanowski alone, he having twice won the A.F.L.A. cup.

The first prize in tomorrow night's tournament will be the set of foils used by Fairbanks in the filming of "The Three Musketeers," and offered by the Mission Theater management. The second and third awards will be a set of new dueling swords and a brace of book ends representing D'Artagnan, respectively.

RECEIPTS ENORMOUS FOR FOOTBALL GAME.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Dec. 5.—Receipts for the "big game" of football in the new Stanford Stadium between California and Stanford, November 19, were more than $216,000, W. D. Fletcher, graduate manager, has announced. Total expenses amounted to less than $4000. More than $3,000 tickets were sold and the value of unsold tickets was $27,000. The two schools split the proceeds.

FAMOUS RUNNER DEAD IN EAST.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Charles H. Kilpatrick, a famous amateur middle-distance runner of twenty years ago, died today. Kilpatrick established the amateur record of one minute and fifty-three and two-fifths second for the half-mile run in 1895. The mark stood until 1916, when J. E. Meredith lowered it by one and one-fifth seconds.

High School Elevens Clash on Bovard Field Saturday for Good Cause.

Athletic officials of the Santa Ana and San Diego high schools yesterday gave their consent to holding the Southern California championship football game between their elevens at Bovard Field next Saturday as a benefit for the Red Cross.

The Red Cross fell down in its late drive for funds. It is literally swamped with requests for aid from ex-service men, and the proceeds from this game will be given to the Red Cross for distribution through its regular channels to ex-service men.

The game will be held under the auspices of the Assistance League for the benefit of the ex-service men, the funds to be distributed by the Red Cross.

Robert E. Wells, general manager of the Assistance League, yesterday received formal notice from Tex A. Russell, San Diego High principal, and D. H. Hammond, Santa Ana principal, that the game would be played at Bovard Field as a benefit for ex-service men. D. W. Oliver, vice-president of L. A. High, and H. J. Moore, director of athletics of Long Beach High, and both Southern California members of the C.I.F., have given their consent to the arrangements.

BEARS NOT AFTER SET-UPS.

titude toward the January 2 game, and its indifference about meeting any except Cornell or one of the "Big Three," was far from admirable, this does not prejudice us or dull our football preception to the extent of not recognizing in the California team one of the great elevens of all time, one which a majority of Eastern elevens diplomatically sidestepped.

When Iowa was mentioned as a possible contender, California, through one of its spokesmen, official or otherwise, replied:

"We see nothing to be gained by meeting Iowa, we want bigger game."

That doesn't listen good, even though coming from a champion. But the Bears are great, a truly wonderful team, although it is to be doubted whether she could have defeated U.S.C. last Saturday, the Trojans being in that superlative form which an eleven attains only once in a season, as a rule.

BEST IN LAND.

But on the basis of consistent performance for two years, California unquestionably is the best in the land, no better possibly than the Trojans in straight football, but holding a superiority over all rivals because of an extraordinary development of the formard pass.

On the returns to date there is very little basis for an argument as to the relative quality of Western and Eastern football for the present year. That matter was largely settled in Seattle last Saturday, when Penn State defeated the University of Washington, 21 to 7. California rolled up 72 points against this same Washington team. Eastern experts for the most part agreed that the championship of the East lay between Penn State and Cornell. Penn State, which tied Harvard, scoring 21 points against the Crimson, made only 21 points against the lamentably weak Washington eleven, and had its own goal line crossed.

TO ASK FOR RAISING OF PLAYER LIMIT.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—When the National League magnates meet in joint session with the American circuit bosses at New York next week an effort will be made by certain club owners to have the player limit raised. Under the present restriction a club can carry only twenty-five men from May 15 to August 31 and forty during the rest of the year. It is the latter that is not satisfactory to all concerned.

The few owners favoring a bigger roster for the spring training purposes have, so far, advanced no good argument in support of their belief. The only logical point is that the more athletes a manager has on hand for inspection the better his chances for discovering some fine prospects. Against this is the argument that even with forty players in a training camp the manager doesn't have enough time to size up each man carefully.

AWARD BOWLING PRIZES.

DES MOINES (Iowa) Dec. 5.—Cash prizes totaling $9944.25 and nine gold medals were being distributed tonight among winners of the Middle West Bowling Association's fourteenth annual tournament, which ended here today.

First money in the five-man event went to the Hutchinson Ice Cream team of Des Moines, with a score of 3017.

J. Danek and J. Hradek of Chicago, won first money in the doubles event, with a score of 1351.

Individual honors went to G. Falkenhack of St. Joseph, Mo., who made a score of 726.

G. Gabel of Des Moines, was the all-events champion, rolling a score of 1911.

During the tournament all Middle West bowling records were broken.

EXPECT TO ADMIT U.S.C.

Trojans May Be Taken Into Coast Conference When That Body Meets in Portland.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SEATTLE, Dec. 5.—That the University of Southern California will be admitted to the Coast conference when the managers and coaches meet in Portland this week is the opinion of Darwin Meisnest, Washington manager. It is thought the faculty advisers are in favor of accepting the Los Angeles institution.

Henderson has been working toward this end for some time. He has been careful to live up to the eligibility rules of the conference and he has proven U.S.C.'s strength on the gridiron. The only opposition to taking in the Trojans is from those who think Los Angeles is too far for northern teams to travel.

Henderson has many friends here who would like to see the former Seattle man be recognized by the conference.

Washington athletes, coaches, managers and a few others will convene, at the annual football banquet at the Washington Hotel tomorrow night. The election of captain is the chief item of interest, the players voting on the 1922 leader before the start of the evening's program.

play in twenty-six minor leagues. Nine cases were disposed of.

Among the cases passed on was that of W. J. Kenworthy of Seattle. He sought release from Seattle following a change in management. The board found his contract carried a full reservation clause and disallowed his application.

Secretary J. H. Farrell, who presided, announced the next board will consist of seven members instead of ten. Each class of minor leagues will be represented, and each will choose its own members. Two members will be named to represent class AA leagues, the International, American Association, and Pacific Coast. Class A leagues, of which there are four, will be represented by two members, and classes B, C and D, each will have one representative.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—"Well, just let it go at that for the present," Babe Ruth declared today when informed of the decision in Chicago of Judge Landis depriving him of his share of the world series money and suspending him until May 20, 1922.

The ball player was informed of Judge Landis's decision in his dressing-room at a local theater while preparing for his turn on the stage. He said he could make no statement until he had received the formal statement of Judge Landis's action.

Bob Meusel, New York, American outfielder, tonight declared the fines imposed on himself, Babe Ruth and William Piercey for infraction of the major league rule prohibiting "barnstorming" tours for players who participated in the world series of that year could not be made to "stick."

Ex-Champions to Engage in Fistic Bouts.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Three former champions and a newly crowded title holder in the fistic world will appear in bouts scheduled here this week. Pete Herman and Joe Lynch, former bantam champions; Mike O'Dowd, former middleweight king, and Johnny Dundee, the junior lightweight champion, will be engaged.

Herman will resume his campaign for the title now held by Johnny Buff, in a fifteen-round contest Thursday with Packy O'Gatty. Lynch will meet Max Williamson of Philadelphia in ten rounds Friday night. O'Dowd has Lou Bougash of Bridgeport, Ct., for an opponent in a twelve-round bout tomorrow night.

Dundee and Sailor Friedman of Chicago are principals in another twelve-round bout Friday night.

BOXING BOUTS UP TO CITY COUNCIL.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LINCOLN (Neb.) Dec. 5.—Acting on an option by City Attorney Peterson that the legislative act legalizing boxing bouts in Nebraska will permit the holding of them here regardless of a municipal law to the contrary, provided the City Council by majority vote gives its consent, the local American Legion yesterday announced it will hold four bouts January 17. Promoters say they have assurances a majority of the Council favor boxing.

AD SANTEL TO TAKE TO THE MAT AGAIN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—Ad Santel, well-known California wrestler, has left for Boise and Pocatello, Idaho, to engage in matches.

WHITTIER IS WINNER.

Whittier High school won from the Y.M.H.A. lightweight basketball team 30 to 8 in a game on the former's court last night. Southwick of the winners was the star of the contest. He scored 17 points.

Real Fighters to Appear in Fistic Bouts.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Some of Uncle Sam's real fighting boys are going to have a chance to show their skill once more. Tex Rickard and the local officers of the American Legion have about completed arrangements for a monster boxing tournament to be held in Madison Square Garden some time next month.

Capt. Bob Martin, Gene Tunney, Capt. Bob Roper, Fay Keiser, Mike O'Dowd, Joe Welling and scores of other famous boxers, who stepped out in front when Uncle Sam found himself in trouble, will be on the program.

It is more than likely that Bob Roper and the other soldier heavy Bob Martin, will be matched for one of the bouts.

Then we will probably get Mike O'Dowd, the aggressive Irishman who cleaned up on the other side, and Fay Keiser in another one of the matches. Mike and Fay are a rough pair of hitters and will make a good team to start.

Gene Tunney of Greenwich Village will have to find a sparring mate for the occasion and he will no doubt be tossed in with either Roper or Martin.

Redlands Five May Take on Y.M.C.A. Lads

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Dec. 5.—Redlands University basketball players may be in San Diego at the time of the football game between Centre College and the U.S.C. team, The San Diego Y.M.C.A. has offered the local basketball stars a game for the night of the day on which the big football game is to be played.

Coach Guy Daniels will take his team to San Diego if satisfactory arrangements can be made. That is during the Christmas vacation but the basketball men will most of them remain here and keep in training during the holidays because they come after the conference season has started.

Daniels is well pleased with the early season showing of his men. Thompson, the star lineman for Redlands in football this year, gives promise of being a good center, the hardest hole that Daniels had to plug.

Ruth Allowed to Work Out With Yankees

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 5.—In view of the fact that the New York Yankees will probably train at Los Angeles next spring it will be of interest to Pacific Coast fans to know that Babe Ruth is not barred by Judge Landis's decision today from accompanying the American League champions on their training trip.

After giving out the decision this afternoon Landis was asked whether he intended the suspension should prohibit the men from practicing with their teammates. Evidently this was a point the jurist had overlooked but after a moment's deliberation he said the order barred the athletes only from championship games. This means that Ruth will be able to exercise his drawing powers at the gate during the spring training exhibition games.

ADAMS MADE WARD IN JUVENILE COURT.

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 5.—Johnny Adams, 16 years old, a flyweight boxer, was made a ward of the Juvenile Court here today by Judge J. W. Curtis and ordered not to again enter a boxing ring until he is 21 years of age.

A week ago Adams, a witness in his mother's alimony suit, testified he received money for bouts here and at Vernon. The court at that time directed Adams not to fight again. He disregarded the court order and fought at Vernon. Adams claimed on the stand today he had testified incorrectly on the previous occasion and had not been paid for fighting. The court ruled he had received money in violation of the law and made him a juvenile ward.

CHANEY LOSES.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 5.—George Chaney, Baltimore, lost to Freddy Jacks of England in the second round of a scheduled eight-round bout tonight on a foul. Jacks claimed to have been hit low and the referee stopped the bout.

SHOE PITCHING FOR STUDENTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BERKELEY, Dec. 5.—Horseshoe pitching, or barnyard golf, has been added to the list of sports participated in by students of the U. of C. here, and work on a links was started last week. In the first match Prof. W. Metcalf of the forestry department will meet W. H. Gibbs, junior student and president of the Students' Forestry Club.

BIG LEAGUERS NAME CAMPS.

Almost All Teams Select Training Grounds.

Cleveland Indians to Hike to Dallas, Tex.

McGraw's World Champions to San Antonio.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Only a few of the major league clubs are still without a place to train next spring, though it frequently has happened that only two or three training camps had been announced before the December meetings. The uncertainty concerning the 1922 training camps is entirely an eastern affair since the eight western clubs of the two major leagues already have made known their spring plans.

The Cleveland Indians will return to Dallas, Tex.; the St. Louis Browns will go to Begaluza, La. The Tigers change from San Antonio, Tex., to Augusta, Ga., and the White Sox have selected Seguin, Tex., as their next training base. In the National League the Cubs move from Pasadena to Catalina Island, just off the California coast, and the Cincinnati Reds have given up Cisco, Tex., to train at Mineral Wells in the same State. The Pirates are scheduled to return to Hot Springs, Ark., and the St. Louis Cardinals to Orange, Tex.

KNOW PLANS.

The only eastern clubs, whose plans are known are the Giants and the Boston Red Sox. McGraw's men will return to San Antonio, Tex., and the Red Sox will train at Hot Springs, the scene of training for most Boston American clubs of recent years. Connie Mack will not return to Lake Charles, La., but will condition his men somewhere along the eastern seaboard. The Washington club is expected to return to Tampa, but nothing has been heard officially. The Yankee camp will be announced this week.

Nothing has been heard as to the training plans of the Phillies. As for the Braves and Robins it is known that both are to move eastward, with the final destination somewhat in doubt. The Braves will not go back to Galveston, Tex., but will train instead at Macon, Ga., or in Florida. The Robins will pass up New Orleans and probably will train at Miami or some other Florida city.

BEARS SHOULD HAVE BATTLE.

the ball to midfield and the Westerners did not know what to expect next. After one play, however, W. & J. was penalized for holding and Erenkert kicked over the goal line on the fourth down.

This gave Detroit the ball on her own 20-yard line and paved the way for the first score. Umpire Moffatt detected holding in the Red and White line and the ball was put on the 5-yard line. Sonnenberk tried to punt, but Kopf—Larry Kopf's kid brother—broke through and blocked the ball. Stein fell on it on the 4-inch line for first down. Banista carried it over for a touchdown on the first play.

That score, which came after four minutes of play, put Detroit on the defensive and they kept on battling against odds until the end.

Poor passing by Crook, the W. & J. center, gave Detroit a safety in the second period. Brenkert was forced to jump in the air to get the ball, and was downed behind his goal line.

Erickson, the flashy halfback, was playing a great game, but could not get loose for any long runs. Several times he was downed when he seemed to have a clear field when the interferers failed to take out Fitzgerald. Before the half ended however, the star back ran sixty-five yards through a broken field for a touchdown.

BEAUTIFUL DASH.

It was one of the prettiest runs we have seen this year. Starting around left end Erickson passed the scrimmage line and traveled down the field about two yards from the sideline. Once he made a motion to dodge the end and drew him in close, where he was taken out by one of the interferers. Then, showing a wonderful change of pace, slowing up suddenly and coming back with a burst of speed, he evaded the remaining tacklers and planted the ball behind the goal line.

Much has been written about work of Erickson and he deserves all of it. He ranks with the best in the East, and it is doubtful if he has any superior in the West. The reason he has not gained more recognition is because few of the critics have seen him in action. The same goes for Stein, the captain. This young man plays tackle or end as well as any one. In addition to that, he gives the signals and is a great field general.

Washington and Jefferson has a well-balanced team, plays sensible football, has a good line attack and the defense is strong. California should have a hard time in winning from this eleven—if it wins.

TY COBB'S SEALS PLAY TIGERS TODAY.

Ty Cobb's Seals will take on Vernon this afternoon at Washington Park in the last week's play of the Winter League. It looks very much as if Vernon and Harry Heilman's Missions will play the best two out of three games here for the $2000 bonus. The first game will be played next Saturday and a double-header will be staged Sunday afternoon.

GIBBONS WINS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 5.—Mike Gibbons, St. Paul middleweight, was given the referee's decision over Augie Ratner of New York, in a twelve-round bout here tonight.

GATES TIRES

The Tire with the Wider and Thicker Tread

How Clear This Matter Is!—

Of two steel bars, equally tough, you can more readily file down the narrower one.

Exactly the same with tires. The wider the tread, the longer and harder must be the road grinding to wear it down.

That is the very simple reason why Gates Super-Tread Tires are built with a tread that is wider as well as thicker.

And 200,000 users will tell you that this Super-Tread has a lot more miles in it.

Good News for Golfers

It is with pleasure that we take the lead in the reduction of the price on golf balls. The United States Government, through its recent elimination of the 10 per cent tax on golf, effective January 1st, has contributed towards this.

We shall make even further reductions:

Our best golf balls will be reduced from $1.00 each to 75 cents each, available on January 1st.

Spalding Golfs Balls during 1921 made an unparalleled record, winning practically every important tournament in the United States, Britain and France.

We shall furnish to the golfers of America new golf balls for 1922 which are superior in every way to any ever produced by us, with particular emphasis placed on Durability.

Our golf balls for the coming year will be formally announced in January.

Amon Bronson, recently assigned to supreme command of all Navy submarine forces in the Pacific under the reorganization of that branch of the naval service, has taken up his quarters aboard the U.S.S. Camden, mother ship of the Pacific Fleet submarine force. Capt. W. R. Miller, former commander of the Camden and the submarine flotilla, and now executive head of the submarine base under Capt. Bronson, has gone to San Diego to take the examinations for permanent rank as captain in the Navy. During his absence Lieut.-Commander M. P. Pierce, executive officer at the submarine base, is in command of the base.

FLEET NEWSPAPERS STOP PUBLICATION.

PRINTING OF GUNNERY RECORDS RUMORED TO HAVE CAUSED SUSPENSION.

Orders have been received from the Navy Department suspending the publication of all the breezy little ships' newspapers that have added to the information and pleasure of the men of the Pacific fleet. Edited by the ships' chaplains and contributed to by officers and men alike, the papers have gained a wide circulation among the enlisted personnel of the Navy and among families of enlisted men ashore.

Practically every ship in the fleet, with the exception of the flagship New Mexico, has been issuing a paper, either daily or weekly, and it is rumored the order to suspend their publication is due to indiscretions on the part of certain editors who published items pertaining to the achievements of ships' gunners at target practice. While it has been permissible to give out information pertaining to the relative standing of the ships of the fleet at gunnery practice detailed accounts of the hits and misses of the individual ship have been taboo.

Such an account was published in a recent issue of the Oklahoma's 'Sea Bag,' with the result that the commanding officer of the ship sent out a circular letter covering the entire mailing list, requesting that the copies of the issue either be returned to the ship at once or destroyed.

Some officers and men in the fleet scoff at the report that indiscretions on the part of editors caused the suspension order. They declare the order is the direct result of the Navy Department's recently adopted economy program and in support of this point out that the department has abolished the publication of the quarterly Navy Directory, a 300-page book showing the location of every ship and officer in the navy and that orders have been issued prohibiting the printing of the ships' rosters of officers. These latter have been printed aboard each ship every every three months.

Whittaker; adjutant, Benjamin Bogardus; sergeant-at-arms, Warren Hilt; members of the house committee, A. W. Smith and E. J. Sullivan.

The post voted to spend $200 in providing a Christmas celebration for disabled soldiers who are being treated at Barlow and Thorncroft sanatoriums.

FARMER PROSTRATE. DECLARES GOVERNOR.

SHOULD BE ENCOURAGED TO BORROW MONEY, SAYS McKELVIE.

CHARLESTON (S. C.) Dec. 5.—The effect of the post-bellum deflation process has been to lay the farmer prostrate, Gov. McKelvie of Nebraska, said night in an address before the House of Governors. The farmer should be encouraged, he asserted, to borrow money for his needs, and a system of agriculture credits should be designed to remove the disability presented by his lack of liquid assets.

F. H. Newell of the Federal Reclamation Service asked the interest of the governors in legislation looking to reclamation of lands in various parts of the Union, for the purpose of giving men an opportunity of owning land. He declared farms should be looked on as producers of men rather than of wealth.

REVIEWS.

"APHRODITE."

ALEXANDRIAN REVEL FLOURISHES AT AUDITORIUM.

By Edwin Schallert.

The Sahara may be dry, but—Alexandria was a great old place. If you don't believe it take a long look at "Aphrodite" this week at the Auditorium. You may scoff, if you like, and smile a lot, too, at the "manners of ancient Egypt," but I'll be willing to take a chance that you'll get some kind of a thrill, even if it's only due to the chap who sings the Caruso note, or the girl who rides by on the camel.

If bulk counts, the "Aphrodite" is a great show; if beauty counts it is a fair show; and if boisterous talk, Bacchanalian revelry and occasionally seductive tunes count then it is a more than passable show. It couldn't be a knock-out in all three respects because it is too far away from New York. But it does get over an awful lot that was never learnt in a Sunday-school text-book, believe me.

Where, oh where, were the censors when "Aphrodite" cut loose? They must have had a hard day with the movies, for the only shears that ever deleted anything from this show were the costumers, and they stopped at nothing, or right next to it.

No longer need the tired business man wail, or the Johnny rail for lack of entertainment. "Aphrodite" has much more to show than the old-time musical comedy. It's light on the mind and low in the waist line, and beside it the monkey-gland treatment is a homeopathic injection.

The lines of the piece are hectic. In fact, they're insistently erotic. Voluptuous phrases of love are peddled like oranges. The temples and palaces of amorous emotion are as thick as gasoline stations. Everybody entertains lavishly with wine, woman and song. It is a wild, wicked party from start to finish, and if it happened in Hollywood or San Francisco instead of Alexandria everybody would be in jail.

But the historic perspective, the gilded pageantry, the witchcraft of lighting, the theme of art triumphing over luxury, take a lot of the sting out of the mad debauch of words, music and physical allurements which constitute the meretricious trappings of the spectacular Babylonian affair. After the whole thing is over you feel as if you had taken a large dose of poison and an equally large antidote.

Because of its bulk, "Aphrodite" is slow to get moving. It stalls along through a morass of verbiage in the first act. The talk is incessantly of the flesh and its cravings and desires. It is wretched stuff except for its glitter. But that glitter is a gilt of exotic words for which Pierre Louys who wrote the original novel and Pierre Frondaie and George C. Hazleton are probably responsible. Much of the gilt, however, does not bear close scrutiny as to its literary quality.

The audience was obviously bored by the declamations of this part of the show. The interest was lax until the song of Alexandria, given by Martin Befel, which provided the first outstanding hit of the performance. The procession of dancing girls and magnificently caparisoned camels which accompanied enhanced as a rich picture. The applause here showed some signs of an awakening. The impression gained vividly from this point, as the spectacle increased in splendors. The Feast of Bacchys was a triumph of choreography for which the genius of Fokine was responsible.

One figure among the performers stands out in the memory beyond all others. I use the word figure advisedly, too—for that is probably the chief allure of Olga Krolow in the role of Chrysis. Her portrayal is a peculiarly infectious, however, because it is so free from guile. She appears as a remarkably voluptuous seductress and rival to Venus in the story.

Demetrios, her victim, is interpreted with high-sounding enthusiasm by Frederick Macklyn, who is apparently shackled by his adherence to the traditions of the extravaganza. Still his portrayal is good in its general sweep.

There are many other characters, and mention of a number might be made. There are weak spots in the casting, notably the Queen of Egypt and one or two others, but the quality as a whole is good, although the freshness of the performance is tempered by its distance from the base, which is New York. Still it is on a par with productions of this type that come to the Coast—if not better.

The music by Henri Fevrier and Anselm Goetzl is not especially striking, but there is plenty of it and it is well directed by Louis Koemmenich.

BILL HART SPARES NARY A REDSKIN.

Help! Help! Where are thou, Nick Carter, where art thou? And another redskin bit the dust!

All of which exclamatory enthusiasm—if you may call it such—is brought on by a view of William S. Hart's "White Oak," which is spreading its shadows on the screen at Grauman's Theater. It isn't a shady feature—oh no. Unless you want to take exception to a few gambling scenes, a few shooting scrapes over women, and all the good old stock-in-trade of the Western. All of which passes, because it has a long celluloidal tradition to guarantee it safety.

But, ye gods, it takes a strong digestion to stomach all the hokum that Mr. Hart cooks up to make his feature thrilling! Woof! That dog who gallops to an unknown destination to effect the heroine's rescue from an attack by Indians; Oak Miller's quick answer to the call and his escape from prison by digging out the bricks; his single-handed battle against the red-skinned villains and the white!

Well, if you don't examine into the plausibilities too closely you may like "White Oak," at least, the last part of it, but the first is draggy and dreary and drab—and far away from Hart's best vein of picture making. Its action is spasmodic, and its plot machinery creaky. There is evident in the whole an effort on the part of the star to get away from the convention of chaps and sombrero that is not particularly successful.

Vola Vale, Alexander Garden, Bert Sprotte, Robert Walker, Hellen Holly and Chief Standing Bear are in the supporting cast.

On the program are song selections by William F. Myers, a grand opera tabloid, and various other musical novelties and short films.

FLASHES.

BLACK-FACE ARTISTS.

AVEY AND WEST OFFER ACT THAT'S CLASSIC.

By Grace Kingsley.

There's nothing about this week's Orpheum bill to make you sit right down and write home about, even if you were writing to a great uncle and were hard up for a subject. Nevertheless you'll get an average amount of enjoyment out of it all, even if you get no crick in the neck looking up.

Sadie Burt and George Whiting are real artists, and they delight again this week in some new numbers, particularly Whiting's dime museum ballyhoo.

Gliding off with the noise returns, Avey and West strike the hit pace right off the bat with their classic crap game. Some of their talk isn't so new, but their dancing is a jay forever. A rag-doll eccentric number by one of them, I don't know which, cripples the bullseye, and their burlesque duet dance, one as a girl, tops it.

Those pointless girly-girl reeves are a dead loss so far as I'm concerned, though perhaps the men in the audience get a little kick out of the feminine leg so to speak. On the other hand, being feminine myself, I can perhaps review them more calmly and unimpassionedly than a man could. Two girl acts appear on this week's bill. One of them is Corinne Tilton's "Chameleon Revue," in which there is some commonplace singing and dancing. Miss Tilton has personality and expressiveness and dances nicely, but she works too hard, mugs too much, and her material doesn't seem to suit her.

The other girl act is presented by Maurice Diamond and Helen McMahon, and is called "Snapshots of 1922." The shots don't make much noise and there isn't much reason for it all except the exceptionally pretty and chic blond girl, who I suppose is Miss McMahon. She dances very well indeed and her personality and beauty wins everybody from garret to pit.

Billy Arlington has a good old vaudeville act, full of hokum, but laughable, while the music of his quartett is pleasing. He ough to cut his own giggles, however, as they spoil his comedy points, and are old stuff. Nobody on the stage nowadays is supposed to know himself, that he's funny. There's more fun in this act through Arlington's likable personality and sure-fire burlesque stuff, however, than in a lot of so-called high-class acts.

You're due for a lolt at the end of William Ebs's ventriloquial act, but you're going to enjoy it as it goes along, too. Kara starts the bill off with his famous old eccentric juggling act; Ed Morton sings some old songs in a nice voice, and Howard Anderson and Real Graves remain in "Living On Air."

Marguerite Marsh to Star.

We'll soon get them all out here, and it looks as though there were going to be far more than a quorum of film artists present here this winter.

The newest arrival is Marguerite Marsh, sister of Mae Marsh, who has come to the Coast to co-star with Harry McCoy, erstwhile Sennett comedian, in a series of two-reel domestic comedies called "The Dumb-Bells." The producer of the Marsh-McCoy pictures is Will Morrissey, who is making the comedies for Pantages.

"The Dumb-Bells" concerns the adventures of a young married pair, in housekeeping, and promises to be entertaining.

Beside his picture venture, Morrissey is also to produce some musical comedies at the Broadway Pantages Theater, according to present reports. He has been touring the Pantages circuit, but concludes his engagement at San Diego this week.

Mary MacLaren Engaged.

Mary MacLaren, the charming young actress, has been signed up to play opposite Wallace Reid in his present Paramount feature, "Across the Continent" by Byron Morgan, which Philip Rosen will direct.

Rex Ingram Returns.

Rex Ingram and twenty members of his company have returned to the Metro studios in Hollywood after spending a week in the San Bernardino mountains filming the exteriors for "The Prisoner of Zenda." While at Big Bear, the company was caught in the first snowstorm of the year.

Enlarge Gamut Program.

Several musicians have been added to the previously-announced program for the Gamut Club musical event and dinner Wednesday night. Charles C. Draa, chairman of the program committee has invited Frederica Bodino and Mrs. R. Wagner of the Danish Opera Company to attend, and they will give several selections. Ann Thompson will act as accompanist for the evening.

In Stellar Role Again.

After being a member of the featured cast in Cecil B. De Mille's production "Fool's Paradise," and headlined in George Melford's special, "Moran of the Lady Letty," Dorothy Dalton has re-embarked on her stellar career at the Paramount west coast studio in "Tharon of Lost Valley." The picture had a western setting and the story is the virile kind like those in which Miss Dalton has achieved success heretofore. She plays the role of the daughter of a "good-bad man," a girl with the courage and nerve of a man yet all the instinctive traits of a woman. Paul Powell is directing.

Lesser Returns.

Upon his arrival from the East today Sol Lesser, vice-president of the West Coast Theaters, Inc., will be extended a welcome by a committee of more than fifty managers and executives of the organization, it is announced. Among those who will be present at the station are M. Gore, A. L. Gore, Adolph Ramish, and Harry C. Arthur, Jr. Jackie Coogan, the child star, will also be on hand. During his stay in the East Mr. Lesser closed a deal for the distribution of "My Boy," the Coogan starring picture.

"Mysterious Rider" Stays.

"The Mysterious Rider," a melodrama of the West, in which considerable fighting interest develops, is now showing in its second week at the Symphony Theater. The principal roles are played by Robert McKim, Claire Adams, Carl Gantvoort and others. The most striking bit of action is a hand-to-hand scrap in a creek.

Mabel Ballin,

Who may shortly join the film hegira westward. She is at present appearing in the picture, "Luxury Tax," directed by her husband, Hugo Ballin, in the East.

Broadest Liar Hero of Feature.

Based on the fact well known to psychologists, that a man may have two personalities, one of which will be a colossal liar and the other quite incapable of falsehood, "Garments of Truth," the Metro picture, starring Gareth Hughes, which is showing this week at Loew's State Theater, proceeds to weave out of this slight material an amazing but amusing series of situations.

The hero is a young man who has almost driven a small town crazy with the products of his overwrought imagination, and is about to be sent to a reform school on account of his latest prank. An eminent psychologist is called in, however, and in two weeks young Lester Crope has been changed into a person who cannot lie even if he wishes to.

On his return home, his new propensity for truth is found even more disconcerting than his lying. There is much broad satire of small-town politics. Everything comes out all right in the end, and, of course, he wins the girl, who is played by Ethel Grandin.

The vaudeville bill is rather flat. Morrissey and Young's burlesque Apache dance is something you must laugh at; Walter Baker does several old sleight-of-hand tricks in a new way, and the De Pierre Trio have one novelty in equilibration, plus a dog with a strong neck.

Barnes and Lorraine tell most of the old jokes, and if the Meryl Prince girls can sing, they show very slender evidence of it. During these two acts, it was a great comfort to be allowed to smoke.

BROADWAY "PAN" IS CLOSED FOR REPAIRS.

After a successful engagement of sixteen months, Pantages Broadway Theater is closed for several weeks, while extensive remodeling and redecorating plans are carried out. Many architectural changes will be made all of which will add to the comfort and convenience of patrons. And everything is being freshened up from ceiling to basement.

Alexander Pantages is said to be planning an entirely new type of amusement for the theater's reopening, but the exact nature of these plans have not yet been disclosed. But from the few minor details which have leaked out, it may be inferred that, whatever the programs are, they will be the last word in up-to-dateness and novelty.

RUBINI TO BUILD THEATER.

Jan Rubini, violin virtuoso, who is playing special numbers in conjunction with "Don't Tell Everything" as part of the anniversary week celebration at Grauman's Rialto Theater, is conferring with architects relative to the construction of a miniature theater on the grounds of his newly built home, 934 Third avenue. Construction of the theater, which will be for the private use of Rubini and his friends, will be started following the house-warming, which he will hold next Tuesday evening. Among the guests invited to this house-warming are Sid Grauman, Charlie Chaplin, Leopold Godowsky, Gregor Cherniawski, Herbert Burland and a number of the other musically and theatrically prominent.

NEW SETS AT BURBANK.

Running true to form, and gaining impetus with each week, the Hi Jinks Revue Company at the Burbank Theater are presenting another musical extravaganza, which has all the pep of the previous one—plus some new features in the way of setting and costume. With Al Bridge as chief laugh-dispenser, and a chorus of beauties to second his efforts, the show goes over at high speed with the devotees of girl-and-music entertainment. It is noticeable, however, that the Burbank sticks to its policy of not resorting to "rough stuff" to heighten effect, and anyone who likes light music and a bit of color may safely attend.

"Don't Tell Everything."

"Don't Tell Everything" manages to keep the public pleasantly advised at Grauman's Rialto Theater, where it has entered its second week.

A sort of step-child to the "Affairs of Anatol" this picture groups Wallace Reid, Gloria Swanson and Elliott Dexter as its stars.

"Othello" is Damaged by Uneven Cast.

In the portrayal of strong natures fallen a prey of contending passions as violent as themselves Robert Mantell's spark of genius unquestionably burns brightest. In these partsJas Macbeth Friday night and Othello last night—he most fully rounds out the skeleton of the thought with flesh and blood, most completely illuminates with the fiery interpretation the subleties of the action.

Mr. Mantell's Othello was a thing of amazing vividness. The conflict between excessive love and excessive jealousy. The big and generous nature; the madness of that nature when touched with suspicion, and its utter incapacity to cope with life in any other way than by loving it or smashing it—these are the tragedy of Shakespeare's invention, and these the veteran actor set forth to the life.

In the feminine and pathetic part of Desdemona, Miss Hamper was at her best, and her best is very appealing indeed. Her touching little mannerisms; her timid overtures to her lord and master, when her intuition tells her that something is wrong, but not what it is; and her final tragic appeal to his mercy, were exquisitely done.

The grace of her gestures and the quality of her voice showed to the utmost by contrast with the headlong rage of her murderer. Her intetrpretation was at all points delicate and intuitive to a rare degree.

For Vaughan Deering's Iago much cannot be said. Iago is one of the meatiest parts in Shakespeare; he is at once the subtlest and the most devilish villains. One must admire even while one loathes him. But Mr. Deering played Iago with a strut and a smirk, making of him a villain of melodrama whom it was impossible to admire, and worse still heard to dislike. It was difficult to imagine anyone taken in by him, and as the whole action of the play depends upon this illusion, the production was done, irreparable damage.

Particularly notable among the other characters were Edward Lewers as Roderigo, John Alexander as Casio, and Agnes Elliot Scott as Emilia, the wife of Iago.

Sheriff of Hicksville is Favorite.

With a fiddle, a sheriff's badge, a squeaky voice and a pair of last year's socks, Charles Althoff puts on a comedy pantomime act at Pantages this week, which seems to be the general favorite of the bill.

"Thirty Pink Toes" is a close competitor in the field of amusing foolery, and the toes are all there as advertised. But there is an element of mystery about this act which it would be a shame to give away, so it must suffice to say that the fun is as visible as the toes.

John R. Gordon and Company in "Meatless Days" present a pleasant novelty—a sketch of two musicians starving in the city, who eventually find a fortune tucked away in a violin. This improves the music as well as the bill-of-fare. Green and Dunbar in a "nut" act take the place of Harry Busey, and locate the funny bone without much trouble.

Marguerite and Alvares offer a run of fast balancing and acrobatics, followed by iron-jaw work on the trapeze—difficult, if not exactly new. Jones and Sylvester bring a number of popular ballads, and some cross-fire dialogue that reaches all over the house.

The picture is "Room and Board," starring Constance Binney—five reels of romance, with settings that are really Irish. An earl's daughter, forced to rent her castle and masquerade as a servant, furnishes the point of departure. Tom Carrigan, as the young American, then arrives, and the result is what you were all expecting. A clean, wholesome story, well acted and cut.

"ONE NIGHT" HOLDS OVER FOR SEVERAL.

Bringing the outlandish splendor and color of the Arabian Nights entertainments to the screen, Pola Negri continues to charm and dazzle at the Kinema Theater, where her latest picture, "One Arabian Night," has been held over until next Friday evening.

Playing the part of a dancing desert sprite, passionate and capricious as the sandstorms of her native land, Miss Negri brings men to her feet, and fills the entire production with a more than oriental beauty. And the action moves forward smoothly, developing new interest with each new scene.

In conjunction with this production, the Kinema is presenting an elaborate prologue, and the Kinema orchestra, under the direction of Rene Williams, offers an all-oriental musical accompaniment.

FUN AND ROMANCE ARE POPULAR BLEND.

Combining comedy with strong drama and heart interest, the Alhambra Theater's double bill offers one a chance to see "The Idle Class" with Charlie Chaplin, and "The Heart of the North" with Roy Stewart and Louise Lovely, at one and the same time.

The splendid photography and emotional acting of "Heart of the North" place this new romance of the wilderness on a high plane. And, of course, Charlie Chaplin is Charlie Chaplin. If fun and romance are really the two things picture-goers like best, this program at the Alhambra should be very near to ideal.

REVEALS PERIL IN POWER ACT.

Electric Club Speaker Sees Shadow of Soviet.

Warns of Huge Tax Burden Facing Citizens.

Assails State Plan to "Butt in" on Business.

The proposed Water and Power Act to be voted upon next November was likened to the four horsemen of the Apocalypse by John A. Britton, vice-president and general manager of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company of San Francisco, speaking yesterday at the luncheon of the Electric Club at the Alexandria.

"There are four distinct menaces to the prosperity of the State in that act," Mr. Britton said in explanation. Describing the first menace, Mr. Britton said:

"It sets up a supergovernment by constitutional amendment which will owe its responsibility to no one, being without legislative control.

MENACE TO PEOPLE.

"The second menace imposes presently a tax upon the people of the State of California, and gives the commission appointed under the act the right to command the administrative bodies of the State to levy and collect taxes from the people to meet the interest and principal of the bonds to be issued under the act, these bonds totaling $500,000,000, which become a mortgage upon the State immediately the act is passed, and every taxpayer in the State of California thereby becomes an indorser and guarantor of the notes of the State of California irrespective of the fact whether any of the moneys to be spent under this act are spent in his or her territory.

"The third gives unlimited authority to the commission to appoint any number of employees and to fix their compensation.

"The fourth menace 'sovietizes' and 'North Dakotaizes' the State by giving the commission full authority to do all things needful or necessary to carry out the provisions of the act such as to acquire, produce, manufacture or otherwise provide facilities materials and supplies, raw or finished and any property or thing necessary or convenient to the accomplishment of the purposes of the act.

SOVIET INFLUENCE.

"In this fourth item one can imagine the building up of a soviet government in this State which would control copper mines, build factories, and become an agent not for the building up of the State but, as happened in North Dakota, a virtual bankrupting of the State.

"It might well be asked—do the people of California want this burden of uncertain and unnameable taxation to be visited upon them? Today the State contributes more than $1,000,000 a day in taxation—between $92 and $84 for every man, woman and child in the State. A reasoning mind can see no limitation to the possibilities of adding to this already great burden through the entrance of the State into a business which belongs to private capital and which belongs to such private capital because it has proven in the past decade that through its efforts it has been able to bring the State industrially and agriculturally to the proud position which it occupies."

NEW MANAGEMENT TO REOPEN CAFE SOON.

The acquisition of the lease and equipment of the Marchetti Roma Cafe, at 616 South Hill street, by a group of well-known cafe men, consisting of officials of the Sunset Inn, Santa Monica, and the Winter Garden of this city, has just been announced. Upon completion of the extensive alterations and redecorating, which are already under way, the former Roma will make its bow as the Palais Royal. The opening date will be announced in the near future. The cafe will be under the personal management and supervision of Mike Lyman and V. B. (Blondy) Clark.

CHARGED WITH CAR THEFT.

Dan Daley, accused in a complaint issued yesterday of the theft of a $4000 automobile from R. T. Burge, ex-Police Commissioner, was arraigned in Justice Hanby's court. Hearing was set for Thursday, and bail was fixed at $5000.

URGES SUPPORT OF TOWNER BILL

Illiteracy in This Country Scored by R. E. Blight.

Woman's City Club Members Hear Arguments.

Federal Education Bureau Held Necessity.

BY MYRA NYE.

A dreadnaught cost the American people $45,000,000 to build and $35,000,000 more to equip, man and maintain. If this sum were expended in the maintaining of a Federal Department of Education, as provided for by the Towner-Sterling Bill, the two great problems of the nation would be solved at one time: the problems of illiteracy and disarmament.

Reynold E. Blight, speaking yesterday before the Woman's City Club inaugurated the educational week campaign by presenting forcible arguments in favor of the bill which will come before Congress at the next session for vote of the people if they show themselves sufficiently interested. To manifest this interest Mr. Blight suggested that members of the club write Walter F. Brown, Washington, D. C., in behalf of its passage.

"The expenditure for education will be the best possible national defense," said Mr. Blight. "Illiteracy in this country now is shocking and appalling. The United States stands ninth in the list of civilized nations as to literacy and it should stand at the very top.

"At the present time we have no means of national representation in world educational matters. This bill would provide for it. Such a bureau as proposed would combat illiteracy as no other agency could do. Last year in the mines 1000 lives were lost that might have been saved had the workers known how to read the danger signs, and the loss in property was $325,000,000, due entirely to lack of knowledge.

"This is not a Southern problem as so many contend, nor a Negro problem. It is a national one. We are not a loose confederacy of States but one great nation welded together by patriotism, with common interests, common needs and common hopes. We in California may suffer tremendously because of the illiterate vote in Alabama, in Arkansas, in the New York slums. Any one of these places may hold the balance of power in a national election and put in the White House as our chief executive, or in other places of power, a man whose influence would harm the country. To my mind the one great problem of the day is illiteracy. If this were solved, the solution of the others would follow. This Towner-Sterling Bill goes a long way toward the solution.

A speaker was scheduled to speak on the other side of the question against the bill, but none could be found willing to voice opposition in public.

Mrs. J. B. Stearns, president of the club, voiced messages from Senators Shortridge, Johnson and Congressman Lineberger, sent directly to the club, congratulating them upon their growth and prosperity, 400 members having been added in the last two months. Mrs. Stearns announced the tentative promise of Senator Johnson to speak before the club either the 12th or 19th instant.

THE EBELL CLUB.

"If the average ex-service man would work as hard as he demonstrated he could fight there would be a great deal more unemployment among the the stay-at-homes" is a statement recently made which the ex-service man is not sure whether he should resent or accept as his due meed of praise. But whatever the intent of the statement, it was demonstrated yesterday at the Ebell Club that the disabled veterans of the World War who are being trained as musicians can play the violin and the piano with the same dash and vigor as they bowled over Germans in the Toul Sector.

The entire program was devoted to a consideration of the soldier problems. K. J. Scudder, subdistrict manager of the United States Veterans' Bureau, spoke on "What the Government is Doing for Disabled Soldiers." The musical portion of the program was given by those disabled veterans in training under the direction of the bureau.

Thomas F. Coogan, violinist, rendered "Hegri Kati," "Scene from the Czarda," by Jeno Hubay and "Gavotte," by Gassec. Max E. Brakerfield, vocal soloist, sang "Calm as the Night," by Bohm, and "The Afternoon," by Cox.

Mrs. Charles H. Toll, president of the club, paid a fine tribute to Mrs. Matthew Robertson, her predecessor as executive, who passed away last Thursday. She read a telegram of condolence from the San Diego State Exposition committee, of which Mrs. Robertson was a valued member during the year of the two State expositions in California. The resolutions of sympathy from the club to the bereaved family were also read.

League of American Penwomen.

The show business began in the dawn of creation when the serpent appeared in the Garden of Eden and the first beginning of the eternal triangle, the basis for all plays, was observed. Noah was the first circus man and his show of animals has never been surpassed.

Samson was the strong man in a side show, but he got trimmed by a chorus girl named Delilah and later "brought down the house" when he played tragedy. David was a great song writer and Daniel, the spectacular lion tamer, and there has been many a Jonah in the show business which even a whale of an audience couldn't swallow.

These and a few other historical and scriptural observances regarding the show business were set forth by William Hamilton Cline, speaking after the luncheon of the League of American Penwomen presided over by the president, Mrs. Bertha Lincoln Heustis yesterday at the Men's City Clubrooms.

Others who appeared upon the program and were guests of honor included Elmer H. Tucker, who spoke on the "Banks and the Motion Pictures;" Mrs. Emma L. Reed, vice-president of the center, who has recently returned from Honolulu; Mrs. Georgina Townsend, president of the Woman's Press Club, who was one of the few women speakers at the World Press Congress in Honolulu, and Mr. Frederick Palmer, who spoke on the subject of "Scenario Writing."

Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A Kirkman

The following menus for a week are suitable for children over three years of age. They are well balanced and delicious:

Sunday: Breakfast, orange, hot cereal, poached egg on toast, glass of milk. Dinner, chicken or leg of lamb, mashed potato, spinach, hot "Brown Betty" pudding with hard sauce. Supper, hot grapenuts dish, apple sauce, glass of milk. (recipe given below for this dish.)

Monday: Breakfast, hot cereal, muffins, stewed prunes, glass of milk (the stewed prunes, being rich in protein, may take the place of an egg now and then.) Dinner, cold left-over chicken or lamb, boiled potatoes, cauliflower steamed date pudding. Supper, baked hot cornmeal mush cakes with maple sirup (to make these, boil cornmeal mush, pour it into cup-cake tins to cool and mold, then bake these molds till brown. This takes the place of fried cornmeal mush; for, fried foods are not good for children).

Tuesday: Breakfast, pear, hot cereal, soft-boiled egg, milk. Dinner, lamb chop, baked potato, canned peas creamed, gelatine dessert. Supper, boiled rice served hot with milk and sugar. Cookies.

Wednesday: Breakfast, orange, hot cereal, toast with peanut butter, glass of milk (the peanut butter is also rich in protein and may take the place of an egg occasionally.) Dinner, vegetable milk chowder (simply boil potatoes, onions, carrots and cabbage, diced, in seasoned hot milk till tender, then thicken slightly with a little flour,) bread and butter, prune whip. Supper, split pea soup, wholewheat bread and butter, cocoa, cookies.

Thursday: Breakfast, hot cereal, poached egg on toast, glass of milk, apple. Dinner, lamb chop, baked potato, squash, baked apple with top-milk. Supper, cornmeal mush with milk and sugar, preserves, muffins.

Friday: Breakfast, hot cereal, stewed prunes, pop overs, glass of milk. Dinner, baked fresh fish, boiled potatoes, creamed canned string beans, bread pudding. Supper, cream cheese or peanut butter sandwiches, cocoa, preserves.

Saturday: Breakfast, hot cereal, soft-boiled egg, jam on toast, glass of milk. Dinner, beef loaf, sweet potatoes baked, beets, custard pudding. Supper, baked rice and tomato dish, glass of milk, stewed sweetened raisins molded and served with mock whipped cream.

Of course the housekeeper-mother can make changes in this set of menus. For instance, if her child is very active and seems to need even more than these nourishing meals will give him, she may add soups to the dinners. If you have dinner at night and a lunch at noon, just change the menus about, naming the suppers "luncheon." These meals may be eaten by the entire family—grown people as well as children—with benefit.

The grapenut dish mentioned above, is made by adding 1 cup of uncooked grapenuts to a pudding dish in which you have put 1 quart of milk, ¼ cup of sugar and a pinch of salt. An egg may be added if desired, but is not necessary to the deliciousness of the dish. Or less sugar may be added if it is desired to have it only slightly sweet. Bake this dish for an hour in a moderate oven and serve either hot or cold.

The steamed date pudding recipe I will be glad to send to any reader upon receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

[All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department, will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received, so if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be inclosed with the question.—The Editor.]

SOCIETY.

BY VIRGINIA WOODS.

The Dohenys Returning.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Laurence Doheny and Mr. and Mrs. Doheny, Jr., are expected home for the Christmas holidays. The younger Dohenys will be here next week to spend Christmas with their children. The return of the elder Dohenys depends somewhat on how well Mrs. Doheny is feeling—she having broken her foot a few weeks ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Guasti on Way Here.

Mr. and Mrs. Secondo Guasti, who have been touring Europe since last spring, are now in New York, and will return to Los Angeles in time for Christmas. Mrs. Guasti's niece, Mrs. A. A. Normandin, will meet them in the East and return home with them. Mr. and Mrs. Guasti visited Italy, France, Switzerland, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Norway, Sweden and Denmark, and were entertained in some of the great castles of Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. McGinnis.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix S. McGinnis of West Twenty-fifth street, are to entertain at a family dinner party on Christmas Day for a company of eighteen, including Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leonardt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Powell and Mr. McGinnis.

Mrs. Cheney Leaving.

Mrs. Albert Llewellyn Cheney will leave on Thursday for Washington, D. C., where she will spend the Christmas holidays with her young daughter, Miss Catherine Cheney, who is at Mt. Vernon Seminary. They will be house guests for a while of Mrs. Harry Coburn Turner, formerly of this city, and her daughter, Miss Lucia Frances Turner, who is also at Mt. Vernon Seminary. Later they will go to New York. Mrs. Cheney expects to be gone a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Connell Returning.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Connell, who went to New York with their niece, Miss Marjorie Welsh, who is to spend the winter there, are to return on Thursday.

By Mrs. Bishop.

Mrs. William T. Bishop of West Adams street was hostess Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Mead and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Bishop of Beverly Hills, who are leaving this week for New York. Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, go to be with their son, Roland Bishop, Jr., who is in college in the East.

Card Party and Dance.

Mrs. I. C. Ratterree is to entertain a company at the car party and dance to be held Friday evening in Cocoanut Grove, at the Ambassador, by the Choral Club of St. Paul's parish. Her guests will include Mmes. Theodore Armstrong, William Martin, Ralph Greer, J. F. McCarty, A. H. Ratterree, Harold Perkins, Alvies and Misses McGinley.

For Her Niece.

Mrs. Edward Quimby of Rampart Boulevard gave a handsomely appointed luncheon Saturday for her niece, Mrs. Francis Whitaker, who left Sunday with Mr. Whitaker for New York, whence they will sail the first of the year for twelve months' tour abroad.

Among the young married set at the luncheon were Mmes. Van Rensselaer Kelsey, Edward Franklin, George Steckel, Alexander, Leo Smith, Thomas Lee Woolwine, Harry Brooke, Albert Wilson, McDonald, Sylvian Noack, Van Rensselaer Plato, Leroy Wallace, McElroy, and Van R. Ivan. Mrs. Whitaker is a direct descendent of the old Van Rensselaer family.

Dr. Culver.

Dr. Edward Culver, noted surgeon of New York, is a visitor in Los Angeles at the home of William A. Clark, Jr. He will be here a month. He was with Mr. Clark in a party at the Marshal Foch luncheon at the Ambassador on Sunday.

Mrs. Thom's Luncheon.

The luncheon at which Mrs. Cameron Erskine Thom is to entertain in honor of Mrs. Allan C. Balch is to be on Thursday, at the Wilshire Country Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonardt.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leonardt are to give a family dinner party at their home in Chester Place on Christmas night.

Card Party.

Members of the Child Welfare League, of which Miss Carolina Winston is head, will give a card party on Friday at the home of Miss Marguerite Brunswig.

Back From Europe.

Herbert Adler, who has been studying finance in London is home for the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mel Adler.

Home From New York.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Eisner and daughter, Miss Menia Eisner of South Kingsley Drive, have returned from a month's visit in New York.

Dr. and Mrs. Hall.

Dr. and Mrs. Giles Hall gave a party Sunday evening.

At St. Stephen's Church.

Miss Janice Wilson of this city, and James Edward Bell of Mississippi, were married last evening in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church by Rev. L. Easby, in the presence of a large number of guests. After the ceremony, there was a reception and buffet supper at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew K. Wilson.

Saturday evening Miss Lois Wilson, sister of the bride, gave a dinner dance at the Ambassador, her guests being members of the bridal party, and including Mr. and Mrs. Oterro Harrison, Miss Ruth Graydon, Miss Annabel Ralphs, Miss Constance Wilson, Miss Thelma Hardwick, Messrs. William Meek, Glen Kneidig, L. Garret McHugh and Fred Ford.

LADIES' AND MISSES' DRESS.

The afternoon dress shown displays conservatively simple lines and is easy to make. A soft silk crepe, charmeuse or silk poplin may be used to good advantage. The waist forms a sash and ties over a gathered skirt.

The ladies' and misses' dress is cut in sizes 16, 18 years, 36 to 40 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards 36-inch material. Price 15 cents.

JACKIE FROM HOME.

The players form a circle, with one player, called Jackie, in the center. A ring—a small brass curtain ring will do—is slipped on a cord. The cord, which should be long enough to go around the circle, is then tied at the ends, and all the players take hold of it at the same time, passing the ring (the "flying machine") from one to another, backward and forward, while they dance around, singing the following words to a lively air:

Jackie from home has never been;
An airplane he's never seen;
He wants to see the flying machine
That speeds along the airway.

Jackie must try to guess who holds the ring, but as it is slipped so rapidly from one to another on the cord it is not easy for him to catch the holder on the instant. When he calls a name the player named opens his hands to prove that they are empty or show the ring, if it is still with him. In the latter case the player must take Jackie's place in the center and the former Jackie joins the circle.

This is a very old game. Once the lines were sung about "a coach and four" and "the highway;" later about "the steam machine" and the railway. Jackie, too, was called variously Sandy, Sammy or Paddy in different districts, and sometimes the verse ran this way: The ring is here, the ring is there; The ring is running from Paddy-may-care.

After-Dinner Tricks

No. 17.—A Disappearing Coin.

Paste a circular piece of paper to one edge of a napkin ring or a merry-go-round ring, and lay the ring on a sheet of the same kind of paper. The paper pasted to the ring will appear as part of the sheet.

Put a coin on the sheet of paper alongside of the ring. Cover the ring with the hand and lay it on top of the coin. When the hand is lifted, the coin has disappeared, being hidden by the paper inside the ring. To bring the coin back cover the ring again, and lift it off.

GOLDEN STATE WOOLEN MILLS
MANUFACTURERS OF
BLANKETS-ROBES-FLANNELS-SUITINGS-OVERCOATINGS
LONG BEACH, CALIFORNIA

October 31, 1921.

Messrs. Cass & Johansing,
837 Van Nuys Bldg.,
Los Angeles, Calif.

Gentlemen:——

We wish to express our appreciation of the very successful handling by you of our fire and profit insurance on our plant at Long Beach, which was destroyed by fire April 28th, 1921.

In the adjustment of the loss amounting to over four hundred thousand dollars, we found that your care in placing our insurance in reliable companies, the forms of our policies prepared by you, and your assistance in adjusting our loss with the 48 insurance companies resulted in two things:

First: The forms prepared by you precluded the companies from raising any technical objections.

Second: Your standing with the companies and resistance in adjusting our loss brought about a prompt and, to us, entirely satisfactory adjustment and the loss promptly paid to the full amount of the policies without our being put to any expense whatever.

It will be a pleasure to us to explain in detail to any one whom you may refer to us as to why we consider it to the great advantage of the assured to place his business through you.

Yours very truly,

GOLDEN STATE WOOLEN MILLS.

There is Strength in Every Tablet

One dose often helps commence to enrich your blood and revitalize your worn-out, exhausted system—Nuxated Iron is organic iron, like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach. It is so prepared that it will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach. It is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood while some physicians claim metallic iron which people usually take is, half disturbed at all. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two Nuxated Iron tablets three times per day, after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numerous cases are reported where people have increased their strength 100 per cent or more in two weeks' time. If you do not obtain entirely satisfactory results after using Nuxated Iron you should report to us at once. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they will refund your money if it does not make you strong and well as stated above. Nuxated Iron is sold by all druggists the world over at one dollar per package. If you prefer you can order it direct from the Nuxated Iron Laboratories, 1135 Nuxated Bldg., Detroit, Mich.—(Advertisement.

Reduce Your Fat Without Dieting

Now are the formula for fat reduction "Fat-a-lax Tablets." Today it is sold by druggists under the name "Marmola Prescription Tablets." Those fat obliterating tablets that your friends tell you that you eat substantial food, live without exercise steadily and still reduce your fat without exercise through long stress of starvation diet. Marmola Prescription Tablets are sold by all druggists the world over at one dollar for a package. If you prefer you can order direct from Marmola Company, 4412 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich.—(Advertisement.

DENIES APPEAL OF MRS. PEETE.

Court Given Notice of New Move for Woma.

Removal to Prison Now Up to Sheriff Traeger.

Judge Rules Law Followed in Denton Trial.

The petition for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Lola Louise Peete, who was convicted of the murder of Jacob Charles Denton, was denied by U. S. District Judge Bledsoe in an opinion handed down yesterday afternoon.

Notice of appeal from the judgment to the United States Circuit Court of Appeal was given, and the statement made that the appeal could be prosecuted even if the condemned woman is without funds. This is according to the usual rule.

Judge Bledsoe denied the request of her attorney, D. B. Chapin, that Mrs. Peete be kept in the County Jail and not removed to San Quentin to begin her life imprisonment term until the determination of the proposed appeal. This means that Sheriff Traeger shall decide when Mrs. Peete shall be taken north.

JUDGE'S OPINION.

In refusing the writ Judge Bledsoe stated that the only question to be determined is whether the statute providing for the service of a thirteenth juror in case one of the members of the regular panel becomes ill or otherwise incapacitated from completing the trial (as was the case in the Peete trial,) is in conflict with the Federal Constitution. This was because Judge Willis discharged Juror Ruddon on account of sickness, and ordered Juror Odell, the thirteenth juror, to take his place.

Judge Bledsoe stated that he is willing to go to any legal length to assist the condemned woman if he can find any warrant for such action, but he cannot. He declared that he does not believe Mrs. Peete has been deprived of "due process" of law in having her case submitted to the jury containing the thirteenth man.

The Supreme Court of the United States has decided a number of cases bearing on the present situation, indicating that the States have full control of the method of trying persons charged with criminal offenses so long as they were not deprived of their substantial rights—of being faced by the witnesses against them and being given the opportunity to be heard in their own defense.

POWER IN LEGISLATURE.

The California Legislature has full authority to determine the manner in which such hearings shall be conducted, so long as the defendant is not deprived of any right guaranteed by the Federal Constitution. The judge read a number of decisions fortifying his position.

When the case was called at the morning session of the court Judge Bledsoe began to announce his opinion, when Attorney Chaplin asked that he postpone pronouncing the final judgment until 2 p.m., as he had a long line of decisions bearing out his contention; that the California Legislature had violated the provisions of Section 1, Article XIV, of the Federal Constitution. He was allowed the additional time, but Judge Bledsoe said the authorities are not convincing, and have but little to do with the case.

Would Stop Handbilling on Streets.

Elmer E. Cole, Gilbert S. Wright and Charles Mann, members of a committee representing the Los Angeles Realty Board, appeared before the Public Safety Committee of the City Council yesterday afternoon and urged that the Council rigidly enforce Ordinance No. 16,449, which prohibits the distribution "to or among pedestrians along or upon any public street, of the city of Los Angeles of any handbill dodger or other notice of advertisement."

If this ordinance is enforced, the Realty Board members asserted, it will bring to an end the practice of certain real estate operators who distribute tickets entitling holders to free automobile rides and dinners in order to show prospective customers lots being sold on tracts throughout the city.

The members of the Realty Board told the committeemen the board is opposed to this method of selling real estate. The latter agreed to make a report to the Council recommending that the police and the City Prosecutor be instructed to enforce the ordinance.

FIXES BUILDING LIMIT.

"Set-back" Ordinance in Interest of Uniformity Is Enacted.

On motion of Councilman Mallard, the City Council yesterday enacted a so-called "set-back" ordinance to bring about a uniformity of buildings on streets of the city and prevent the erection of structures to the edge of property lines and out of alignment with other buildings on the street.

Under the ordinance the city may of its own motion or acting as a result of petitions from property owners, adopt a resolution of intention establishing a "set-back" line on any given street. Hearings are provided for to give both sides an opportunity to be heard before action is taken.

The City Council, when it takes action establishing the line, can instruct the Chief Inspector of Buildings to withhold the issuance of any permits for structures to be erected in violation of the set-back line established by the Council.

COUNCIL TO HEAR PROTESTS.

Protests against the assessment for the proposed opening and widening of Hill street, from Washington to Thirty-eighth Street, will be heard by the City Council at 10:30 a.m. on the 16th inst. A large number of protests from property owners have been filed with the City Council.

From Scepters to Golf Scores

Gold in Pharaoh's time—the material for crowns and scepters--for rings, arm bands and anklets. These, with a few others, such as coins, goblets, burnishings on thrones and idols, probably covered the scope of the ancient uses for the precious metal.

Imagine Pharoah looking into the gold jewelry cases of Brock and Company! There to behold such things as safety razor cases, golf score holders, automobile goggle cases, flasks, check-book holders—all made of 14-kt. gold!

Even in personal jewelry, there are probably a dozen items now to one in ancient times; while the present day uses of gold in making other beautiful things is far, far greater and superior than in olden Egypt.

Holiday shopping in Pharaoh's time certainly lacked much of the enthralling charm that comes from inspecting gifts such as you find in Brock and Company displays.

Car Service Curtailed

LAST Spring the Los Angeles Railway made application to the City Council for permission to install an automatic transformer station in the Melrose district to supply power necessary for street car service in the north and west sections of the city.

Due to the opposition of some people in that district, permission was refused. Thus the railway was blocked in its efforts to give improved service. It was blocked by some of the very people who had previously clamored for more cars and more speed.

The electrical equipment ordered for the proposed Melrose station was moved to Vernon, where it is now in operation.

This short-sighted opposition has produced a serious reaction upon the instigators and thousands of others.

During the windstorm Saturday there were two interruptions of power, one of 20 minutes and another of 46 minutes, when one of the high-voltage delivery lines of the Southern California Edison Company was put out of service. A heavy surge of power on the Edison lines, which came when service was restored, broke down the insulation on a transformer at the Los Angeles Railway Ardmore substation, 949 South Ardmore street, and put the machine out of service.

This has reduced the capacity of the Ardmore substation 60% and affects power conditions generally west of Vermont and between Adams street and Melrose.

If the Los Angeles Railway had not been blocked in its plan to install an automatic transformer station in the Melrose district, that work would have been completed and the accident Saturday would not have interfered with car service.

But as a result of the opposition it is now necessary to reduce service 10 percent in the morning and evening rush hours on the West Sixth, Western Avenue, Heliotrope, and Vernon and Vermont lines, until repairs can be made. This will take about two weeks with double and treble shifts on the work.

Patrons on the lines affected are urged to ride between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. unless it is absolutely necessary that they ride in the rush hours. The necessity for doing Christmas shopping NOW and shopping between the rush hours is increased by this emergency. Early shopping is imperative to prevent a traffic tie-up in the Christmas week.

General Manager Los Angeles Railway.

FAST WORK ON SHIP.

Caulkers of Harbor Concern Show Speed in Closing Seams.

The steam schooner Pacific sailed on schedule at noon yesterday with tight decks, thanks to an exceptionally efficient force of fourteen wood caulkers under a foreman from the Los Angeles Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Company. The men finished 3004 running feet in eight hours. Each caulker averaged nearly double what is considered to be a fair day's work in many ports.

PORT NOTES.

Aboard the Pacific Mail liner San Juan, which sailed from Los Angeles Harbor for Canal Zone ports yesterday afternoon were D. G. C. McNeil, British consul at Colima, Mexico, returning to his post, accompanied by Mrs. McNeil; F. A. May, manager of the Nicaraugua National Bank, and family returning to Corinto; Arthur P. McDevitt and wife on a pleasure trip from New York; Mrs. Rose Cappel and Mrs. Maria de Jesus Cappel, en route to Mazatlan to visit their brothers, owners of the Tug Boat Lighterage Co.; and Capt. George Bryant, master mariner, en route to Salima Cruz, where he is connected with the Sand Pump Dredger Co.

After being blown several miles off her course in the Catalina Channel Friday afternoon and thought for a time to have foundered, the sea-going tug Ruby-O, Captain Roy Hogan, owned by the Wilmington Transportation Co., was found at anchor in the lee of the Catalina Isthmus yesterday morning. The tugs Jimmie K and Vivo, and the passenger steamer Hermosa were dispatched to go out and search for the Ruby-O. The Vivo, in command of Capt. Harry Liesk, after making a complete circuit of the islands, found her at anchor partially disabled. Repairs were made with the assistance of the Vivo's crew and the Ruby-O proceeded to Avalon under her own power.

Word has been received in local shipping circles of the arrival at London, November 29, of the Dutch steamer Simaloer from the Pacific Coast with her steering gear disabled.

Advices from Jacksonville, Fla., state that the British steamer North American, from Valparaiso for New York, previously reported disabled at sea, arrived at that port with her tail shaft cracked. She is undergoing repairs there.

News of the sale in Australia of the wooden steamer Broxton, one of the two largest wooden vessels built for the United States Shipping Board, was received at Los Angeles Harbor yesterday. The Broxton is a product of the Puget Sound Bridge and Dredging Company's plant at Seattle. She sailed from Seattle for Australia with a cargo of lumber late in 1920 and upon her arrival in Australia financial difficulties overtook her owners, the National Oil Co. of Seattle and she was finally libeled by her officers and men for wages due. N. P. Bridge of Christchurch, N. Z., is her new owner.

The Cunard Line has announced the proposed re-establishment of its steamer service between Canadian and English ports. Five new oil-burning liners, from 13,000 to 16,700 tons in size, will alternate in the Canadian trade, it is said.

WRECKS OF POWER SCHOONERS FOUND.

ONE OF TWO CRAFT LOST AT SAN ROQUE MAY BE FROM HERE.

News brought to Los Angeles Harbor yesterday by Capt. A. F. Wright of the cannery tender Merriam, just in from San Quintin, Mex., that he sighted the wrecks of two sixty-foot power schooners near San Roque last Thursday has led to the belief in shipping circles that one of the unfortunate vessels may be the Narraganset, operating out of this port.

The Narraganset, with Capt. E. H. Hanson as master, has been operating on a general trading schedule between here and Ensenada for some time. S. C. Schaefer, an attorney, who is interested in that power schooner, was endeavoring late last night to get definite word concerning the identity of the wrecked vessels. The Narragansett carries a crew of five men in addition to her captain.

Belief that the other wrecked vessel may be the crack power racer Miss Liberty II of Detroit, now on her way around to the Pacific via the Panama Canal, was scoffed at by shipping men, who asserted that that boat cannot have reached the canal as yet. Miss Liberty II is owned by Humphrey Birge of Buffalo, N. Y.

Give the Gift of Worth

Gifts that soon perish are soon forgotten. Make your gift a lasting one.

The Full-Paid Investment Certificates of the State Mutual Building & Loan Association provide a method of giving that will be long remembered. In addition to their unchanging cash value, they provide an income of five per cent payable semi-annually. Thus the giving is renewed every six months and with it the sincere appreciation and gratitude of the recipient.

In times like these a gift of one of these Certificates is especially recommended. It is right in line with the idea of conservation. You conserve money instead of spending it for things that are not really necessary, and you place it where it will be of great benefit to others.

These Certificates are safe, simple and profitable. They are issued in denominations of $100 and can be quickly arranged for by mail or a personal visit to our offices.

ROMANCE IN DEATH TRIAL.

Love Letters Found in Belton Kennedy's Safe Deposit Box Read in Burch Case.

Love letters figured conspicuously in yesterday's session of the Burch murder trial in Judge Reeve's court. They were read to the jury by Dist.-Atty. Woolwine as coming from Madalynne Obenchain to J. Belton Kennedy, for whose murder Burch and Mrs. Obenchain were indicted.

J. D. Kennedy, father of the slain man, was on the stand and identified the letters as having been found by him in his son's safety deposit box in a local bank. The portion of the transcript containing the letters is, in part, as follows:

Dist.-Atty. Woolwine: It is Tuesday, the word "Tuesday" at top. (Reading:)

"Belton, dear heart: Please don't be discouraged. I will do everything to help. I read your note over and over. You say you will wire in the next few days and let me know about leaving. I do want to leave here at once for Los Angeles. If I go on G. F. next week can you come soon, my Belton? My life is utterly worthless without you. The loneliness sometimes seems to crush me. I can't sleep, my nerves are so restless. It seems as if I must start out walking towards you no matter how far. I feel as if I could walk there.

"My hand is very shaky—please pardon—I know you understand. This will reach you about May 28th or 30th. I want to leave on the first week in June. Wire me when you wish this week and I will leave immediately and wait for you here.

"Do you miss me? Do you love me just as much as you ever did? Please make sure. Maybe soon I can rest in your arms again.

"To the end, your

HER CHRISTMAS LETTER.

Mr. Woolwine (reading:) "Belton dear—It was most kind of you, Belton, to remember me on Christmas Day. I appreciate it and if it wasn't so late I'd write you pages of "thanks", and "other things," but I'm so sleepy I've been reading in bed and was very much surprised to find it is after 2 o'clock. I wonder where you are right now!

"On my way to my vocal lesson this afternoon I passed the Laughlin Building and I looked up to where you were supposed to be—but I'm afraid you were out shopping (as usual.)

"I want to tell you that I am much happier. I am only out here at last and no matter what is said I had the gods kindly holding my hopes still again. I'm so sorry I ever ashamed that I resorted to the methods of the "gutter sniper" and over lost my patience with you.

"I am half-asleep, dear Belton. I'll whisper good night to you so softly so it won't disturb you. I'll be——but I won't. You don't want up——

"MADALYNNE.

"P.S. Come and see me soon. I am home for you.

"M."

And the words "Thursday night."

RETURN TO FAMILY FUSS.

"Dear dear: Please, Belton, don't say this when you have read it. I will not 'forgive' you if you don't. It was impossible to talk to you over the phone tonight and afraid of calling you as I said I will talk to you this way. What in the world does your mother think? I'm certain I can never face her again. Truly, Belton, I am so sorry I kept you here so long. I had no idea of the time. I tried to convince mother that I had been called a long time when the phone rang, but she wouldn't "convince." Nevertheless she said very little and so much has happened since last night. I am sure she has no intentions of mentioning it to you. Consequently I think the wisest and best thing for you is not to refer to it in any way to her.

"It seems as if the last few days I have done just one thing after another that mother has disapproved of. Poor mother raved all day yesterday about my baby brother, and last night I thought it was the end of the world, it was awful, Belton, but we all managed to survive. Is it going to make it unpleasant for you at home if you come out here this week? Please tell me truly as much as I want to see you Belton, you mustn't, until your people feel all right about it (if they ever do.)

"I know there isn't any use in asking you what they said, but oh, I have a wonderful imagination, about every time I start imagining. I am so sorry Belton, and the next time I am going to hang a little clock over my left ear, and no matter how much it means to me to have you stay a little longer, I will let you go home early.

"I am going over to Lois, either Friday or Saturday, for dinner—perhaps you would rather call me there—if not, call here any day between 12 and 1. Then I'll answer the phone. Good-night, Belton, dear. Your proof of that tiny bit of love I spoke of isn't very encouraging, but my faith in you has a firmer foundation since last Friday, and I am much happier.

[Signed] "MADALYNNE."

And the words and figures are "6323 Pasadena avnue, November 20-6—" postmark on the envelope being People's Exhibit III. "Mr. J. Belton Kennedy"— no, the postmark is "Los Angeles, Cal., November 27, 2:30 p.m., 1917." The address, "Mr. J. Belton Kennedy, 416 Laughlin Building, Los Angeles, Cal."

"WHEN I HURT YOU — —"

"Belton, dear:

"It was kind of you to call up today, Belton, and I am very sorry I was not able to talk to you. There is nothing particularly wrong—only 'much' weariness, and a headache.

"I understand and realize so well how you feel and what an effort it is to be nice to people sometimes. When I felt hurt last year it was because I did not understand—but I believe I do now, and I appreciate your thoughtfulness of me very much. Good-night, dear Belton." Signed "Madalynne," and then the words, "November eighth."

The post mark on the envelope is "Los Angeles, Cal., November 8, 11 p.m., 1917." The address, "J. Belton Kennedy, 416 Laughlin Building, Los Angeles, Cal."

LONGS FOR BELTON.

Mr. Woolwine: At the top the word "Sunday." "Belton, dear: This has been such a lovely day for me. I haven't had to even speak to a soul. I left home early, leaving a note telling them I had gone away to spend the day." Let me have the envelope. It is marked here—I will read it now to the jury. "Long Beach, Cal., Nov. 5, 1917. Addressed to Mr. J. Belton Kennedy, 416 Laughlin Building, Los Angeles, Cal., and the letter itself is on the letterhead of the Hotel Virginia, Long Beach. (Continuing reading:)

"I left home early, leaving a note telling them I had gone away to spend the day. Morpheus was not kind to me last night. I was so glad and thankful for the dawn so I could get up and leave for anywhere just so I could be alone, but 'Sir Marcus' is with me and has given me a most enjoyable day. Thank you, dear, kind Belton, for giving my life a wee bit of food for thought which seems to satisfy a something within me, if only for a day. The sun has gone down and the perches are deserted except for you and me. You do seem very near and I would give—oh, let me see—I'd give five long years of life gladly if you were near—perhaps I couldn't talk, but, please, believe me, I would be so wondrously happy just to have you near.

"It is very dark and I will say goodnight to you. I promise not to ever let you see any foolish tears again. Please call me soon and I'll not run away only for a day or so now and then.

[Signed] "MADALYNNE."

"HAS HELL ON EARTH."

Mr. Woolwine (reading from the envelope:) People's exhibit No. 102. "Fessenden, N. D., May—" it looks like 29, "3 p.m., 1917," the address being "Mr. J. Belton Kennedy, Los Angeles, Cal., 416 Laughlin Building. (Reading:)

"Belton, Dear. When I returned from Minneapolis last Wednesday the only happiness that was awaiting me was a letter from you.

"Some believe we have one hell—"

Mr. Schenck: Our hell. "Some believe we have our hell on earth."

Mr. Woolwine (continuing reading:) "Some believe we have our hell here on earth and I will vouch for it because it's been just that for me since I returned up until last night—when I sold my interest here that I have with my uncle. It's a long story and to write it would be to live much of it over again, and as this is the first restful day that I've had since I left California you will understand I am sure why I give no details.

"I wish you were here looking from my windows with me—it is really most pleasing—that is a strange remark coming from me in North Dakota. I can see some very lovely young trees—whose leaves are half out and some fresh garden plots with green grass here and there—you seldom see a pretty lawn here. As I told you I am in a corner room—up high—and I can see way over these things for miles and miles across the prairies.

"I am looking toward California and wondering what you are doing. The sun is almost gone. I love to watch it for it is very, very beautiful. When the night time comes it has a tendency to always make it lonely for some congenial soul to talk with, or just to be near. But I'm happy tonight, because I know that I can surely return to Los Angeles, as far as any business is concerned. This may seem strange to you, but for awhile I thought it would be a long, long time before I could go back there, and it depressed me very much.

"Please, Belton, may I ask you not to tell mother I have sold, when I see you I will tell you why.

"My uncle is here, and a splendid nurse is with him. It makes it pleasant for me, as the nurse and I are most congenial, almost every night we skip out and go motoring after uncle has been tucked in his bed.

"I don't know, Belton, how long I will be here, but will stay until my uncle's condition has much improved. I have several invitations to visit Minneapolis and Chicago, but I can't decide what to do.

FEARS WAF SERVICE.

"In some ways I'd like to go to New York—whether I will or not—I don't know. It will depend whether first or second thought rules.

"Belton, I wish you could read what friends in New York have written me in regard to this war. Thousands of our boys are being shipped to France for training there, and it is not even known whether they arrive safely or not.

"If your accident had to happen to keep you from going, truly I am glad. It's not a lack of patriotism, Belton, it's simply that what a mother feels for her son is a bigger, finer feeling than all the patriotism in the world, and every true woman feels it for the men and boys of this country today.

"Mother wired here today to inquire if I was here, or perhaps she thought I was ill, so I wired her immediately. Yes, Belton it has been my failure not to understand her—but please believe me—I have tried very hard.

"The nurse and I are going to take some kodak pictures tomorrow—when they are finished I'll send you some so you can see what the village looks like.

"Remember me kindly to your mother and please do as she tells you about this war.

"Goodnight, Belton.

"Pleasant dreams of one who thinks of you very often.

[Signed] "MADALYNNE."

"May twenty-seventh."

HOME LIFE WAS LIKE HER JOB.

Woman Elevator Operator Had Ups and Downs in Both Places.

Fern Morris is an elevator operator. Besides having her ups and downs she also is married, which sometimes furnishes the same thrills. In any event she sued for divorce yesterday, charging cruelty. She says in her complaint, filed by her attorney, Carl P. Martin, that her husband beat her and threatened her life. In fact, his threats were so persistent she was forced to leave home, she charges.

The complaint recites that the couple were married in Sterling, Ill., Oct. 8, 1917. They separated the first of this month.

FATHER HEARS SON'S ROMANCE.

ecution says he rode to the scene of the crime, also was questioned again and he brought out that Burch had rented the same car on July 31 and on August 1, both times under the name of "J. L. Jones."

Lynn Keith, mechanic at Parsons Brothers, who observed Burch on the night of the murder, also was recalled. He said the defendant was not carrying anything when he rented the car, that his manner was not different when he returned that night from when he left at 7:30 p.m. These replies were in response to questions by Mrs. Eva De Mott, one of the women jurors.

ONE-HOUR ANSWER.

Mr. Carlson, under the cross-examination by Paul W. Schenck, chief of the defense counsel established a long-distance record for a single answer answer to a question. For more than an hour he told his reasons for believing a telegram sent to Mr. Kennedy had been written by Burch.

Mr. Schenck asked him to tell the jury everything that had caused him to form the opinion the questioned telegram was in the handwriting of Burch.

So long did the answer become that Dist.-Atty. Woolwine and the witness both called for help, figuratively speaking. The court at last interposed by calling the afternoon recess. When court reconvened, Mr. Kennedy, father of the slain man, was called to the stand.

During the cross-examination of Mr. Carlson, Mr. Obenchain obtained the telegrams previously introduced and, sitting by Clerk Ross's desk, quickly ran through them, pausing now and then to read one that aroused his interest.

The telegram on which the cross-examination was based was one signed "Madalynne" addressed to J. B. Kennedy in which it was stated, "Arived here today. Goodbye forever." This message was sent by Burch from Chicago, the prosecution contends, at the request of Madalynne Obenchain, while the latter was here shortly before the shooting of Mr. Kennedy.

Another specimen of writing identified by the witness as being that of Burch, was on an envelope containing five blank sheets of paper and postmarked Aug. 6 1921, the day after the murder. This letter, containing $80 in bills, was recovered among Mrs. Obenchain's mail by deputy sheriffs on the day Burch is declared to have fled eastward from Los Angeles.

BOTH SIDES PLAN BURCH CASE JOLTS.

State Expected to Explode Bomb; Defense to Spring Surprise Witness.

"Bombshell" testimony for and against Arthur C. Burch is expected to be produced by residents of Beverly Glen, where the J. Belton Kennedy cottage is located, it was learned last night.

The prosecution, it was intimated, hopes to prove that Burch, or a man resembling him, was seen in the glen the day before the murder, and that he asked where Mr. Kennedy's cottage was and later inspected the premises. This was not denied by the District Attorney's office.

"We are now running down this report," was the only comment there.

The defense is known to have found a new witness, who told a startling story in connection with the Kennedy cabin, and who is expected to overcome and place an entirely different construction on the testimony of some of the prosecution witnesses by whom the State will try to link Burch to the actual slaying.

"We have a new witness, but cannot disclose the nature of his testimony at this time. The jury will hear it," was the statement of Burch's attorneys on this subject.

Burch Denies He Quarreled With Father.

"There is absolutely no truth to the report that I have quarreled with my father in court today," Arthur C. Burch said at the County Jail last night.

"I had a personal conversation with him, discussing some private matters and discussing them with some interest, but I did not quarrel with father. Our relations are the same as they always have been. Please deny for me that there is any truth to this report."

FINDS MANY PUPILS HERE MALNOURISHED.

DOCTOR SAYS THIRD OF TOTS IN SCHOOLS OF CITY ARE UNDERWEIGHT.

Five hundred mothers, nurses and teachers were told at the Central Intermediate School last night that, of the 144,000 children registered in the Los Angeles school district, one-third are underweight, undernourished, or malnourished. Authority for this statement was Dr. William R. P. Emerson, M. D., of Boston.

Illustrating his statements with pictures of children brought to the Emerson Institute classes by parents in every walk of life, Dr. Emerson showed how disease adenioda and tonsils are responsible for malnutrition in about one-half of the cases brought to his attention and that a majority of the remainder were caused by lack of proper home control on the part of parents.

"It is not poverty that is responsible for so many of our children being underweight and badly devveloped," Dr. Emerson said. "On the contrary, it is found that even a greater proportion of the children of the rich and well-to-do suffer from the ills brought about by malnutrition than those of the so-called poorer classes."

Nearly 200 doctors, nurses and social workers are attending Dr. Emerson's daily classes at the Central Intermediate School.

CINEMA IN SCHOOLS.

Dr. Francis Says It Will soon Be Established Feature.

The United States is lagging behind Japan, Russia, and other countries in the matter of visual education, members of the Board of Education were told last night by Dr. J. H. Francis, former superintendent of Los Angeles city schools.

The importance of motion pictures and the stereograph as part of the school equipment was emphasized by Dr. Francis. The time is coming, he said, when each class room will be equipped with a set of stereoscopes and stereographic photos illustrating all subjects.

HELD ON GUEST'S CHARGE.

Charged with making threats to kill, E. E. Minner, a studio carpenter, was held at the County Jail last night in default of $5000 bail. The complaint against him was made by Mrs. Pearl Messenger, a guest in his household. Mrs. Messenger stated that when Minner came home last Sunday night and found that supper was not ready he pounced upon his wife. When Mrs. Messenger sought to assist Mrs. Minner the husband left the house with the threat that if they were there when he returned he would kill both, it is charged. His preliminary hearing will be held Friday.

Signaling is not the only safeguard necessary when you steer your automobile away from the curb.

You should make sure first that another automobile or street car is not approaching before you start your car.

When pulling onto a car track to pass a vehicle ahead always make sure that no car is approaching; many accidents result from failure to follow this practice.

In passing street cars at intersecting tracks be sure that the car is not going to turn; the front or rear end of the car may swing out and strike you.

Most of us know safety; what is wanted is to practice it.

When W. H. Alton and Martin Lynch, driving a large automobile bearing an Arizona license plate, passed another large touring car on North Broadway late yesterday afternoon they knew that they were driving at forty miles an hour, but they did not know that Councilman Wheeler was in the other automobile. Now they are both in the City Jail charged with suspicion of larceny and may be held on a more serious charge.

According to Driver F. C. Taylor of the City Council's automobile, he was taking Councilman Wheeler on official business yesterday afternoon on North Broadway when the other automobile flashed by at a high speed.

"This is No Accident Week," shouted Mr. Wheeler to Mr. Taylor, "those fellows are going to run into something. Stop them!"

After a chase of several blocks the fleeing automobile was overtaken and the two men arrested. At Central Police Station they were unable to explain who they are or where they got the automobile. They were then ordered held for investigation.

PERILOUS SABBATH.

With a total of eighty-eight accidents for the day, No Accident Week got off to a bad start Sunday.

Records compiled by the Police Traffic Bureau for last Sunday show seventy-three property-damage accidents, fifteen personal-injury accidents, and a possibility of more to be reported later.

Of the injured seven were pedestrians. One died several hours after having been injured. Two persons were injured while riding in street cars and eight while seated in automobiles.

Comparative figures show that on Sunday, November 27, one week before No Accident Week began, a total of eighty-three accidents was reported to the police. Of this number, fifty-nine were property-damage accidents. Twenty-four persons were injured.

PARADE CROWDS.

Capt. Cleveland Heath, in command of the traffic bureau, pointed out when he filed his report with Chief Jones, that while there were more accidents last Sunday than on the Sunday before, a large parade was staged, and huge crowds handled in the downtown district. He declared that the number of accidents would have been much lower if Marshal Foch had not attracted so many persons owning automobiles.

Capt. Heath also pointed out that the figures and totals show that while five more accidents were reported Sunday than a week before, only fifteen were injured, compared with twenty-four for the previous Sunday.

tors' action and learned of their statement only when it appeared in the press," he said.

The legislators themselves denounced the State executive for seeking to make a false issue by "his demagogic charge that he is fighting special interests."

"The Governor's office has issued a statement to the effect that those legislators who did not bow to the demands of the Governor and his advisers during the session of the Legislature—those who were not afraid to stand by their own opinions in defiance of either threats or promises from the Governor's office—were 'tools' of the Better America Federation," said Assemblyman T. Graves.

RAISES FALSE ISSUE.

"His charge is absolutely untrue and made only to raise a false issue behind which he can hide his own extravagance," continued Mr. Graves. "I have spent two terms in the Legislature and have never been solicited either by letter or representative from the Better America Federation."

The original statement of the members of the Legislature attacking the Stephens administration and urging the election next year of a Governor capable of effecting genuine governmental reforms was signed by State Senators and Assemblyman representing more than half the population in Southern California.

ON MANN ACT CHARGE.

Arrested in Sawtelle last night by Federal authorities, Gerald Ford was held on suspicion of having violated the Mann Act. It is charged that he transported Viola Tracey from Texas to Tucson, Ariz., and from that place to this city.

DESCRIBES WALK WITH HER SOUL.

Woman Suing Doctor for Balm Tells of Effect of Pills; Dreams of Hugs.

Turning from the sordid to the mystic the case of Geraldine McWhirter against Dr. Reginald S. Petter for $50,000 damages, which is in progress in Judge Houser's court, yesterday took on a dreamland aspect, for the plaintiff was on the stand and described what she says were her sensations "after she took little white pills," which, she asserted, Dr. Petter frequently gave her.

Living apart from her soul, walking in a great moss-grown forest with clouds beneath her feet, seeing brownies dancing on the petals of tulips and, lastly, observing a skeleton in a crystal clear lake were some of Mrs. McWhirter's experiences, she says.

When she first went to the office of Dr. Petter, she stated, she was given a "little white pill." After taking it she seemed to lose consciousness and she dreamed that Dr. Petter fondled her.

After she got to know the doctor better, she stated, she told him that she was going to see a clairvoyant and he warned her against coming under the spell of the fortune teller. He gave her a revolver, which, she says, he told her to use if she ever felt the man weaving a mystic spell about her.

On one occasion, she declared, she accompanied Dr. Petter to Bear Valley. When they arrived he gave her several white tablets and her soul drifted apart from her body, she testified.

Then, with her soul by her side, she walked out among giant trees with a carpet of moss and clouds beneath her feet and, she declared, she told Dr. Petter on her return "it was heaven." She said that Dr. Petter declared he had made an unusual experiment and that he had transferred her to heaven and back.

Mrs. McWhirter will resume the witness stand this morning and tell, it is stated, less of the ethereal and more of her mundane experiences with Dr. Petter.

WOMAN SHOOTS ELEVEN TIMES.

died and my sister, Mr. Albano's wife, also died. Mr. Albano then came to Los Angeles. About ten months ago I came here to attend the wedding of my niece. Four months ago Mr. Albano proposed that we marry and we did. I have five children by my first husband and Mr. Albano has two by his first wife.

"On October 28, two months after our marriage, Mr. Albano told me that he was going to the public market to buy some greenstuffs for dinner. He never returned. I reported the matter to the police and employed detectives, but could get no trace of my husband. A receiver was appointed for the property and we were to have opened his safety deposit box today.

"At just noon today Mumphrey or Leone appeared at my house and asked to see me. I knew that he had at one time been a partner to my husband and told him to come on upstairs. Once in the house he placed his hand on his hip pocket and demanded $500 and my jewelry. He stated that if I did not give him the home he would kill me the same way he had killed my husband. I grabbed my revolver and began to shoot. He tried to run, so after one revolver was empty I seized another and killed him on the steps of my house."

Capt. Heath and a squad of detectives who took Mrs. Albano's statement, and who also questioned all the children and the niece and father-in-law declared late yesterday that they believe the story told by the woman in so far as it relates the killing of Leone. They say, however, that Mrs. Albano knows more of the trouble between her husband and the man she slew.

A bitter Italian feud, probably beginning when Albano and Leone severed partnership, is blamed by the investigating officers for the strange disappearance of Albano, for his possible death, for the efforts to secure his property, valued at over $25,000, and for the attempt to blackmail Mrs. Albano yesterday.

If Albano can be located, or if his body is found, the investigating police say much of the mystery can be cleared up. If friends of Leone can be located and if they will talk, the police say a solution of the affair may be reached.

But while holding a dozen disconnected clews to one of the strangest cases on the police records, Capt. Heath late last night declared that unless some one talks nothing can come of a prosecution of Mrs. Albano and the whereabouts or body Albano will never be discovered.

Had Drug Store.

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 5.—M. G. Leone, killed today in Los Angeles, came to San Bernardino last January, and in partnership with H. Gentiline, opened a drug store at 597 Mt. Vernon avenue. Leone spent but little time here, leaving the business largely to his partner. His home was at 1719 Twenty-fourth street, Los Angeles, where his daughter Lena resides. She is understood here to be his only close relative, his wife being dead.

Leone left San Bernardino Sunday to spend the week with his daughter, in Los Angeles, she having arranged a birthday party for Thursday. He was little known outside the Italian colony here.

It is stated here that Leone and Albano were formerly partners in business on Thirty-sixth street, Los Angeles, but that Leone sold out to Albano a year ago because they could not agree.

TWO INJURED WHEN MACHINES COLLIDE.

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENTURA, Dec. 5.—When cars driven by Warren Galvin of Fillmore and Thomas Meilandt of Ventura, both well known in the county, came together, both men were badly hurt and their cars wrecked. Galvin was removed in an unconscious condition to the Bard Hospital.

Meildant says Galvin's car swung otu and struck his machine.
